WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy A4 Skyhawk jet warplane crashed into the Atlantic Ocean off North Carolina on Friday after being struck by a missile lired by a Marine Corps aircraft. The Navy pilot

parachuted to safety.

Capt. James Pendergast, a public affairs officer at the Cherry Point, N.C., Marine Air Station, said the Marine F4 fighter plane had fired at a pilotless, radar-operated drone target plane, but the heat-realing miscal and instead struck the Navy seeking missile missed and instead struck the Navy

A spokesman at the Navy's Atlantic Fleet head-quarters in Norfolk, Va., said the Marine and Navy aircraft were taking part in a joint exercise. A Marine spokesman said he didn't know what the Navy plane was doing in the area.

Marine Capt. James Pendergast of the Cherry Point base, said the Navy plane crashed "as the result of an unarmed projectile going through the aircraft." The pilot of the Navy A4, Lt. Jerome A. Petykowski, 30, of Chicago, ejected safely and was picked up by a Marine helicopter.

Carter picks defense team

WASHINGTON-President-elect Jimmy Carter has selected the team of people for top national security positions but is still sorting out which candidate will fill which job, a top aide said Friday. Greg Schneiders, Carter's appointments secretary, told reporters that Carter had settled on roughly half a dozen persons for the top four or five jobs at the Defense Department, Central Intel-ligence Agency, National Security Council and State Department.

Carter seems increasingly certain to name Zbigniew Brzezinski of Columbia University as national security adviser and Harold R. Brown, president of Cal-tech, as secretary of defense, according to sources in contact with Carter, Vice President-elect Walter Mondale and their objections had been raised to Brzezinski on grounds that he might be too vigorous a policy advocate for the national se-curity post, Carter wanted someone in that post with whom he felt comfortable and familiar. The two men have known each other for several years, and Brze-zinski helped prepare some of Carter's foreign policy speeches during the cam-

But Brzezinski said that he had not been offered the post, and Schneiders and others in the Carter camp said that the president-elect had not yet disclosed his choices to anyone and probably would not

They pictured Carter as shuffling several leading candidates among the top foreign policy jobs, searching for the proper combination. Several of the candidates have properly told foreign the dates have privately told friends that Carter explored several different job possibilities with them.

Among those being considered for the defense post along with Brown, Carter sources said, were James R. Schlesinger, former secretary of defense and director of the CIA, and Paul C. Warnke, former assistant secretary of defense and now a Washington lawyer.

Conservatives have generally backed Schlesinger, and liberals have favored Warnke, Some other Carter sources said the selection of Schlesinger, who has made a very favorable impression on Carter, seemed unlikely because of his skepticism toward detente with the Soviet Union and because of Carter's public Union and because of Carter's public messages to the Soviet leaders that he wished to pursue a strategic arms agreement with Moscow.

But Carter sources said that if Schlesinger and Warnke were passed over for the defense post, they were under consideration for other jobs, including CIA

Much the same situation, Carter sources said, affects the cluster of eco-nomic jobs. The leading contenders for treasury secretary, Carter sources said, were W. Michael Blumenthal, chairman of the Bendix Corp.; Robert V. Roosa, former undersecretary of treasury and now with Brown Brothers Harriman of New York, and Charles Schultze, former budget director in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

A number of Carter aides were known to favor Blumenthal as a progressive-minded business executive with a good reputation among labor circles as well as with the business community. Roosa has a more conservative financial reputation and greater support in the financial community, these sources

10,000 flee cloud of poisonous gas

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A leaking tank at a chemical refinery spewed out a 42-mile-long cloud of poisonous gas Friday, prompting the evacuation of 10,000 persons before the leak was choked off

"The threat is over," Commissioner of Administration Charles Roemer said late Friday night.

Some gas still escaped the chlorine tank at the Allied Chemical Co. plant here, but the lethal chemical was neutralized by a spray of water as it emerged, Roemer said.

THE YELLOW-GREEN cloud that escaped earlier was dissipating in the

Roemer said some smell might remain in areas passed by the cloud, but that no lethal concentrations remained in

At the same time, he went on, "the future of world peace and perhaps the survival of humanity depends on whether, in relations between East and West, we can find a solution to our problems and a code of restraint lest we slide again, as has happened so often in history, to a series of miscalculations to seek the accumulation of marginal advantages and into, perhaps, an drimaginable catastrophe."

Registration fee

If I remember correctly, the annual registration fee for the new automobile I purchased in 1972 decreased each year while I owned it. But the fee for the new car I bought in 1974 has remained the same for the last three registration periods. Has the law setting the fees changed? W.H., Los Alamitos.

No, but the state's changeover to the year-round license renewal system has resulted in some motorists paying the same rate more than once. A spokesman for the California Department of Motor Vehicles said that when you bought the car in 1974, you probably paid the license charge for only part of the year, which gave you a lower initial fee. The following year, the state started the changeover and motorists were given staggered registration periods of from 7 to 18 months. Although the assessed value of your ear decreased that year, the length of your registration period was such that the license fee remained the same. Motorists who have to renew their 1977 registration between July and December of this year will have their fees based on their cars' 1976 values and they are paying the same fee as last year. Your next renewal fee will be less because everyone will then have 12-month registration periods and the standard assessment procedure will be used. The DMV decreases a car's assessed value each year for nine years and thereafter the motorists is charged the mininum fee. The first year, the fee is 2 per cent of 85 per cent of the car's value; in the ninth year, the fee is based on 5 per cent of the value. For cars purchased in California, the DMV's value figure is the bas sticker price plus the destination charge and only the costs of smog equipment an any accessories installed by the dealer. If a car is purchased outside the state, the value is based on the total purchase price.

The financially troubled company is negotiating with several firms for a cash transfusion but, at this writing, nothing was finalized, according to a spokes-man. There is not enough money to pay you and other former employees now. If the negotiations are successful, you may be paid shortly after the reorganization is completed, he said. If the firm is forced into bankruptcy, you may receive your back pay eventually — the firm apparently has assets — but it will take a long time. In such a bankruptcy proceeding, administrative and legal fees are paid first, secured creditors such as mortgage holders second, taxes third and unpaid wages forth. Then any remaining assets are distributed among the rest of the general creditors. As you have already filled for the wages with the labor commissioner, there is little else you can do now but wait and see what

Independent study

Since my father's death in 1975, I have received Social Security benefits because I'm under 22 years of age and I attend college full time. Next semester I would like to attend school through the independent sludy program operated by the University of California at Berkeley. Under this program, the assignments are done through the mail. Grades and units are given, but the university allows students up to one year to com-plete the courses and the school says it cannot specify how many units constitutes full-time status. The people I've talked to at Berkeley and the Social Security Administration haven't been able to tell me if I can collect benefits under this home study program and if so, how many units I must take to be eligible for payments. Can Action Line find out? M.B., Long Beach.

Since UC Berkeley does not certify its independent study students as full or part-time enrollees, you can't collect benefits under that program. Social Security regulations state that a person must be classified as a full-time student by his school to receive benefits. Under most conventional college programs, 12 units is considered full time, but "since students in the independent study program have up to a year to complete their courses, we can't classify a person who's taking 12 units as full time. We don't have a specific full-time classification," said a spokesman for UC Berkeley. A student may receive benefits while enrolled in a home study program if the courses are offered by an accredited college or university and the school classifies the student as full time.

The most detailed theory to emerge Friday was that the mummy was the body of Elmer McCurdee, once known as "the outlaw who wouldn't be taken alive." He was re-portedly shot by a posse' near Oklahoma City in cents to peer at McCurdee, Sonney said.

The corpse subsequently languished in a warehouse when Sonney's father died. The whole traveling show was purchased in 1949 by a Chinese gentleman, Sonney said, and he lost track

Dave Friedman, president of Entertainment Ventures Inc. of Los Angeles, also identified the body as McCurdee on Friday. Friedman said his firm acquired it, kept it in

A second, less detailed theory was advanced Friday that the mummy is man who was shot off his horse and killed in 1901 in Long Beach. Neither the man nor his killer were ever identified and the body subsequently disappeared. This suggestion was advanced by Rufus Campbell of Visalia, a former resident of Long Beach. He was living as a youth in the area when the shooting took place.

The Long Beach Police Department was organized in 1908, so no records of the shooting exist.

New bill would block parole for Calif. death-row residents

SACRAMENTO — Present residents of San Quentin Prison's death row would have their sentences changed to life imprisonment without possibility of parole, if legisla-tion introduced Friday by Assem-blyman Alister McAlister becomes

McAlister, D-San Jose, said he was introducing his bill, AB 37, because of the California Supreme Court decision earlier this week invalidating the state's death-penalty statute.

Without his bill, McAlister said. the 67 persons awaiting execution will be eligible for parole when the California court ruling becomes final Jan. 6, 30 days after the court's unanimous decision Dec. 7.

The court ruled then that the California statute was unconstitu-tional because it did not conform to U.S. Supreme Court guidelines handed down last July. The state law requires imposition of the death penalty when juries find that certain, specified circumstances existed at the time a killing occur-

But the federal court held that juries should also be allowed to consider what it called mitigating circumstances involving the offense or the person convicted of committing the offense.

"In 1972, when the California Supreme Court threw out the then supreme Court threw out the their existing death penalty law. 107 murderers on death row were made eligible for parole," McAlister said. "Since then four for those murderers have been paroled."

The 67 killers now on death row, and all others convicted until a new capital punishment statute is in effect, will become eligible for parole seven years after their conviction, he said. His bill, he said, "is not meant as a substitute for the death penalty. In fact, I plan on either introducing or supporting legislation to restore a constitutionally enforceable death penalty in Cali-

"The will of the people of the State of California has been clearly expressed; they overwhelmingly approve the death penalty.'

McAlister referred to an initiative on the 1972 ballot which, in effect, endorsed the concept of capital punishment. It was approved by a substantial margin.

MeAlister said AB 37 would require a sentence of life without possibility of parole for persons convicted of first-degree murder if it is determined that the "special circumstances," cited in the death penalty statute, are found to have

It could apply to prisoners now awaiting execution, he said, if it were signed into law before Jan. 6. But, he acknowledged, enactment of AB 37 by that time "is extremely unlikely."

His bill, he said, would be a stop-gap measure for use in future prosecution until a new deathpenalty statute is enacted.

Parts of a controversial state transportation plan that envision tolls on free-ways and a "smog tax" based on vehicle emissions have been vetoed by Gov. Brown's administration.

In a letter dated Thursday, Director of Transportation Adriana Gianturco and her boss, Business and Transportation Secretary Donald Burns, ordered the State Transportation Board to revise the most controversial elements of the plan.

They said they had reviewed the controversial plan with Brown and 'fundamental changes' must be made before the Democratic governor would accept it. In particular, all elements of the plan which increase taxes were ordered restudied.

"In the absence of clear and compelling need, we cannot support any general increase in the level of taxation," the letter said which the Gianturco-Burns letter now criticizes is 'full social accounting" of transportation costs.

That was a line of reasoning opposed by the highway lobby by which "hidden costs" of freeways such as loss of land from the tax rolls and air pollution costs are added in theoretical calculations to actual construction costs of freeways. That made the costs of some public mass transit systems appear in a better light. "If 'full social accounting' is to be accepted as a principle, it must be defined precisely and take into consideration the full range of benefits, as well as full range of costs, in the decision about any particular transportation investment," the letter said.

The letter, written on Ms. Gianturco's stationery with Burns adding "I concur" and his signature helow that of Ms. Gianturco, was addressed to W.R. Lucas of Healdsburg, chairman of the State Transportation Board.

"We have reviewed the document with the governor and have several major concerns about the plan as it is now written. Fundamental changes in these areas must be made if the plan is to reflect the policy of the administra-tion," they wrote.

The letter was drafted after three days of off-and-on meetings with Brown.

By RON ROACH

SACRAMENTO (AP) -A California energy com-missioner said Friday the state should approach an unpredictable energy future by stressing conservation and competing with private industry for federal funds.

Gene Varanini also said the state should settle the debate over solar energy by proposing a $1-billion bond issue for solar and wind-power projects and seeing whether utilities and consumers used them.

Varanini, chairman of the commission's committee on policy overview for the biennial energy report to the governor, said the energy picture is so clouded with doubt that the state should adopt a strategy hedging against uncertainties in supply and demand.

"The commission lacks any confidence in our or anybody else's view of the future," Varanini said in opening remarks at a hearing on a draft of the policy plan.

"The events of the last few years stand as eloquent testimony to the principle that demand is uncertain, that the availability and cost of both resources and technology are problematical, even

The Energy Commis-sion's first biennial report to the governor next month is supposed to include forecasts of energy supply and need for the next 20 years.

Varanini said conserva-tion should be the corner-stone of the "hedging strategy" that avoids dependence on single-resource technologies, resources risky because of federal or foreign regulation, or inflexible, expensive schemes with far-off returns. He also suggested:

—A $1-billion bond issue to make state funds available to construct solarand wind-driven power plants. The plants could be sold to utilities.

"If solar or wind power turned out to be too expensive, even including a credit for environmental benefits, then the program could be terminated, the 'great solar debate' resolved. If they are costeffective, we are all much better off

Senate dean takes on agony-ecstasy' post chairman appointments announced by the Rules

SACRAMENTO (AP) -State Senate dean Albert Rodda was named chairman of the Senate Finance Committee Friday and described the post as an "agony and ecstasy."

Rodda, a Sacramento Democrat chosen by the five-member Rules Committee, added, "I think in this case there is more agony than ecstasy.

As chairman of the committee in the 1977-78 session, Rodda will preside over hearings on all money bills introduced in the Legislature and play a central role in writing the state budget.

Rodda, an 18-year veteran of the upper house, was the compromise choice after a strug-gle between two Senate Democrats, Alfred Alquist of San Jose and Nicholas Petris of Oakland.

Furthermore, the therapy is less severe, with fewer side effects than in most other hospi-

"Only one other group had results nearly as good, and that was Me-morial Hospital, the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York, said Dr. Lusher, who has just returned from an American Society of Hematology meeting in LEUKEMIA is cancer of the blood. The malignancy starts in the bone marrow where all blood cells are manufactured. Twenty years ago virtually all children with leukemia died, usually within weeks of contracting the disease.

Researchers have been slowly closing in on leuke-mia, says Dr. Lusher. There are now approximately 25 drugs which have been found to be effective in killing malignancies in the bone mar-

More recently, Dr. Lusher says, blood replacement products have become available to help children through the difficult early phases of leukemia. Children are now given transfusions of white blood cells or blood platelets to aid them in fighting infections and to restore the clotting ability of the blood.

The leukemia therapy at Children's is a combination of four drugs and relatively low dosages of radiation

The drugs kill malig-nant cells in the blood and in the bone marrow, but they are ineffective in killing those which have spread to the central nervous system — the brain and spinal cord. The pur-pose of the radiation is to kill the central nervous system leukemic cells.

Dr. Lusher said the hospital's reliance on smaller doses of radiation given in several different treatments is the reason for their success.

'Most of the other centers are using a single massive dose of radiation, about 2,500 rads," she said. "Our dose is only 100 rads, and we are getting fewer side effects."

IN 1972, when Dr. Lusher began the new treatment and started keeping records, it was not possible to identify children with T-cell leukemia - a form of the discase striking 10 to 15 per cent of those with leukemia, in which survival chances are poor.

When children with Tcell leukemia are excluded from the records the remission rate climbs to 77 per cent. Before 1972 the remission rate was only 32 per cent, and other centers around the country are reporting rates of approximately 50 per cent. The treatment at Children's Hospital was developed by Dr. Lusher; Dr. Wolf W. Zuelzer, chief of laboratory medicine; Dr. Y. Ravindranath, hematologist, and Dr. Basil Considine, radiotherapist. All are on the faculty at Wayne State

Getting over 'the baby blues'

By RICHARD FLASTE

NEW YORK - Sometimes the people who might look as though they'd make the best par-ents, because they're so full of educated know-how, are the saddest after the baby is born. They come down with the notorious "baby blues." and the melancholy quiet is broken only by the baby's crying—or the mother's.

The baby blues are said to strike a great many mothers and some fathers, but how blue one gets and how long the sadness lasts varies widely.

QUESTIONS arise about what causes it. Emotions? Hormones? And there are questions about how to handle it, and about when it crosses the boundary of normal unhappiness and enters the realm of severe disor-

Anna Katz Brenner, a Manhattan psychotherapist who runs a program called Check-Up for Emotional Health that frequently deals with postpartum depression, observes that her clients often seem to have put too much pressure on themselves. They know so much, they intend to be so competent.

She recalls a woman who taught nursery school, was proud of her ability with children and then was shaken to the roots when she had her own child. She could not handle every situation that arose with the intelligence she thought she should muster, and her fragile self-esteem was shattered. The woman sought relief in therapy.

IN CASES that are even more painful, postpartum depression has been disorders in the first year after pregnancy.

Most people do not experience anything nearly so terrible. Depending on how emotionally prepared to have a baby the parents were, and how firm their feelings about themselves are, the specialists say, baby blues is usually a transitory period of melancholy that may come in the form of waves of sadness. What causes it is not known for certain. Dr. Myrna M. Weissman, a Yale University psychia-trist, said that, so far, there is no proof that hormonal changes at the time of childbirth play a role, though she did not rule out that possibility.

UNLIKE depression associated with menstrua-tion, for which researchers have found little consistent proof. sadness after having a baby does come with prov-able regularity.

Dr. Gideon G. Panter, an obstetrician who wrote "Now That You've Had Your Baby, Do You Know (McKay, $9.95), speculated the other day that often the blues might be a matter of "mourning for the death of the old you, the person you used to be, the happy-go-lucky career woman. It passes, he said, as the baby is put into perspective, and as "you realize that you're basically the same person, who knows how to have a good time, knows how to relate to your spouse, and knows she has the same ability to relate to a career.'

Fathers can feel down in the dumps, too, he said. They reflect the sadness of their wives and grieve for themselves, longing for that carefree fellow who did not have to provide for a child's future.

Others who have looked into the subject conjecture that a father often suffers because he feels he has lost his place in the sun to the new child. Some authorities point to the increased desire of fathers to do some traditional mothering chores.

THIS THEN makes a man vulnerable to the same anxieties that a woman feels over ability to handle the job, the same exhaustion, the same letdown when he finds that he loves the baby less than he expected to, and is angrier with the child than he thought he would be.

The depression persists for at least two weeks; it disturbs sleep, appetite is diminished; there is a sense of hopelessness and helplessness, perhaps a wish to die, or that the child had never been born.

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) The rate of suicide among children in their grammar school years, generally thought of as a person's most carefree and happy times, is in-creasing at an alarming ate, a Boston-area child sychiatrist says.

Why do children from 6 to 11 want to take their

Women plan to lobby for birth pay law

By KEITH LOVE

MEW YORK - "We combed out in court, so we'll have to go to Con-gress,'' said Kathleen said Kathleen eratis of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Angered and somewhat affled by the Supreme Court ruling on Tuesday hat private employers may refuse to compensate women for work absences caused by pregnancy, the ACLU and various women's groups and union representatives will meet in Philagelphia Tuesday to plan a major lobbying effort for a national law that would require such compensation.

THERE has been a sudden flash of recognition among people who had not expected this decision that a law is the only way to guarantee these benefits," Miss Peratis said. "I think the prospects are good now that the court has ruled, because the ruling is simply not fair and it's bad public policy."
The court's 6-3 decision

rejected the finding of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that exclusion of pregnancy from workers' compensation plans violated Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The decision, which involved the General Electric Co., shocked women's organ-izations that had been basing their light for benefits on the commission's interpretation of the rights act.

We had not pushed hard enough for state or national legislation," said Noreen Connell of Women Office Workers. "We were waiting to see what the Supreme Court would do.

"I THINK this is what you would expect from an all-male Supreme Court." Miss Connell said.

"Sex discrimination is money. The companies are concerned mainly about what they think it will cost to continue to pay women who are on leave to have babies. I don't think they trust women workers; they say that women will go on disability and then quit. But their higgest claim is that pregnancy is voluntary and thus shouldn't be covered. But that's a false issue."

That pregnancy is often voluntary is a central argument of those who do not want to see benefits extended to pregnant women, according to Marilyn Brook, a licensed workmen's compensation representative who argues cases before the New York State Compensation Board.

"I've heard it said that we live in a time of the pill, of birth control, and that pregnancy is more than ever a voluntary condition," Miss Brook said. "But I think the more important issue is what this will mean to women wanting to enter the work force. I think the fact that they may not be able to get benefits if they are pregnant may discourage them from working at all."

Saltzman, 37, who spe-cializes in treating youngsters who attempt suicide said the most frequent occasion for a childhood suicide attempt is a death in the family, or a separation, or an argument with a loved one.

One signal of possible suicide in a child, Saltzman said, is depression, an ailment that psychiatry did not recognize in chil-dren until about 10 years

Depression in children, he said, can show as hyperactivity, a failure to make friends, poor school performance and hypochondria. Among 10- and II-year-olds it might show up as delinguency, vandaldivorce and separation and emotional disorders such as alcoholism and depression among parents also affect young chil-dren's behavior, Saltzman

"We've come a long way from thinking it's all the parents' fault. What we're trying to figure out is to what degree is the child predisposed to depresssion," he said.

Saltzman said a recent clinical study he did — based on his own experience and that of his colleagues — showed that about 75 suicides of preadolescents were reported in 1973, the last year his study covered. That figure could be compared to a total of three in 1958, he said.

Among the general population, the number of suicides increased from 13,500 in 1958 to about 25,- statistics were available, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that 25,683 Americans killed themselves

The official figures for suicide among pre-adolescent children, Saltzman said, don't begin to tell the story.

Bereaved families are often more concerned about concealing a child's suicide than an adult's. And many suicides of children - such as death by drowning or automobile accident - are classified as accidental deaths,

The methods by which a youngster tries to end his or her life follow adult sexual stereotypes, according to Saltzman, Boys choose more violent methods such as hanging; girls choose pills, invariably the pills of "a loved one — the person she wanted to no-

Subtitles for TV to aid deaf OKd

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Federal Communications Commission gave a go-ahead Friday for captioning television programs on the TV screen so hearing-impaired people can enjoy the programs more fully

A system called "closed captioning" will be used, in which only viewers with special attachments on their sets can see the captions. Thus, it will not distract other viewers.

But the commission wouldn't go as far as asked by the Public Broadcasting Service and reserve a portion of the TV screen solely for such captioning.

The FCC said it wanted to leave the way open for possible future use of the same portion of the screen during non-caption periods for such things as weather information, news and stock market reports for all viewers.

PBS has been experimenting with captioning for more than two years.

Television set makers and commercial broad-casters had urged the FCC to delay granting PBS's request to allow for more testing. They questioned whether enough people would be willing to pay for the decoders or whether broadcasters would pay the cost of encoding programs.

The FCC heard conflicting estimates of the costs—from $100 to $300 for a decoder, $30,000 to $50,000 for an encoder and from $1,000 to $3,400 an hour for encoding programs.

WEAPONS FOUND in bunkers in the desert near Lancaster are examined by sheriff's department aide. Nazi and other right-wing propaganda leaflets were found Friday at the home of a suspect in

Nazi literature linked to find of 8-ton arms cache in desert

By ROGER GILLOTT

Nazi and other right-wing "hate" literature was found at the home of a man linked to eight tons of munitions found in his yard and in desert bunkers, Los Angeles Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess said

Pitchess said munitions found at the Ontario home of Donald Wiggins, 41, include machine guns, mortars, an antitank bazooka and ammunition.

"There is enough to equip a 200man company of military person-nel," Pitchess said.

THE SHERIFF said it was possible the munitions were col-lected from military installations and stored by a large number of people in preparation for some sort of revolutionary eampaign. He said those responsible must be "insane revolutionaries."

Wiggins was booked Friday morning for investigation of pos-sessing destructive devices and machine guns, after leading investigators to the material, cached at his home and a foundry he owns in nearby Pomona.

Pitchess said investigators also found large amounts of anti-Jewish,

Nazi and anti-Communist propa-ganda at his home, along with protective equipment, food and survival supplies.

Military officials were cooperating in the investigation, he said.

Pitchess said Wiggins had told investigators he was not responsi-ble for the stowing of the material in the desert, at his home or foundry, and that a man named Jeff Martin had acquired and

PITCHESS said he did not yet know who Martin was, but deputies investigating the Ontario cache said the man they are seeking had given Wiggins $17,000 in $20 bills. supposedly as a loan to help fi-nance the foundry.

"We are assuming that the name (Martin) is correct and that he (Wiggins) is not trying to establish a fall guy," said Sheriff's Del. Ron Moya, adding, "We are not totally satisfied with what he said. There are several conflicts, but we think he's trying to make a clean breast of it.'

Wiggins told investigators he had been acquainted with Wesley Swift, the founder of the revolutionary Christian Defense League, Pitchess said, adding, however, that Wiggins also told them he had broken with Swift before Swift's death a few years ago.

The National Socialist White People's Party, also known as the American Nazi Party, was active in Ontario two years ago with at least four Nazi houses decorated with swastikas and other such trademarks, one area resident said. One of the houses was located in Wiggins' neighborhood. However, there was no immediate connection discovered between Wiggins and the party.

WIGGINS' mother, Edna Methe, said, "My son's politics, if anything, are right-wing.

She offered this explanation for her son's predicament:

A friend of her son's named Jeff Martin, of Los Angeles, loaned her son $17,000 in 1974 to finance his foundry in Pomona, and asked to store some containers. He has returned intermittently to store more drums and canisters.

Her son accidentally knocked over one of the canisters two weeks ago, opened it, found what he believed were machine gun parts, and

Hughes' aide won't say where recluse got drugs

By WALLACE TURNER
New York Times Service

SAN FRANCISCO . One of Howard R. Hughes' longtime aides and companions, John Holmes, invoked his right not to in-criminate himself Friday vhen he was asked where the late recluse got drugs to treat a kidney ailment, according to sources present at the deposition in the Los Angeles County Courthouse.

This came within days after disclosure that a soon-to-be-published book, based on the stories of two of Hughes' personal servants, will picture the billionaire as injecting himself with some unknown, clear substance in a hypo-

Holmes, 60, who is a vice president of the Summa Corp., Hughes' holding company, was questioned under oath in pretrial discovery proceedings in preparation for a will contest that begins Jan. 10 in Las

The will at issue is the one found last spring in a vacant office in the Mormon Church world head-quarters in Salt Lake City. It has been denounced by Hughes' associates and members of his family as a forgery.

In another aspect of the discovery proceedings, it was disclosed Thursday that Melvin Dummar, a Willard, Utah, filling station operator who is named as a beneficiary in the will, is under investigation by the Nevada attorney general's office in connection with the suggestion that the will was forged.

DUMMAR was questioned in a deposition on Tuesday and was asked if he had read two books about Hughes from the library of Weber State College at Ogden. According to sources present at the session, he said he had not used that library and bad never seen the books, un-less someone had handed them to him.

The books were "Hoax" by Clifford Irving, who described how he fooled so many people with his false autobiography of Howard Hughes, and "Howard Rughes in Las Vegas" by Omar Garrison, a book devoted to describing Hughes' four years living not read them. in the Desert Inn in Las

It was in that period, according to Dummar, that he picked up Hughes as the wealthy recluse walked alongside a remote highway in Nevada. The will that makes Dummar a beneficiary of one-six-teenth of the Hughes estate is dated in March 1968, when Hughes lived in the Desert Inn.

ACCORDING to Paul Freese, a lawyer who questioned him on Tuesday, Dummar denied seeing the books. But on Wednesday, after being told that the Nevada authorities had removed the books from the Weber State College library, Dummar went back to the deposition session where his wife was being questioned. Freese said Dummar asked to reopen the questioning and to explain that he now remembered that he had been to the library and had handled the books, although he had

Freese represents rela-tives of Hughes from his father's side, and it is to their interest that the will be found invalid. Hughes' mother's relatives have also called it a forgery.

The position of Hughes' employes, such as Holmes, has been to attempt to avoid being questioned, and it was only when Holmes was threatened by a contempt order that he finally appeared for questioning under oath.

The initial phases of his questioning were finished last month, but the parts dealing with Hughes' mental and physical condition, as Holmes observed them, had been put over until Friday.

This was so that the questions that Holmes refused to answer could quickly be put to Probate Judge Neil Lake, who could rule on them. Judge Lake ordered Holmes to answer the question about Hughes' supply of drugs for his kidney ailment.

BUT WHEN Holmes cited his constitutional right against self-incrimi-nation, Judge Lake said he could order an answer only after a long hearing.

The matter was deferred. Holmes was one of six men who were called executive aides to Hughes and who lived with him, on eight-hour shifts, 24 hours a day for more than a decade.

In the book, "Howard Hughes — The Hidden Years" by James Phelan, Gordon Margulis, one of the servants of Hughes who is a source of anecdotes in the book, is quoted as saying he saw Hughes attempt to to inject himself with a clear liquid. Hughes was too weak to depress the plunger on the hypoder-

S. Korea CIA chief in U.S. is persuaded to return to Seoul

By RICHARD HALLORAN
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON - The South Korean government has won a struggle for the loyalty of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency's Washington station chief, Maj. Gen. Kim Yung Hwan, who has been persuaded to return to Seoul, authoritative Korean sources said

But the Korean government has been unsuccessful in luring home another senior KCIA officer, Kim Sang Keun, who defected here and remains in the hands of the FBI despite an appeal from his younger brother who came from Seoul to plead with him, the Korean sources

THE Koreans said that Kim left Washington for Seoul Thursday with his family. He had been ordered to return, along with most of the 25 other KCIA officers in the U.S., to avoid being questioned by federal agents.

The FBI is gathering evidence for the Justice Department to present to a grand jury on allega-tions that South Korea mounted a five-year operation to bribe U.S. congressmen, and undertook illegal lobbying to get the Congress to favor Korean interests. Although the KCIA officers who were posted in the Korean embassy here and in consulates around the country had diplomatic immunity. they could voluntarily submit to questioning. To refuse to do so might be taken as a sign that something was amiss.

KIM, AS the station chief, was the target of an intense appeal by Korean opponents of President Park Chung Hee living in America. They wanted him to defect, as that would have discredited Park's government and undermined his domestic political position. Federal officials also let it be known that they would be receptive to a defection even though they were not able, under diplomatic protocol, to make an open plea. Kim was considered to have evidence that might have aided the investigation into bribery.

But it appeared that Kim was not so important as Kim Sang Keun, who defected two weeks ago and is said to be cooperating with the inquiry. Kim was the key contact man between KCIA headquarters in Scoul and several special agents who allegedly bribed congressmen.

The government in Seoul is clearly anxious to get him back, both to stop what is believed to be a torrent of information he is giving to federal investigators and to recover what is considered serious damage to the reputation of Park's government cently sent Kim's younger brother, whose full name could not be learned, to Washington, with orders to see Kim and urge him to return to Korea, Korean sources said.

SINCE State Department offion the younger Kim's visit, it appears that he bypassed that department and went directly to the FBI.

In any eyent, the younger Kim was not able to see his brother, according to Korean sources. Just why was not clear, as Justice Department officials have maintained a rigid "no comment" posture on almost everying about Kim's defection. Kim earlier told State Department officials that he had no desire to see anyone from the Korean embassy despite repeated requests from Korean diplomats.

Future bleak, Mexicans told

MEXICO CITY (AP) = President Jose Lopez Portillo announced a "produc-tion alliance" of government and private industry Friday and warned that Mexicans are in for a tough period of rising

"We have poor answers for how to live through a crisis such as the one we are in, and shortly we will have to abandon the polities of economic fiction and confront a painful truth: new price increases for which we do not have sufficient solutions," the president told a group of industrialists.

Representatives from 140 companies in 10 production areas met with Lopez Portillo to ratify pacts between the government and private industry as part of the new administration's effort to recuperate from the country's worst economic crisis in decades. The agreements call for private industry to join the overnment in investing $8 government in investing 300,000 billion and creating 300,000 jobs in the next six years.

The pacts are with industrialists involved in petrochemicals, capital goods, manufacturing, tourism, vegetable oils, cement, automobiles and mining.

Lopez Portillo said he would seek similar arrangements with landowners, cattlemen, fishermen and lumbermen.

The price increases promise to make life even tougher for the Mexican consumer, who has experienced an average inflation of 20 per cent annually for the last four years.

When Lopez Portillo took office Dec. 1 he described the crisis as a "recession with unemployment," but observed that many Mexicans continued to live a life of luxury as in the best of times.

The president said the private sector had failed to comply with another government goal: "The production of popular con-sumer goods to guarantee minimum levels of subsistence and dignity to our people Friday's pacts were viewed as an endorsement

by the private sector of the government's mixed economy policy, which had been criticized by industrialists as an attempt by the state to take over private business.

National Properties Secretary Jose Andres Oteyza told the industrialists Thursday that the nixed economy will call for unrestricted respect for private property and a dialogue between all productive forces "to assure that the state has the necessary resources to guide economic activity."

The pacts signed Thursday could result in boosting production and employment along the U.S. border, where manufacturers import duty-free materials from the United States for assembly in Mexico and duty-free export to U.S. markets.

Even computer runs are cited as evidence that Americans are playing a dangerous game by preserving the Electoral College whereby voters mark their ballots for presidential electors they most likely never heard of and these surrogates elect the president six weeks later.

But the Electoral College is still batting a thousand and, so far, the reform team has managed only a scratch hit toward its goal of a constitutional amendment.

Which means that James Earl Carter Jr. really wasn't elected president on Nov. 2, even though he did get 51 per cent of the popular vote and an electoral vote

Strictly speaking, referring to Carter as the "president-elect" is premature because he won't be constitutionally elected until Monday, when the 538 members of the Electoral College assemble in 50 state capitols and the District of Columbia and cast their

By NEIL MEHLER

ČICERO, III. - The "Nixon-Ford-Kissinger" administration has lied to people, with the result that the United States has slipin military strength and now "would lose a conventional war against the Soviet Union," former Navy chief Elmo Zumwalt Jr. said Friday.

He said the Soviet Union has "cheated 7 or 8 ways' on the SALT I U.S.-Soviet arms reduction pact, has established "a very satis-factory base" in Cuba, and has outspent the U.S. on defense because the American people have been lulled to sleep by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger,

NEWS OF the cheating and the Cuban foothold have been deliberately withheld from the American people, Zumwalt said

In a strongly pessimistic speech, he offered the observation that Cyrus Vance, Jimmy Carter's choice to replace Kissinger in the new administration, will be an improvement. "Unlike provement. "Unlike Kissinger, he believes in the American people,' Zumwalt said of Vance, whom he termed "very able, very intelligent, and very experienced."

MRS. CARTER was spending Friday in Washington talking with members of her transition staff about such questions as what honorary chairmanships she will accept and what social and public functions she will attend.

She already has received dozens of invitations from different groups around the country, Mrs. Hoyt said.

At a briefing in the Carter transition-group of-fices, Mrs. Hoyt said Mrs. Carter has received about 30,000 pieces of mail since Nov. I, many from individuals interested in her projects on mental health and the elderly.

Her mail also includes the various personal requests that every first lady receives: the Alaska woman who wants Mrs. Carter to send her 90-yearold mother a birthday card; the Miami woman cloth coat and offered to loan her a fur coat from her son's New York shop; the belated birthday present for daughter Amy, wrapped in Christmas paper, from a past president of the Georgia Garden Club.

Mrs. Carter has asked the Georgia Garden Club to decorate the White House for the inaugural, Mrs. Hoyt said.

THE CLUB, a federa tion of hundreds of local garden clubs throughout the state, plans to use native Georgian materials, including camellias, sweet bay, sweet myrtle and magnolia to decorate the White House. Mrs. Hoyt said all of these plants are grown in the Plains, Ga.,

Before flying back to Plains with her husband, Mrs. Carter planned to have lunch with former White House social secretary Tish Baldridge, who worked at the White House when Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was first lady Mrs. Hoyt said Mrs. Balwasnington from New York to advise Mrs. Carter on White normal weather could create further problems on some pipelines.

Although the letter did not identify the system with a seriously lower storage condition, Dr. S. William Yost, chief of the commission's Bureau of Natural Gas said in a telephone interview that it was the Columbia Gas Transmission System one of the nation's largest pipelines and a principal source of gas for the Washington metropolitan area. He said that at mid-November, Columbia's storage was down by 24 billion cubic feet. "It's a lot," Yost said, "and so they are going to try to build that back up through emergency pur-

A memo, dated Nov. 19, which Yost sent to the commission said FPC studies "have indicated that generally colder than normal winter weather could result in industrial production losses and possible unemployment" and that the commission staff believes it must obtain sufficient up-to-date information from pipeline companies to try to help moderate curtailments of natural gas deliveries.

UNDER THE program, a letter was to be sent to all pipeline companies ordering them to cooperate with the commission staff about providing a variety of information on the amount of gas they have in storage, the extent to which they will not be able to deliver natural gas, and potential problems resulting from curtailing supplies.

The proposal from the Bureau of Natural Gas reportedly had the support of two of the four commissioners — John N. Holloman III and Don S. Smith - but Dunham, according to Yost, "didn't want to convey the impression that we had a great panacea, that we were going to solve every-body's problems."

Just because it's never happened doesn't mean it never could.

Yost said Dunham and the other members agreed to have a letter sent to the pipelines signed by the chief of the bureau. Yost greed that uting a commission of the would have more clout, be (Dunham) felt the agreed that a letter constibut he (Dunham) felt the companies will cooperate with this equally well."

Dunham could not be reached for comment. One his assistants, Roland E. Sledge Jr., confirmed that the matter was stricken from the agenda of the commission's Dec. 1 meeting.

"THE MAIN reason he struck it was he just didn't like the way it was written and there were some possible overstatements," Sledge said. He said he believed the matter would be taken up again this coming week and he thought the letter was being rewritten in accordance with Dunham's in-

The problem pipelines are having is that because the weather has been unseasonably cold, heating demands have drained underground pipeline storage areas faster than natural gas could be pumped into them. The problem is made worse by the fact that pipelines can-not obtain sufficient natural gas to operate at the full capacity of their sys-

The commission does not expect that the gas shortage will become so severe that supplies for home heating will be shut off. It fears that curtail-ments will affect industrial users which cannot substitute other fuels.

Yule gift: $1 million to kill coyote

WASHINGTON - The Office of Management and Budget, generally viewed by other government agencies as a Scrooge which does nothing but slash their budget requests, has turned Santa Claus this year and given the Fish and Wildlife Service an additional $1.1 million which hadn't been re-

Toby Cooper of the Friends of Wildlife blasted the OMB action and suggested that the granting of the money was a political payoff to the supporters of President Ford in the Western states where stockmen strongly back coyote-control programs.

The federal program. has long been a major target of conservation and which view it as needless slaughter of innocent animals. They also charge that the use of various poisons is a danger to humans, particularly children. On the other hand, Western ranchers and farmers, particularly sheep ranchers, demand that action be taken to reduce the population of coyotes, which they insist are a major killer of livestock.

"It's outrageous that OMB is sitting on a proposal from Fish an Wildlife to supplement the fiscal 1977 budget with $3 million for endanger species protection and law enforcement programs while granting $1.1 million for coyote killing as a Christmas bonus," Cooper said.

The money, which has been added to the service's fiscal 1978 budget which is to go to Congress in January, will increase the program by about 25 per cent, according to those who have seen the still-unreleased document.

Record sales of Christmas trees forecast

It wouldn't be Christmas without a tree. And Americans are expected to buy a record number of live and artificial trees this year, despite higher 1976 prices

Wholesale prices for live trees are about 5 per cent-higher than last year, according to John Koch, a Birdsboro, Pa., grower and president of the National Christmas Tree Association.

And American Tree & Wreath, the nation's largest maker of artificial trees, says retail prices for its products are about 6 or 7 per cent above 1975 levels.

DECIDING whether to buy a live tree or an artificial one is a matter of personal preference. The artificial trees cost more, but they can be used year after year and may work out to be cheaper in the long run. They are easier to handle, present less danger of fire and don't

Koch said growers would sell about 27 million live trees this year-about the same as they have for the past four or five years. The most popular species are the Scotch pine and the Douglas fir, followed by the balsam fir.

THE PRICE, he said depends on the quality of the tree and the place you buyait. A six-foot Scotch pine sells for about $4 to $5 at the wholesale level. Add freight charges and the recosts-including rental of the lot-and you can figure on paying at least double and probably more for the tree you carry home.

What Koch calls the "Cadillac trees"—the Douglas firs—sell for $8 to $9 at the wholesale level. Retail prices will be $18 to $202and up, he said.
What should you look

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder," said Koch. The expert looks for a full, symmetrical shape, tapering at the top. To check for treshness, try bending the needles. If they are rumbery and don't break.

KOCH said there were two "musts" for the consumer who wants to keep his or her tree fresh. First, make a new cut at the bottom of the tree or have the retailer do it for you. That enables the tree to absorb water. Second, make sure you give the tree plenty of water and never let the stand get dry. A tree that has been standing in a retailer's lol may absorb up to three quarts of water the first day. Scotch pines generally shed least, but Koch said all varieties of trees should retain their needles well if you keep them watered.

You don't have to worry about shedding at all with an artificial tree. But there are other things to take into consideration ease of assembly, resem-blance to a real tree and storage.

Don Warning, marketing head of American Tree & Wreath; said that sales of artificial trees this year would near the 26 million mark-a record. Another spokesman for the company said the firm's sales this year were estimated at $35 million, up from $25 million last year. He said the increased dollar value was due to price hikes, a growth in the number of units sold and the fact that people are buying more expensive

A spokesman for Dudwick-Shindler Associates, sales representatives for a variety of Christmas products, including artificial trees, estimated that Americans would spend $80 to $100 million on take trees this year.

He said the cost can run anywhere from $9.99 for a small tree to $99.99 for the eight-foot-and-up variety. The most popular varieties cost between $30 and $50 for six-foot sizes. The so-called convenience trees, which you do not have to assemble branchby-branch, are even more expensive: $40 to $70. Most of the artificial trees come in their own storage cartons. You should be able to store a six-to-eight-foot tree in a box about the size of a small coffee

The Dudwick-Shindler spokesman said realism was the most important factor in selecting an artificial tree. "The better the tree, the faster it sells

Cocaine ruled 'far less dangerous'

By DANIEL HANEY

BOSTON (AP) - A district court judge said Friday that cocaine is far less dangerous than eigarettes or alcohol and declared the Massachusetts law banning its use unconstitutional.

Judge Elwood McKinney dismissed the case against a defendant charged with possession in Roxbury District Court. However, court officials said his decision does not set a precedent and has no effect on enforcement of the state's cocaine law. District courts, the lowest rung of the Massachusetts court system, do not have the power to set precedents, as higher courts may.

Last month, when McKinney was hearing evidence in the case, he said he wanted to sniff cocaine himself. However. he dropped the idea when he said it had "taken on the dimensions of a circus

The judge said that both alcohol and nicotine, the drug found in cigarettes, are more dangerous than cocaine.

"For the ordinary, social user, there is little, if any, danger at all in the use of cocaine," he said.

The head of the family is Oric Bovar, a 59-year-old opera coach who was one of six men found last Wednesday at the bedside of the decomposed body of Stephan Hatzitheodorou.

THE POST SAID the group does not comprise a rigid organization but is based on obedience to guidelines set down by Bovar, including bans on drinking, drug use, meat-eating and premarital sex. Members may not consult doctors or persons in the psychic-phenomena field.

The family has no formal name or meeting centers, other than Bovar's apartment on the upper West Side of Manhattan, the newspaper said. Other than meditation and disciplines, it has no

Existence of the group came to light after police, acting on an anonymous telephone tip, gained entrance to Hatzithbody of the young Greek national and learned that the men inside his room had been chanting and praying for two months in an effort to bring him back to

All six were cited for failing to report a death, a health code violation.

Bovar appealed mainly to struggling young actors and actresses, opera singers, writers and other young artists and professionals, the Post said. He was seen as a father figure with great healing

"Oric is considered very powerful...

THE POST SAID that television actress Bernadette Peters was among the members of the cult. However, her spokesman, Rick Ingersoll, said that Miss Peters, although she had met with Bovar, was not a member.
"Bernadette has had no contact with this man for several months," Ingersoll said. "At one time she attended seminars ... in New York, but it wasn't of interest to her and she withdrew.

The medical examiner's office, which performed an autopsy on the body, said Friday that Hatzitheodorou died from cancer. Police said earlier that he died Oct. 9.

When news reports in November told of their struggle, the Darnells were flooded with offers of help from strangers, in-cluding cash donations.

That led the Fairfax County social services department this week to notify them of a January cutoff of food stamps, Medicaid and Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments.

But Friday the department relented.

Turn but a stone

In no strange land

By FRANCIS THOMPSON

O World invisible, we view thee, O world intangible, we touch thee, O world unknowable, we know thee, Inapprehensible, we clutch thee!

Does the fish soar to find the ocean, The eagle plunge to find the air -That we ask the stars in motion If they have rumor of Thee there?

Not where the wheeling systems darken. And our benumbed conceiving soars! -The drift of pinions, would we hearken, Beats at our own clay-shuttered doors.

The angels keep their ancient places; -Turn but a stone and start a wing! 'Tis ye, 'tis your estranged faces, That miss the many-splendored thing.

But (when so sad thou canst not sadder)

Yea, in the night, my Soul, my daughter, Cry; — clinging Heaven by the hems; And lo, Christ walking on the water, Not of Gennesareth, but Thames!

Let's talk about a poem. Poetry, of course, is "out-of-date" — and many readers shy away from any writing that looks like

This is sad because all the great ideas are poetry. The Bible is poetry. It may be history, philosophy, a code of ethics and the divinely inspired Word or God, But, above all, it is poetry because it presents ideas beyond this world in the realistic words of this world.

To understand poetry one must bring to it his own knowledge, emotions and intuitive understand-ing. Therefore, every per-son will read poetry differently. It is never as matter of fact as a shopping list.

To read this poem one needs to know a bit about Francis Thompson. He was a 19th century English "hippie." He took opium and wandered the streets of London, troubled by malnutrition and religious ideas. Some Cath-olics took him in and helped him to get his head on straight.

"In No Strange Land" sounds simple, but isn't. One can think and think about it, feel enriched but never be sure of just wha he thinks.

O WORLD INVISIBLE

Surely every human being has had flashes of knowing beyond knowing, of being almost in touch with things he can not see or feel or measure. Sometimes one might be looking at the sea or the desert or even the way the sun-light pours into a usually ugly slum. He is close to something. A SEMESTER ASSIGNMENT

A professor handed each student a sea pebble and a note at the beginning of a senior philosophy course. The note said:
"This is your assignment for this course. Write a term paper about this stone. You may use any or all academic disciplines you know. There will be no lectures but you may consult with me about your project."

It is not recorded that any students produced great science or literature. But surely none of them have forgotten their semester of trying to understand a stone. It was really a semester in religion. Study just a pebble thoroughly enough and you will "start a wing."

Lutherans form new denominaton

CHICAGO (AP) - A new Lutheran denomination was formed here last weekend by those called "moderates" who have broken away from the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in resistance to its conservative leadership. The rift had been threatening since 1974, when most of the faculty of the church's leading seminary, Concordia in St Louis, quit and formed a break-away seminary in protest against pressures on teaching by the denomination's president, the Rev. Dr. J. A. O.

The new denomination, the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, includes ini-Lutheran tially about 75,000 members in 1,950 congregations from coast to coast. They pledged efforts for unity with two other major Lutheran bodies, the Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Dr. William Kobn of Milwaukee was elected president.

Our beautiful churches

As one travels through the pleasant city of Cypress he receives an esthetic thrill when he passes Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 4321 Cerritos Ave. The ten-year-old building has received recognition for excellence in national publications. An active and progressive church, which was founded 17 years ago, it tackles community needs. There was a ground-breaking recently for a Youth Activities Center. Holy Cross has approximately 1,000 communicants, said Pastor E. D. Thyr. Sunday services are at 9 and 10:30 a.m.

Anti-gambling

NEW YORK (AP) The president of the Rab-binical Council of America, Rabbi Walter S. Wurzburger, has urged religious institutions ' to avail themselves of the recently passed law in New York State permitfing 'Las Vegas Nites' and other forms of gambling" in synagogues and churches.

It would "jeopardize the religious integrity of the institutions" that the new law was intended to help, he says.

Catholics seeking divorced

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) -Whatever else it accomplishes, the precedent-setting Roman Catholic strategy in Tennessee to woo back lapsed Catholics is highlighting an often unrealized point — that di-vorced Catholics are not barred from Holy Com-

Church leaders say it has been widely and erroneously assumed that such members are so excluded when they aren't a fact strongly brought out in the wide open Communion service in Memphis.

It welcomed all Cath-olics, whatever their situations, to share in the consecrated elements. Besides divorced Catholics and others long inactive, the unique feature was that it also included thuse, in second marraiges.
Unlike the merely divorced who are normally. free to continue sharing, Communion, the remark ried are considered in different clouded cale-gory.

Under church law, they are excluded from Communion unless their prior marriages have been found null by a church court, or privately, through "good faith" decisions of conscience in consultation with church counsellors.

The objective of the Tennessee approach is to encourage those in second marriages to initiate procedures to regularize their standing in the church - and also to get other alienated Catholics to clear up their problems.

To that reconciling purpose, Bishop Carroll Dozier offered general absolution - forgiveness on masse - to 12,000 particity pants at the Memphis service last Sunda whatever their past diffi-culties keeping them from the church.

The shipment by the American Friends Service All were welcomed to partake of the eucharistic sacrament. A similar service for an expected 10,000 was scheduled this Sunday in Jackson, Tenn., another city of the diocese.

> In connection with the blanket forgiveness, applied under special provisions for "emergency" situations such as to troops in combat areas, participants were instructed also to seek individual resolution of their problems.

That meant individual private confession within a easonable period, or dinarily the required means for absolution of serious sin, and addition-ally for remarried Catholics, seeking procedures... to rectify their status.

The board of directors of a company had a very important, but risky project under consideraon. In the discussion of this proposed undertaking, whenever something of a positive nature was suggested, one man, an obstacle man, would invariably say, "Now, just a minute. Let's consider the obsta-cles involved."

For awhile everyone was impressed but finally another director turned to him and asked, "Why are you constantly emphasizing the "obstacles in this proposition instead of its immense possibilities."

"Because," the obstacle man replied, "to judge intelligently, one must always be realistic. And the fact is that there are big obstacles in the way of this project. What would you recommend?"

"But," objected the pessimist, "that's a whole ot easier said than done. Have you any technique or removing obstacles for removing obstacles and forgetting them that The rest of us don't

A slow smile came over the face of the other director as he said, "I've spent sarmouthing obstacles. And so have most of you fellows here. If you want to know how to do it, I'll show you." He took out his wallet,' pulled from it a card, passed the card across the board table, and said, "Read that out

The other man read the words printed on the card so that all could hear. They were, "I CAN DO ALL THINGS THROUGH GOD'S HELP." The owner of the card then said, "I've lived a long while and faced many difficulties, but in those few words I have found power enough to remove any obstacle. So you see while I know the score about difficulties, I am not awed

His confidence impressed his fellow direc-They went ahead with the project and despite the risks and obstacles, it turned out to be a

The primary thing about an obstacle is not to be afraid of it. Believe that you have help and you will have the power to handle it. The next thing to do about an obstacle is to stand up to it uncomplainingly and deal with it forthrightly. Don't go crawling through life on your hands and knees, half defeated. Face your obstacles and usually you will find them not half as big as you think they are. And if they are big, that attitude will reduce them to size in most cases.

General Tudor commanded a British division during the great German assault of 1918. The odds against him were heavy but General Tudor held his ground, let the obstacle break on him and, thus, eventually broke the obstacle. Winston Churchill wrote of this feat, "The impression I had of Tudor was of an iron peg, ham-mered into the frozen ground, immovable."

This general knew how to stand up to an obstacle. Stand up to your obstacles like "an iron peg," don't give way, and you too, can break them. Use the formula the successful director kept in his wallet. You can also develop a powerful faith which will become a tremendous source of reserve strength. By this way of positive thinking you will acquire faith in yourself, in your own ability, and in your power to do things. And your attitude will become positive, not negative, and you will really learn how to deal with difficulties. Don't be an "obtacle man." Learn how to think above the obstacles. Then you can remove them or surmount them and then forget them.

You fail to appreciate the possibility that the ''man with a gun' may be seen as the 'moderate" in today's world where, by your own admission, "our destinies are still ruled by blood and iron." He believes in war, yes, because he sees no alternative: the Arabs have proven themselves dedicated to the destruction of Israel. In Islamic thinking the concept of "peace" in the Mid-East exists only if there is no Jewish State at all. Historically, Islamic toleration existed only insofar as minorities were totally submissive to Arab hedgemony: never did they tolerate "infidels" in their midst as equals with rights to separate government and laws, ruthlessly crushing any sign of inde-

The constant implication that moderates or "doves" are the only ones who care for peace or represent the best interests of Israel is a mirage of Arab propaganda. It is a carefully-laid trap for the Western mind which sees conflict in terms of honest bargaining and real desire for peace. Rabbi Kahane is no less an advocate for peace then the "dove" ... in fact the policies he proposes may be more realistic and represent a more authentic path to peace. Israel's tragedy tomor-Your "moderates," Mr. Clutter, are those who are willing for Israel to take all the risks in the hope that it might lead to peace. The Jews agreed to compromise for peace before when Arabs held the West Bank, the Golan, Gaza, indeed in 1948 when the Galilee and the Negev were in Arab hands: again and again the Arabs said no and went to war ('48, '56, '67, and '73): Rabbi Kahane respects the Arab and believes him when he says no Israel at all. But Arabs must learn the hard lesson: when you make war, you take a chance. You can win or you can lose. If you lose the war, you lose men. equipment, and territory, the so-called "spoils of war." Volumes have been written, tales have been woven, stories told and retold about the many forms and faces of Christmas around the world.

To some people, Christ-mas is an "invention" by Christians as you refer to it. To others, it is a gigantic commercial season (including the very profitable ads for newspapers).

To the evangelical believer, the one who has freely accepted God's Unspeakable Gift (Jesus), the December commercial season is of no real consequence, since we praise God DAILY for His Son. To the believer, every day is Christmas!

There is also the "Easter" season. (I may be jumping the gun on you, if you plan to ask for similar responses from readers about that holiday). Those who have committed their lives to Jesus Christ, and follow His teachings according to the New Testament standard, offer the sacrifice of praise DAILY for God's

The basic reason for society's ills that you cited (crime, murder, theft, suicide, homicide, loneliness, etc.) is that they have not accepted Jesus Christ as their personal Savior. The unbeliever is too quick to try all the solutions available BEFORE turning to My children are told over and over the story of Baby Jesus and his love for all of us. We put away our troubles and cares at Christmas more than any other time. There is no hate or bad news allowed at our house. Love and good will abound for all. Religion is the focal point for our celebrations each and every day. It is a time for reflection for all the Lord has given us during the year and our hopes for the next year.

WASHINGTON - After Vladimir I. Lenin died in 1924, his widow disapproved of the way Joseph V. Stalin was tightening his grip on the Soviet Union. The story is told that Stalin growled at her that she had better cooperate or else he would find another widow.

The winners of the Chinese power struggle that followed Mao Tse-tung's death have now done the kind of thing Stalin only threatened.

Chiang Ching, Mao's last wife and a leader of the radical leftist faction which used the Communist Party chairman's authority to try to purge conservative bureaucrats, has been stripped of any honors of widowhood.

The entire second page of the People's Daily in Peking on Wednesday was devoted to praise of an earlier wife of Mao, Yang Kia-hui. She was killed in 1930 by Nationalist trooops who surpressed a Communist uprising in Changsha.

The report said that

Army's role in China growing

By FOX BUTTERFIELD New York Times Service

HONG KONG — China's senior army commanders appear to be playing an increasingly important role in Peking and the country's provinces, analysts here believe, and they may now form a key decision-making body inside the Chinese Commu-nist Party.

Fresh evidence of the army's new importance was suggested Friday by the attendance of virtually all Peking's top leaders at a graduation ceremony for the Military and Political Academy of the People's Liberation Army Heading the unusual turnout was Hua Kuo-feng, the new chairman of the Chinese party, who was dressed in a green army uniform, according to Hsinhua, the Chinese press agency.

OF THE 15 senior officials present, including all the members of the party Politburo active in Peking, nine were military figures. Although such a strong military representation for an army graduation exercise is not surprising in itself, analysts believe it may reflect the military's new power.

At the same time, broadcasts over the past two days from Hupeh Province in central China indicated that the military commander there. Yang Teh-chih, now seems to have superceded the first party secretary of the province in authority.

Yang, a veteran of the Long March in the 1930s and a commander of the Chinese forces in the Korean War, was apparently iter a recent special high-level party meeting in Peking called to resolve continued factional troubles in Hupeh.

THE disclosure about Yang's new role follows

carlier reports over the past two weeks that Peking has dispatched 12,000 troops to Fukien province to take over cities, villages, schools and factories after factional outbursts there. In both provinces, the disputes have been officially linked to local supporters of Chiang Ching, Mao Tse-tung's widow, and three other Politburo members who were arreated in early October.

The army's increased importance began last summer when Hua sent 150,000 troops to help with relief work in the earthquake-devasted city of Tangshan.

The army's role then turther expanded when senior military officers seemed to have played a significant to the award to have played a significant to the award t pivotal part in the arrest of Miss Chiang and the three other Politburo members, who are now described as sham leftists.

UNTIL these recent events, the army had been in something of an eclipse following the death of Lin Piao, the former defense minister, in 1971, after an alleged attempt to overthrow Mao.

But despite its public loss of prestige in those years, army officers still retained considerable power at the provincial level, making up an esti-mated 40 to 45 per cent of the provincial party com-mittee secretaries. This was part of the heritage of the Cultural Revolution, when Mao was forced to call in the army to help

Analysts now believe the senior army com-manders may again have assumed greater authority at the highest level of the party in Peking as Hua has had to turn to them.

Red leader surfaces to tell election plans

MADRID (AP) - Santiago Carrillo, head of Spain's illegal Communist Party, made a cloak-anddagger appearance at a clandestine press confer-ence Friday to announce that the Communists would test the post-Franco government by running in elections next year.

As party members kept watch outside, Carrillo met with 35 journalists who had been brought to a small Madrid apartment in groups of three.

IT WAS the 62-year-old Carrillo's first news con-ference at home since the Spanish civil war. Afterward he slipped away to "one of the many houses I have in Madrid."

Carrillo called the underground meeting to denounce the referendum King' Juan Carlos has set for next week to ask Spaniards if they want free

Both parties say it was called undemocratically. They say that with the government spending nearly $9 million on advertising and controlling television, there is no chance of a free opposition cam-

"If the government had re-established liberty for everyone, if everyone was able to act freely without other interference and if there were civil respect for the rest, no matter what they think, the Communists and, I believe, all of the democratic opposition would have voted for the referendum." Action stuns Fullerton officials Brown rejects auditorium

By BOB GEIVET

Staff Writer
Officials of Fullerton State University were stunned when word reached them from Sacramento Friday that Gov. Brown had rejected — without explanation — the university's plans to ask federal funding for a $5 million, 2,000-seat campus auditorium.

President L. Donald Shields of Fullerton State said the auditiorium -- before Brown's action --had been the first of a number of improvements costing $12 million that were already planned and ready for bid.

2-Funding from the federal government's Economic Development Agency is limited to projects ready for bid within 90 days of submission and the campus project quali-fied, Shields noted.

We find it difficult to understand why, given the rate of unemployment and the lack of cultural facilities in our service area, the governor acted as he did,"

He said that the governor's screening committee — and the university's trustees, had approved the project for submission.

Many of the county's cities, cultural organizations, labor unions and other groups had endorsed the auditorium.

Shields said that, despite the rejection, "the university will pur-sue other funding sources as a mat-ter of high priority."

Police exam results delayed

Results of a recent civil service exam for openings on the Long Beach police force have been delayed and will not be mailed next week as orginally scheduled.

Roger Keast, chief examiner for the Long Beach Civil Service Department, said the test results applicants who are competing for about 50 openings in the Long Beach department.

Applicants who have not received their scores by Jan. 1 should contact the civil service department, Keast said. Interviews for those who scored high enough are scheduled for Jan. 6-23.

Welfare projects to be outlined in publić document

The Orange County Department of Social Services has drafted a plan to inform the public on wel-fare projects it administers that will cost about $4.7 million this

A department spokesman said lederal law required preparation of such a document. He added that he didn't think many people would pay much attention to it.

It's not only the size of a small telephone directory," he said, asking anonymity, "but it's about as interesting."

The document will be reviewed by the Orange County Board of Supervisors Dec. 14 and be available for public inspection at most public libraries and at the agency's office's at 1801 N. College Ave.

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

People frequently complain that government clerks do not have enough respect for the public's right of access to information, a survey shows.

Another common complaint is that rules enforced against private citizens are often not followed by local governments.

The survey's results were presented Friday in Long Beach at the Edgewater Hyatt House to a panel considering "How Citizens View City Administrators."

The panel, partially sponsored by Long Beach State University's Center for Public Policy and Administration, explored how gov-ernments might better respond to a frustrated public.

Most members of the audience, meanwile, had stories to tell of problems with City Hall, the County Hall of Administration, the assessor, the tax collector, school boards and administrations, state employment offices, the Veterans Administration, the Department of Motor Vehicles, the Internal Reve-nue Service and the Social Security Administration.

Betsy Laties, a member of the Los Angeles City Environmental Commission, told of a recent "gripe survey" in which her agency asked the heads of 35 homeowners' groups to list their peeves with the bureaucraey.

"THE LARGEST number of complaints involved a lack of responsiveness to the public's right to know." she said

She illustrated her point with an anecdote about a man's lengthy struggle to get copies of public documents from unnamed city officials in an ascending pecking

The second most frequent complaint was lack of self-regulation on the part of governments, she said.

One municipal entity — until extreme pressure was applied persistently violated a law designed to protect the public interest, she added.

"BUCK PASSING," she said "was the third most common complaint against officials (who are) incapable of assuming responsibility for their own acts," all the while maintaining a bland, innocent expression.

"One official apparently told a homeowner that a certain approach to a problem had been used since the days of the Roman Empire, in an effort to avoid responsibility," she added.

Susan Rice, a teacher and public administrator, declared that a major problem is "the inability or unwillingness (of some officials) to provide the public with information and referrals it needs.

There is widespread insensitivity at lower levels, and slow responses may be expected from higher level administrators," she

LONG BEACH City Councilman Wallace Edgerton, one of the paneusts, said human relations problems for several cities in the Long Beach area stem from their parttime city councils.

Edgerton suggested full-time councils with training programs and evaluations for council members.

He called for "greater com-munity input, not just from advi-sory councils and boards who can be manipulated (by officials), but from community groups" such as homeowners and other concerned citizens.

My own view is that we (city officials) should have our feet put in the fire" by an aroused citizenty seeking a better, more sensitive job from officials, he said.

Bruce Keppel, a newsman and panelist, suggested that part of the public's frustration comes from a realization now growing that gov-ernment cannot do all things for all

Mobil getting Irvine Co. rivals irked

Mobil Oil Corp. has apparently won the Irvine Foundation's extensive land holdings in Orange County, but two other firms outbid by Mobil are complaining they got a quick shuffle.

A foundation spokesman said Mobil's offer of $33.50 a share - or, $281.9 million cash — was the best of at least five offers made to ac quire the Irvine Co.

THE SPOKESMAN said Mobil was declared the winner after two other bidders failed to submit new offers by a noon Thursday deadline set by the foundation. However, Cadillac Fairview, Ltd., of Toronto, said to be the largest publicly held real estate company in Canada, said it was prepared to offer more for the Irvine land if the present auction bidding system were discarded and sealed bidding used.

"Cadillac Fairview has advised all shareholders that it is prepared to submit a higher offer than any of. the present offers for all shares, providing the bidding proceeds on a sealed bid basis," a spokesman said in Toronto.

MEANWHILE, Joan Irvine Smith, largest individual share, holder in the foundation, contended that a bid by Allen-Taubman Co. of, Detroit should be considered, eventhough it was turned in after the

Mrs. Smith initiated a suit in Santa Ana Superior Court which blocked Mobil's original offer for two years on grounds that it wastoo low.

She is said to favor the Allen-Taubman offer, which includes notes and cash, because the offer, would permit minority Irvine stockholders to buy back into the new company up to half the shares they

Couple who raised 200 children take on four more

By KRIS SHERMAN Staff Writer

At an age when most people begin thinking about the pleasures of retirement, Richard Gardner, 59, and his wife, Edith, 53, are looking forward to the teen-age years of their four children.

But the Gardners are well-prepared for the trials that lie ahead. They've been Los Angeles County foster parents for more than 20 years and have already reared Edith's three natural children and one adopted son.

Friday, during ceremonies at the county's annual Adoption Day Court, they officially added Calista, 10: Richard, 9: James, 8; and Dessie, 7; to the Gardner family.

"WE SEEM to have a weakness for strays — cats, dogs, unwed mothers, homeless children," Gardner said during an interview althe couple's home in Artesia.

The Gardners, married for 26 years, said they began taking foster children into their home about two years after their wedding. 'We kept reading in the paper about all the kids who were abused by their parents, and we wanted to do something about it," Mrs. Gardner explained.

"We haven't counted, but I would suppose we've taken care of more than 200 children over the years. I just can't visualize not having children in our home." MRS. GARDNER'S three grown children, all of whom live in the Midwest, are John, 34; Kenneth, 33; and Dolly, 32. The couple's adopted son, Russell, 21, lives around the corner from them around the corner from them.

They also have nine grandchildren, and number 10 is due any day.

Though it appears the couple is starting on its third separate family, Mrs. Gardner said there's really never been "an in between" because they've always had foster children — one for as little time as two days and one for as long as 15 years - in their home.

The two girls and one of the boys they adopted Friday are sisters and brother who have lived in the Gardner home for three years. The fourth child, Richard, has been with the family for four years.

"WE'VE had a lot of nice foster children in our home, but I don't think we've had any as lovable or who fit into the family as well as these four," Gardner said.

In fact, he added, they've fit into the family so well that their names — first, middle and last were unofficially changed last

Calista Abigail was named after Gardner's mother; Richard Arthur was named after Gardner and his brother; James Talbot was named after Gardner's father; and Dessie Helena took the name of Mrs. Gardner's mother.

The children, though not very talkative, nodded approval of their new names and demonstrated spontaneous affection for their parents, whom they already know as "Mama" and "Papa."

"WE HEARD they were coming up for adoption, and we really wanted them and they wanted us." Mrs. Gardner said, combing young Richard's hair as she spoke.

We were afraid for awhile, though, that the county wouldn't let us adopt them because of our ages. We thought they (county officials) might think four pre-teens were more than we could cope with.

"My mother thinks I have a hole in my head," Mrs. Gardner continued. "She's pleased for us, don't get me wreng, but she thinks that at my age, I ought to retire from raising kids."

The Gardners, however, believe the children fit well into their retirement plans.

"WE'RE making plans and dreams just like any other couple," explained Gardner, a retired plastering contracter who now is head custodian at Cerritos Elementary School in the ABC Unified School District.

"Our dreams just include the children. We want to take a trailer and go to Florida, put the kids in school during the school year and then travel during the summer.

I also have some relatives in northern Maine. We'd like to visit them, and I think it would be a good experience for the children to see some other parts of the coun-

The Gardners' living room, filled with brightly wrapped Christmas presents, several bookcases, a sewing machine, a piano and prominently displayed Holy Bible, appears lived in and com-fortable, but the Gardners agree that finances could pose problems for awhile.

Row club vows fight over sex-ban decision

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A court fight was promised by the venerable San Francisco Rowing Club Friday to counter city action revoking the club's lease because of alleged bias against women.

The city Parks and Recreation Commission had voted Thursday to cancel the club's lease of the building it has occupied for 38 years. In addition to allegations that it refuses to admit women members, Deputy City Atty. Don Solomon said Friday the club also is accused of refusing to allow access to the public, failing to maintain the premises and renting the building out for dances.

The Rowing Club, which has just 14 members, moved into its current home in 1938 when the city agreed not to charge the club rent in exchange for maintaining the facilities.

In 1974, a group of women sued the club and the city for alleged sex bias. Attorney John E. McInerney III, who represents the club, refused to comment on the current problems because the 1974 suit and a countersuit by the club are still pending. However, the club said it would take the issue to court to block the commission's action

$110,000 to dockworker for injuries

A longshoreman injured while working in Long Beach in 1974 was awarded a $110,-000 out-of-court settlement Friday against the city and his former employer. The settlement was reached in the chambers of Long Beach Superior Court Judge George Francis in benait of Kobert W. Ashley, 52, of Costa Mesa.

Ashley said he suffered serious nerve damage to his right hand and arm when he tripped in an "insuffi-ciently lighted area" in a warehouse at Berth 207 at Long Beach Harbor on April 5, 1974.

The Wharf and Warehouse Co., which was leasing the facility from the city, will pay $100,000 of the award, while the city, which contended in a crosscomplaint that the firm was liable for Ashley's injury, if anyone was, will pay $10,-

Marines down Navy fighter

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Navy A4 Skyhawk jet warplane crashed into the Atlantic Ocean off North Carolina on Friday after being struck by a missile fired by a Marine Corps aircraft. The Navy pilot

Capt. James Pendergast, a public affairs officer at the Cherry Point, N.C., Marine Air Station, said the Marine F4 fighter plane had fired at a pilotless, radar-operated drone target plane, but the heat-seeking missile missed and instead struck the Navy

A spokesman at the Navy's Atlantic Fleet head-quarters in Norfolk, Va., said the Marine and Navy aircraft were taking part in a joint exercise. A Marine spokesman said he didn't know what the Navy plane was doing in the area.

Marine Capt. James Pendergast of the Cherry Point base, said the Navy plane crashed "as the result of an unarmed projectile going through the aircraft." The pilot of the Navy A4, Lt. Jerome A. Petykowski, 30, of Chicago, ejected safely and was picked up by a Marine helicopter.

"Obviously something went wrong," said Navy Cdr. John Barry. "I don't know what." Marine officials identified the crew of the Marine aircraft as Capt. Chuck Allison, the pilot, and 1st Lt. T.E. Helman. Both are stationed at the Marine Corps Air Station in Beaufort, S.C.

Carter picks defense team

WASHINGTON-President-elect Jimmy Carter has selected the team of people for top national security positions but is still sorting out which candidate will fill which job, a top aide said Friday. Greg Schneiders, Carter's appoint-ments secretary, told reporters that

Carter had settled on roughly half a dozen persons for the top four or five jobs at the Defense Department, Central Intelligence Agency, National Security Council and State Department.

Carter seems increasingly certain to name Zbigniew Brzezinski of Columbia University as national security adviser and Harold R. Brown, president of Caltech, as secretary of defense, according to sources in contact with Carter, Vice President-elect Walter Mondale and their aides.

These sources said that although

objections had been raised to Brzezinski on grounds that he might be too vigorous a policy advocate for the national security post, Carter wanted someone in that post with whom he felt comfortable and familiar. The two men have known each other for several years, and Brzezinski helped prepare some of Carter's foreign policy speeches during the cam-

But Brzezinski said that he had not been offered the post, and Schneiders and others in the Carter camp said that the president-elect had not yet disclosed his choices to anyone and probably would not until early next week.

They pictured Carter as shuffling several leading candidates among the top foreign policy jobs, searching for the proper combination. Several of the candidates have privately told friends that Carter explored several different job possibilities with them.

Among those being considered for the defense post along with Brown, Carter sources said, were James R. Schlesinger, former secretary of defense and director of the CIA, and Paul C. Warnke, former assistant secretary of defense and now a Washington lawyer.

Conservatives have generally backed Schlesinger, and liberals have favored Warnke. Some other Carter sources said the selection of Schlesinger, who has made a very favorable impression on Carter, seemed unlikely because of his skepticism toward detente with the Soviet Union and because of Carter's public messages to the Soviet leaders that he wished to pursue a strategic arms agreement with Moscow.

But Carter sources said that if Schlesinger and Warnke were passed over for the defense post, they were under consideration for other jobs, including CIA

Much the same situation, Carter sources said, affects the cluster of economic jobs. The leading contenders for treasury secretary. Carter sources said, were W. Michael Blumenthal, chairman of the Bendix Corp.; Robert V. Roosa, former undersecretary of treasury and now with Brown Brothers Harriman of New York, and Charles Schultze, former budget director in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

A number of Carter aides were known to favor Blumenthal as a progressive-minded business executive with a good reputation among labor cirwell as with the business community. Roosa has a more conservative financial reputation and greater support in the financial community, these sources

"The threat is over," Commissioner of Administration Charles Roemer said

Some gas still escaped the chlorine tank at the Allied Chemical Co. plant here, but the lethal chemical was neutralized by a spray of water as it emerged,

THE YELLOW-GREEN cloud that escaped earlier was dissipating in the air, he added.

The gas — the kind used in trench warfare in World War I — can kill in severe doses. Limited exposure can cause respiratory problems and skin

State police trailed the cloud as it drifted northwestward at about 8 miles per hour. They unblocked roads as they went, clearing the way for residents to return to their homes.

Roemer said some smell might remain in areas passed by the cloud, but that no lethal concentrations remained in

There were no reports of injuries.

Six thousand students were moved t of the dormitories at Southern University and taken in buses to the Louisiana State University campus. Another 4,000 persons were evacuated from their homes.

National Guardsmen were ordered to the state penitentiary at Angola in case the gas forced evacuation of the 2,600 prisoners there. Angola is about 30 miles north of Baton Rouge - not directly in the path of the moving cloud, but well within its range if the wind shifted

Marines try to weigh blacks', KKK rights

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) -American Civil Liberties Union decided Friday to file suit on behalf of Marine members of the Ku Klux Klan, demonstrating the dilemma faced by the Marine Corps in trying to cool off racial tension on this sprawling base.

Civil rights officials have called for an investigation into whether military regulations sanction such groups as the KKK. The ACLU is suggesting that the Marines are discriminating against Klan members by transferring them to other

The suit will seek an injunction against the Marine Corps to prevent it, Paneer said, from "harassing, transferring and intimidating Marine members of

The racial tension at the base came to light in an alleged attack last month by 14 black Marines on a group of whites.

The blacks face possible courts-martial.

Prosecutors have said they want to enlarge the charges from assault to conspiracy to commit murder and attempted murder of the six white Marines who were clubbed and stabbed with screwdrivers in a barracks room Nov. 13. All but one are now out of the hospital.

The defense lawyers said it was a mistake and that the blacks, believing that a KKK plot was being planned against them, actually were after the next room, where a cache of weapons and Klan material urging antiblack violence later was found.

Klan spokesmen claim at least 100

Marines at Pendleton as members of the white supremacist group and say there are "dens" at other Marine bases throughout the country.

Membership in such groups is not prohibited by military regulation.

Leaders of black and white activist groups from throughout the country have been streaming to Camp Pendleton, the biggest of America's Marine bases, and that's caused the Corps some public rela-tions problems. Maj. Gen. Carl Hoffman, the base commander, has refused to meet with David Duke, grand dragon of the Klan from Louisiana, but he has met spokesmen for the black Marines, including the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Sixteen white Marines identified as Klansmen on a paper found during a search of their meeting room were ordered transferred to other bases, and their supporters have said their rights

Cadets keep expulsion for cheating

WEST POINT, N.Y. - The West Point Corps of Cadets voted Friday by the thinnest of margins, 23 votes out of 3,818 cast, to retain expulsion as the single penalty for violation of the honor code.

They rejected a proposal dvafted by cadet leaders in the wake of a divisive cheating scandal that would have enabled honor boards to recommend retention of

If the proposal had been approved, an honor board would have been able to consider a cadet's attitude, experience or previous record before pronouncing sentence. A guilty vote now means automatic expulsion.

ALTHOUGH 2,523 cadets voted in favor of the change, and only 1,295 against, the proposal failed to achieve the required two-thirds majority.

The Corps learned of the results during breakfast, murmuring over the thin margin. Many were then stunned to hear a second announcement: that the commandant, Brig. Gen. Walter F. Ulmer Jr., was leaving West Point after only 20 months in charge of military training and discipline.

Ulmer told the quiet mess hall he was leaving to become assistant division commander of the Second Armored Division at Ford Hood, Tex. Neither academy officials nor the Pentagon would suggest that Ulmer was being removed because of his handling of the cheating scandal. He had become the focus of debate over questions of discipline and punishment and whether it was the system more than the cadets who were at fault.

Record wheat harvest in '76

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 wheat crop was a record of almost 2.15 billion bushels, slightly above last year's harvest, the Agriculture-Department said Friday.

Officials said that the new estimate, based on Dec. surveys, was over 20 million bushels higher than USDA estimated two months ago.

Last year's wheat crop, which set the previous record, was only about 12 million bushels smaller than the 1976 harvest, the department said.

No new production figures were announced for corn, the other major crop which will figure prominently in the U.S. food and export supply in 1977. Estimates for corn and other 1976 crops will be made next month.

, BUT THE CORN harvest already has been estimated at a record of 6.06 billion bushels, up 5 per cent from the previous high of nearly 5.8 billion in 1975.

The Crop Reporting Board also said winter wheat farmers had almost finished planting their crop for the 1977 harvest by early December.

A Long Beach motorcyele officer was seriously injured at 11 p.m. Friday when his cycle and a passenger car collided at Broadway and Junipero Avenue, police said. Officer Robert B. Kennison was rushed by paramedies to St. Mary Medical Center, where he was reported in critical condition.

Police said Kennison was off-duty, but still in uniform.

Vice officers arrested 81 high school students Friday on 11 campuses in the San Pedro area, the San Fernando Valley and central and West Los Angeles, climaxing a three-month investigation.

Los Angeles Police Lt. Dan Cooke said the undercover officers spent $30,000 making drug deals with students, who sold the officers large quantities of marijuana and "angel dust" (an animal tran-quilizer also known as PCP).

Smaller quantities of hashish, co-caine, amphetamines ("speed"), quadhedes (depressants), LSD, barbitu-rates and other drugs were also purchased, Cooke said.

Still at large late Friday were 26 out of a total of 107 youths sought in connection with the raid. Sixty-seven of the 107 are under age 18.

Cooke said Friday's sweep of the campuses was the smallest of four raids conducted in the L.A. Unified School District in the last two years.

Cooke declined to name specific schools where the arrests were made. He said the school board, which approved the raids, requested that the schools not be identified. Most of the arrests were made at the students' homes. Six undercover officers assigned to the juvenile narcotics detail "could have purchased anything in any amount" during the investigation, Cooke said.

"There has been a tremendous epidemie proportions.

juana laws took effect Jan. 1, he said. Under the new laws, adults possessing less than one ounce of marijuana are subject only to a citation similar to a traffic ticket, with a maximum fine of $100, instead of arrest. "Apparently the kids haven't gotten the word that these laws apply only to adults over 18," Cooke said. Juveniles arrested for possession of marijuana and other drugs are usually booked and then released to parents or adult guardians. Cooke said the availability and use of marijuana at all schools has reached schools. He said the drug problem is worse today than during the so-called "hippie days" of the early 70s because the drug culture has expanded into every economic level of society.

Withholding names of campuses where the arrests were concentrated is:

we could double the arrests," he said. Cooke said many of those arrested were drug dealers and that, "if we arrested every kid who just uses drugs, they would have to shut down the one way to "let kids think we're working undercover on every campus so that they will be wary of engaging in drug use so openly," Cooke said.

Carter 'protectionist' barrier feared

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

Fears that America under President immy Carter may revive old-style ecoprotectionism were voiced this rek when more than 300 U.S. and Japase business executives met in Los Aneles to seek ways of improving ecomic relationships.

Ironically enough, this seventh annual S-Japan Economic Relations sym-osium was held in the Biltmore Hotel xactly 35 years to the hour after merica responded to a Japanese attack Pearl Harbor by formally entering orld War II.

protectionistic policies, a step some in conservative U.S. business circles — that he seeks to woo — also might applaud.

Japanese Consul-general Yukio Takamatsu, new this year to Los Angeles, told of a $4.2 billion deficit incurred this year by U.S. allies among the European Eco-nomic Community (EEC).

The large deficit among nations with less robust economies than the U.S. has become a critical issue," he said. While Japan's action was well intentioned, we hope that due consideration is given . . . so that Japan does not encourage protectionist drives in other countries, particularly the U.S., which, along with Japan and West Germany, is one of the key economies on which many dozens of nations rely for their economic well being."

He warned of other economic problems between the two nations. Two of these, Japanese fishing rights off American coasts and various questions involving civil aviation, "are the subjects of official talks between our two govern-ments . . . and it is hoped they can be settled successfully to our mutual satisfaction.

Of deeper significance, he said, is "Japan's large trade surplus with the U.S. and EEC nations," amounting to $4.3 billion for this country in the first 10 months of 1976.

"This large imbalance has led to some criticism in the U.S. that the yen is intentionally undervalued to stimulate Japanese exports," he said. "This is not

Japan, like other industrialized nations, underwent economic recession earlier this decade, is recovering more slowly than the U.S., but may achieve "real" economic growth of 5.6 per cent in the fiscal year ending March 31. This lagging Japanese recovery, which he de-scribed, was blamed by Takamatsu for the masssive U.S. deficit.

"Offsetting the trade surplus Japan has with the U.S. and EEC is a large imbalance in trade Japan has with the Middle Fet?" he are Middle East," he said.

"Morover, in 'invisible trade,' which includes various items such as freightshipping, insurance coverage, overseas travel expenditures, interest payments, etc., Japan has a chronic deficit of about $6 billion a year . . . and the U.S. had a $2.5 billion surplus in 1974, $1.9 billion in

"One of the salient facts of Japan's international economic position is that when weighing the invisible deficit against its merchandise surplus, Japan by no means is taking unfair advantage of its trading partners.

"Nor is Japan getting rich, so to speak, on its apparent trade surplus," declared Takamatsu.

During a panel discussion:

· Mitsubishi Bank of California President Yasuhiko Ishizaka said Japan developed payment deficits during the last three years while the U.S., with sur-pluses, found it necessary to increase exports to pay higher Mid East oil prices. He predicted, however, that Japanese imports will improve in 1977.

- William M. Scearce of Wells Fargo Bank said he anticipates moderate growth in U.S.-Japanese trade next year, with exports from Japan increasingly becoming advanced-technology items such as computers — which in 10 years he expects to rival automobiles as a source of foreign credits.
- Outlining the history of modern industrial exports from Japan, Kengo Iwasaki of Nissho-Iwai American Corp. said Japanese steelmakers must continue to improve productivity levels to survive rising worldwide costs of materials.
- Albert Perrish, president of Triangle Steel & Supply Co., said U.S. and Japanese steelmakers alike face difficult times next year as global demand for their product continues three-year de-
- Yoshito Yamaguchi, president of Meico Sales Inc., indicated that Japan supplies 30 per cent of television receivers sold in the U.S. while grossing only about 20 per cent of the dollar volume. Japanese TV manufacturers have lost their early price advantage (to higher payroll costs at home) and now can survive only with higher productivity.

Greyhound flays Southland Amtrak operate the Los Angeles-San Diego Kirkpatrick said.

The American taxpayers lose more than a million dollars a day as victims of the "Great American Train Robbery," said Charles D. Kirkpatrick, vice president of mar-keting for Greyhound Lines.

Speaking at a news conference at the Pasadena Hilton Hotel, Kirkpatrick said California taxpayers could see an example of this enormous loss by examining the operations of Amtrak, the federally subsidized passenger rail service which services the route between Los Angeles and San Diego.

Kirkpatrick said that in 1976 alone the loss on the Amtrak route between the two major Southern California cities would cost all taxpayers more than $4.5 million.

"That's robbery, pure and sim-ple. And to compound that deplorable situation, next year the State of California is going to move into the rail passenger business by giving Amtrak a subsidy of $3.15 million to route.

"That money is additional to what Amtrak will receive from the federal government. I have a feeling that when that occurs, California taxpayers are going to be furious.

'Amtrak has never operated the Los Angeles-San Diego route with any degree of financial suc-cess, and the prospects for a money-making operation between those two cities are not bright, at teast not for the next five years,' the Greyhound official said.

Kirkpatrick presented the news media with figures from Amtrak's own five-year economic forecast and they predict the Los Angeles-San Diego route will continue to lose money

In 1981, for example, revenues on that Amtrak route will amount to only $2.6 million, while operating expenses will exceed $10.8 million; that leaves an $8.1 million deficit,

And why is Greyhound con-cerned about this situation, which will soon confront California taxpayers?

"To be blunt, these federal and state subsidies to Amtrak amount to unfair business tactics. How would you like your competition to always operate at a loss; receive federal subsidies paid for by your tax dollars; and undercut your rates and fares?

"You wouldn't like it one bit, and you'd do everything within your power to correct the situation.

Speaking for the intercity bus industry, we at Greyhound do not want to see Amtrak drive buses out of business. If that were to occur, the real losers would be the mil-lions of people who live in rural and suburban America, where the only means of public transportation is the intercity bus," Kirkpatrick

The state of the s 2 not guilty of kidnaping Bronfman

Samuel Bronfman II's two accused abductors were acquitted of kidnap charges Friday, but were convicted of extorting $2.3 million in ransom from the whiskey heir's father.

By its acquittal, the jury in White Plains, N.Y.. apparently accepted testimony of defendant Mel Patrick Lynch that the Aug. 8, 1975, kidnaping was a hoax planned by the 23-year-old Brofman to witch the property from his extort money from his father. Co-defendant Dominic Byrne did not take the witness stand.

"He engineered it," said juror Amelia Driscot, a Mount Vernon, N.Y., housewife, in agreeing with Lynch's account of a phony kidnaping.

Lynch admitted extortion to the degree that he delivered ransom de-mands to Edgar Bront-man, head of the Seagram distillery empire, and picked up the ransom, which was later recovered. But he said he was only doing young Bronf-man's bidding.

Lynch said he was forced to help when Bronf-man threatened to expose him as homosexual. Bronfman testified that the kidnaping was real and he was in fear of his life. He denied having any scheme adding that he had no need for the money.

The lawyers for both defendants said they would appeal the extortion conriction, which carries a maximum 15-year prison

Despite the kidnaping acquital, Asst. Dist. Atty. Geoffrey Orlando said he would seek the maximum sentence. He added that he had no intention of pressing perjury or any other_charges against young Bronfman.

A Bronfman family spokesman said its members were "angered and deeply saddened by this outrageous trawesty." outrageous travesty

Nobel prizes

Seven Americans collected all five of this year's Nobel prizes from Sweden's King Carl XVI Gustaf on Friday in a Stockholm ceremony marred by protests against the economics award to Milton Friedman of Chicago.

Two minutes before the solemn two-hour ceremony was to end, a young man in white tie and tails jumped up in the audience and shouted "Friedman go home." and "Long live the Chilean people." He was quickly hustled away.

Outside, some 2,000 left-ists marched to protest the Friedman award as some 300 policemen stood watch. The leftists claim the University of Chicago economist supports the right-wing military gov-ernment in Chile. Friedman denies it.

It was the first time in the history of the prizes for science, literature and economics that a single country won them all.

Noted D.C. reporter Peter Lisagor dies

Peter Lisagor, nationally known journalist who was the Washington bureau manager for the Chicago Daily News, died Friday. He was 61 years old.

Lisagor, who had been fighting cancer, died at Northern Virginia Doc-tors Hospital.

Peter Irvin Lisagor was described once by the "senior official" of the State Department as a "strange phenome-

That official continued: "You write for a newspaper that virtually no one in Washington reads. Yet you are one of the most influential newsmen in the nation's capital. You never make heroes out of public officials — that is perhaps an understatement — yet they respect you, they seek your advice, and consider you their friend. You are the renaissance man of the Washington press — equally adept at writing, reporting, television and commentary."

Thus Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger shared a widely held view of Lisagor during the award in 1976 of the Edward Weintel Prize for diplomatic reporting at the Georgetown University School of For-eign Service.

U.N. votes to support African guerrilla war

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — U.N. members voted Friday to support the "armed struggle" of guerrillas fighting for the independence of South-West Africa, or Namibia.

The General Assembly's Colonial Committee voted 108 to 6 with 12 abstentions to recommend adoption by the full assembly of a resolution that would, for the first time, give U.N. backing to an "armed struggle."

The resolution, put forward by a committee on which all 146 member states are represented, is likely to gain full assembly approval, but is nonbinding without Security Council action.

Voting against were the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, Belgium and Luxembourg.

WASHINGTON - The Environmental Protection Agency said autos sold in Califorpia are exempt from the recall it ordered Friday of 208,000 1975 model Chrysler Corp. cars.

Chrysler promptly issued a statement saying it could not be responsible for the way people maintained their cars and informed the agency it would appeal the

The problem apparently is a small seriew on the carburetor that is extremely sensitive and thus very difficult to adjust when a car undergoes maintenance, according to an agency official.

Carburctors of cars for sale in California are adjusted differently than those for sale elsewhere because of the state's tougher clean-air laws, and an EPA spokesman said the agency had no data to indicate whether California-sold models violate federal emission restric-couraging liberation movements to use "all means at their disposal" and so could not vote for the first one ever to call outright for armed struggle. She said such provisions were not appropriate for an organization dedicated to preserving

Smith cries 'fraud'

GENEVA - Rhodesian Prime Minister lan D. Smith charged Friday that he was brought to the conference table here "on false pretenses." that is, a pretense that the nationalists were ready to accept the proposals on Rhodesian majority rule agreed to between himself and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

ment hastened to exempt Kissinger from his strictures. "I was misled by the parties who arranged this conference, he said, in clear reference to Britain. which serves as chairman.

Britain, meanwhile, ruled out any major role for Kissinger in attempting to break the deadlock, saying it had "some sort of legal, constitutional and even colonial responsibility" for Rhodesia, whose unilateral declaration of independence in 1965 it has never recognized.

Lebanese radio

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Premier Salim el-Hoss moved Friday to re-establish control over government-owned radio sta-tions that had been turned into propa-ganda machines by Moslem and Christian factions during Lebanon's civil war.

Hoss, a Moslem named to the premiership Wednesday by Christian President Elias Sarkis, said he was dedicated "to abolishing any thinking or idea of either the geographic or psychological partition

Lisbon still dry

LISBON, Portugal -- Hospitals post-poned operations, office workers went unshaven and housewives fought at hydrants Friday as 1.5 million persons endured a second day with little water.

A bomb damaged one of the capital's water mains early Thursday, cutting off 90 per cent of the supply.

No group has claimed responsility for sabotage. Government sources said the bombing may have been an attempt to create instability for the government Socialist Premier Mario Soares before nationwide municipal elections Sunday.

cuts push market up

NEW YORK (AP) -Widespread cuts in the bank prime lending rate provided the impetus for a moderate advance in the stock market Friday, despite some profit-taking

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 2.41 to 973.15, extending its advance for the week to 22.60 points. Gainers outpaced losers by about a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Ex-

Big Board volume to-taled 25.96 million shares, down from Thursday's 21/2month high of 31.80 mil-

THE DOW'S advance this week has carried it to its highest levels since early Öctober. From Nov. 10 through Friday's close, the average showed a gain of 49.11 points. New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust announced

Friday morning it was lowering its prime lending rate from 64 to 6 per Numerous other banks across the country pared their basic rates on bluechip loans from 6½ to 6¼. The moves underscored the recent downtrend in open-market interest rates, which has helped reduce the relative allure of interest-bearing securities which compete with stocks for investors' funds. At mid-day the market's advance showed signs of flagging, and the Dow dipped briefly to a minus-2 reading. But it headed upward again at mid-afternoon when the Commerce De-partment reported that preliminary figures showed a 1.7 per cent rise in retail sales last month after an upward ajustment in the figure for October.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials gained .18 to 116.31, and S&P's 500-stock composite index added .19 to 104.70.

AT&T topped the active list, up a fraction on turn-over of better than 430,000 shares. The stock has been consistently setting new 10year highs of late, benefitting among yield-con-scious investors from the slide in interest rates.

The NYSE's composite index rose .12 to 56.33

Prime-rate Bank interest regulation: Good or bad for public?

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK - You might not even understand the significance of Regulation Q, but among finan-cial people it is likely to mean either of two things, that (1) it is good for you,

(2) it is bad for you.

Wise, and wary of accepting seemingly selfless advice from financial institutions, modern consumers quickly distill such expressions of concern into something more nearly the truth:

IT IS GOOD for some financial institutions, bad for others, and it probably remains to be seen whether it is good or bad for the public. Regulation Q is an edict of the Federal Rserve that, in effect, permits savings banks and savings and loan associations to pay one-quarter of 1 per cent more interest than do commercial banks. It establishes ceilings on time deposits - on pass-book savings and certificates of deposit. A savings cent on passbook savings, a commercial bank just 5. On savings certificates the limits are 7.75 per cent and 7.5 per cent, respectively.

Regulation Q is due to expire March 1.

The savings, or thrift, institutions want it to remain, arguing that they need an incentive to draw savings dollars that, in turn, they will lend out on home mortgages, their primary lending function.

Pike's 'mummy' believed to be a long-dead outlaw

By ROBERT GORE

"The ghost of the Pike "mummy" lingered for a third day in Long Beach. Police homicide detectives and the Independent, Press-Telegram were contacted by several people who 'knew' who the nitiming was and how he came to be painted day-

Registration fee

If I remember correctly, the annual registration fee for the new automobile I purchased in 1972 decreased each year while I owned it. But the fee for the new car I bought in 1974 has remained the same for the last three registration periods. Has the law setting the fees changed? W.H., Los Alamitos.

No, but the state's changeover to the year-round license renewal system has resulted in some motorists paying the same rate more than once. A spokesman for the California Department of Motor Vehicles said that when you bought the car in 1974, you probably paid the license charge for only part of the year, which gave you a lower initial fee. The following year, the state started the changeover and motorists were given staggered registration periods of from 7 to 18 months. Although the assessed value of your car decreased that year, the length of your registration period was such that the license fee remained the same. Motorists who have to renew their 1977 registration between July and December of this year will have their fees based on their cars 1976 values and they are paying the same fee as last year. Your next renewal fee will be less because everyone will then have 12-month registration periods and the standard assessment procedure will be used. The DMV decreases a car's assessed value each year for nine years and thereafter the motorists is charged the mini-mum fee. The first year, the fee is 2 per cent of 85 per cent of the car's value: in the ninth year, the fee is based on 5 per cent of the value. For cars purchased in California, the DMV's value figure is the bas sticker price plus the destination charge and only the costs of smog equipment an any accessories installed by the dealer. If a car is purchased outside the state, the value is based on the total purchase price.

Back pay

Aviation Services and Support Corp., 4150 Donald Douglas Drive, owes me back wages, vacation and sick pay from July when I left their employ. I have notified the state labor commissioner's office but I still haven't been paid. Now I understand the company has been seld. Will the new owners be liable for my pay? D.C., Long Beach.

The financially troubled company is negotiating with several firms for a cash transfusion but, at this writing, nothing was finalized, according to a spokesman. There is not enough money to pay you and other former employees now. If the negotiations are successful, you may be paid shortly after the reorganization is completed, he said. If the firm is forced into bank-ruptcy, you may receive your back pay eventually—the firm apparently has assets—but it will take a long time. In such a bankruptcy proceeding, administrative and legal fees are paid first, secured creditors such as mortgage holders second, taxes third and unpaid wages forth. Then any remaining assets are distributed among the rest of the general creditors. As you have already filed for the wages with the labor commissioner, there is little else you can do now but wait and see what

Since my father's death in 1975, I have received Social Security benefits because I'm under 22 years of age and I attend college full time. Next semester I would like to attend school through the independent study program operated by the University of California at Berkeley. Under this program, the assignments are done through the mail. Grades and units are given, but the university allows students up to one year to complete the courses and the school says it cannot specify how many units constitutes full-time status. The people talked to at Berkeley and the Social Security Administration haven't been able to tell me if I can collect benefits under this home study program and if so, how many units I must take to be eligible for payments. Can Action Line find out? M.B.. Long Beach. Since UC Berkeley does not certify its independent study students as full or part-time enrollees, you can't collect benefits under that program. Social Security regulations state that a person must be classified as a full-time student by his school to receive benefits. Under most conventional college programs, 12 units is considered full time, but "since students in the independent study program have up to a year to complete their courses, we can't classify a person who's taking 12 units as full time. We don't have a specific full-time classification," said a spokesman for UC Berkeley. A student may receive benefits while enrolled in a home study program if the courses are offered by an accredited college or university and the school classifies the student as full time.

The most detailed theory to emerge Friday was that the mummy was the body of Elmer McCur-dec. once known as "the outlaw who wouldn't be taken alive." He was reportedly shot by a posse near Oklahoma City in 1912.

Dan Sonney of Los Angeles told Long Beach Po-lice Sgt. Daniel Sallmen that his father purchased McCurdee's corpse approximately 55 years ago to display in his traveling show. Customers paid 2 cents to peer at McCurdee, Sonney said.

The corpse subsequently languished in a warehouse when Sonney's father died. The whole traveling show was purchased in 1949 by a Chinese gentleman, Son-ney said, and he lost track of it:

McCurdee was first exhibited at the Pike in the 1920s, Sonney said.

Dave Friedman, president of Entertainment Ventures Inc. of Los Angeles, also identified the body as McCurdee on Friedry Friedman said his Friday. Friedman said his firm acquired it, kept it in a warehouse in the 1950s. then sold it to the Hollywood Wax Museum, which in turn sold it to an amusement firm in Long Beach. A second, less detailed theory was advanced Friday that the mummy is a man who was shot off his horse and killed in 1901 in Long Beach. Neither the man nor his killer were ever identified and the body subsequently disappeared.

This suggestion was advanced by Rufus Campbell Visalia, a former resident of Long Beach. He was living as a youth in the area when the shooting took place.

The Long Beach Police Department was organ-ized in 1908, so no records of the shooting exist. The mummy, now in the custody of the coroner's office, has no fingers, so no fingerprints can be taken to identify it as the infamous McCurdee.

Information supplied

Thursday by the coroner indicated that the mummy had been shot once in the chest with a bullet last made in the 1800s. The embatming fluid was last made in the 1800s, too.

A spokesman for the coroner's office said the teeth were being studied for additional detail to use in the identification effort.

The coroner said that someone had also tried an earlier autopsy.

Sonney said he had bet an old friend that the corpse was real and had hired a doctor to prove it. This accounts for the earlier autopsy, he said. Salimen said that the mummy probably was thought to be a fake because of the paint and the numerous coats of shellae.

It was discovered by a film technician during a shooting of a scene for the 'Six Million Dollar Man' television show Wednes-day. The technician accidentally knocked off an Boyington's story of his war exploits, is about 90 per cent accurate, he said. "We're making dramatizations," said Boyington.

Most members of his squadron whohave seen the show ere "delighted" with the oduction, he said, though some points out minor inaccuracies such as the use of different model aircraft and lights on runways.

BOYINGTON said "there are some things we actually have to one down" to make the fighter squadron's exploits suitable for television. Some salty language and derog-atory terms for the Japanese were deleted, he said.

Boyington said he didn't fight in World War II the illusion that it would be the war to end all wars. He said he joined the Marines as an aviation cadet in 1935 not to "shine shoes and polish brass, but because of the reputation of the Corps."

HE ADMITS his methods for running a fighter squadron were unorthodox. "This was our thing, Boyington said. "We ran the squad by our own rules.

Boyington said he's pleased the new television show appears to be a suc-cess. But he admits being in the limelight "isn't all fun. With everything good, there's a few things that are damn unpleasant."

Boyington said he thinks the show appeals to viewers because it "is timely. This is about a romantic era in aviation that will never happen again," he said.

49ers get a classic shot at Trojans

Although outnumbered, 3-1, Long Beach State's Lloyd McMillian glides above trio of Butler Bulldogs to score basket Friday night in first round of Trojan Classic.

No Dodger blue for Monday — at present

By GORDON VERRELL Staff Writer

The Dodgers continued to sweeten the pot Friday in their efforts to pry Rick Monday loose from the Chicago Cubs, but a final decision will not be decision will not be made until Tuesday or Wednesday.

"I guess they went home for approval." Dodger vice president Al Campanis said Friday, the final day of the winter baseball meetings and inter-league trading period.

Approval from the Cubs' boss, Phil Wrigley, is needed in the case of Monday, who became a national here for his actions last summer when he intercepted two would-be flag burners-ironically, at Dodger Stadium.

"Mr. Red. White and Blue," is the way Campanis describes him. By the time the Cubs departed the Los Angeles

Rau, Dusty Baker, Ivan DeJesus,

John Hale and Lee Lacy to Chicago for Monday and righthanded pitcher Bill Bonham.

"You have to have second thoughts anytime you're talking about a pitcher of Rau's caliber."

Campanis said of the lefthander. whose 2.75 earned run average ranked second in the National League last year. His 16 wins were high for his career. But in Monday, who hit 32 home runs last year, drove in 77 runs and batted .272, the Dodgers would have offensively, at least, the strongest outfield in the club's Southern California history. The only outfields that would come close to a threesome of Monday. Bill Buckner and Reggie Smith would be the 1974 outfield of Jimmy Wynn. Buckner and Willie Crawford-Joe Ferguson, and the Willie Davis-Tommy Davis-Frank Howard alignment of the early '60s.

While the Cubs weren't budging, their crosstown neighbors, the Chicago White Sox, were. Three hours before the trading deadline expired at midnight, the Sox sent pitcher Rich Gossage to the Pitts-burgh Pirates for outfielder Richie

The Dodger deal with the Cubs started as a 4-for-2 trade: Baker. DeJesus, Lacy and Rick Auerbach for Monday and relief pitcher Mike

Then it became a 4-for-t deal: the same four for Monday.

Then it became a 5-for-2 deal: Rau's name was tossed in, Hale was substituted for Auerbach, and the Dodgers asked for Bonham (9-13 last year) instead of Garman.

But the Cubs want Glenn Burke instead of Hale. The Dodgers say no—and that's where it stands at the moment.

While Campanis favors the trade, new manager Tom Lasorda isn't so sure.

USC does its Ruffen leads 'best', 83-75 63-50 blitz

By LOEL SCHRADER Staff Writer

USC advanced to the championship game of the Trojan Basketball Classic Friday night, turning back Grambling, 83-75, before a crowd of 4,282 at the L.A. Sports Arena. But the Trojans have more at stake than their fifth successive Trojan Classic title.

Bragging rights to the No. 2 spot in the Southland will be at stake when USC faces Long Beach State in the championship game at

This is one the 49ers have been waiting for - and so have the USC coach Bob Boyd was cautious as he looked ahead to tonight's final.

"It should be a good intensity type of game," he said. "There should be a lot of spirit."

There also was some spirit to USC's victory over Grambling. which yielded 14 successive points at the outset of the game, then fought back to put pressure on the Trojans in the second half.

But USC forward Greg White scored 28 points and hauled down 19 rebounds to lead the Trojans to their second victory in five games and hand Grambling its first defeat in six contests.

"I thought it was White's best game," said Boyd. "Some of his points may have looked easy, but they weren't. He drove right through Grambling's defense to stuff the ball a couple of times. Not every player would attempt some-thing like that."

Guard Mary Safford also contributed 20 points to USC's win in what Boyd described as "our best game of the season."

White and Safford had to be at their best to offset the 30-point performance of Grambling's 6-7 Terry Sykes, who bombed away over the top of the Trojan defense. He also had 13 rebounds.

After trailing by 14 at halftime, Grambling twice narrowed USC's lead to five points, the last with 13 seconds remaining.

"There were some holes in the defense Grambling opened with." said Boyd. "But that's not the kind of zone Long Beach plays when it uses one. I've seen the 49ers play once and they used both zone and man-to-man. The zone is very active and quick.

But with either the zone or the man defense, Long Beach is quick and puts pressure on the ball."

As for Grambling, Boyd said the Tigers were "a little flat at the

But, he said, "they came back and played a spread court game. It isn't healthy for us to get into that tempo.'

Grambling coach Fred Hobdy was also looking forward to lo-night's championship game. "Long Beach and USC will be an interesting matchup. It will be a very physical game. Whichever team gets a couple of fast breaks in a row could easily win it. They are two fine teams with experience and depth. It will be an interesting

USC threatened to record a shutout, running up a 14-0 lead before Grambling's Sykes sank a 12footer $4\frac{1}{2}$ minutes into the contest.

Tigers opened in a 1-2-2 zone defense and played timidly while the Trojans were exhibiting their best basketball of the season.

By JIM McCORMACK Staff Writer

For the first time in two hours, Dwight Jones was relaxed and smiling.

"We kept our end of the bargain," Jones said Friday night after watching his Long Beach State basketball team topple Butler, 63-50, in the first game of the Trojan Classic in the L.A. Sports Arena.

The "bargain" is a first-ever basketball confrontation between the 49ers and tournament host USC and it is a big deal, to Long Beach

Radio stations KABC-AM (790),
KFOX-AM (1280) and KKOP-FM
(93.5) will broadcast the 49er-Trojan

There wasn't much mystery to Friday night's first game. The 49ers opened the scoring on a 20-foot jump shot by forward Larry Hudson and quickly bolted away to a 14-4 lead.

Hudson had four points in the spree and Lloyd McMillian added

The 49ers didn't slow there, bolting to a 26-8 advantage with 9:02 to play and it looked as though they would claim their fourth win of an unbeaten season by halftime. Jones substituted at that juncture and for the first time his reserves failed him.

"They didn't really hurt us defensively." Jones said of his sec-ond five, "but they did break down offensively."

When the 49ers scored only two points in the next five minutes, Butler (2-4): was able to whittle away at its deficit. When reserve Tom Orner made two free throws at 4:29. Long Beach's lead had been reduced to six, 28-22.

Jones then reinserted his starters and they quelled the rally with a 10-2 spurt, McMillian collecting four points and Richard Johnson, Hudson and Clarence Ruffen two.

Ruffen had his best effort of the season for the 49ers, hitting 8 of 13 field goal attempts for 16 points and adding nine rebounds

"Ruffen, by far, had his best game of the season," said Jones.
"He'was comfortable in the offense and looking for his shots. Ruffen had a simplified explanation for his success

Lakers cooking at home, 109-99

By DOUG IVES Staff Writer

Have the Lakers become unbeatable at home? They rolled to an easy 109-99 victory over the Houston Rockets at the Forum Friday night. The win was the Lakers' seventh in a row at home. They led by 30 points in the third period. The regulars didn't play much of the final quarter when the Rockets made the score respectable. The victory, snapping a three-game losing streak-all on the road-also elevated the Lakers (13-11) into third place in the Pacific Division.

Defense was the key to the win as the Lakers shut off the top two

Houston scorers, Rudy Tomajanovich and Mike Newlin.

The Rockets came to the Forum with a 14-6 record, having won eight of their last nine games Don Ford and Kermit Washington limited Tomjanovich to 12 points in the first three periods. He added nine in the final stanza when it didn't count for much. Newlin missed 10 of 15 shots against the strong guard of Don Chaney Abdul-Jabbar again had trouble getting shots against a double-teaming defense. But he hit seven of the 10 he took and handed off for eight assists.

Rams may catch cold, even inside

By RICH ROBERTS Staff Writer

PONTLAC, Mich.-The team is still called the Detroit Lions, but nobody with a choice goes there anymore.

The football team (6-7) also has moved to the suburbs, not to mention to the second division of the NFC Central, out in the wide-open spaces of the Michigan countryside where winter holds the land in its frozen grip.

What are the Rams doing here?

Well, today they will be watching the Minnesota Vikings playing beneath the palm trees of Miami and trying to determine if they (the Rams, 9-3-1) will be able to open the NFL playoffs next week hard by the freeways Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Lucius Allen sparked the Lakers' offense. Allen netted 20 points and Abdul-Jabbar 18 in limited playing time.

He also grabbed 16 rebounds.

If the Dolphins do the Rams a favor, it will be up to the latter to secure the home priority by dispatching the Lions in the Silverdome tonight (Channel 7, 6 p.m.).

It used to be called the Ponmet, which was short for Pontiac Metropolitan Stadium, but the name never caught on.

So it's now the Silverdome, and there are two things that set it apart from other covered stadia.

First, it's the only stadium with indoor waterfalls. Not that anybody planned it that way. It just happened when the roof leaked as the Rams prepared to play the Lions here a year ago. The joint should be recalled by the factory

Also, don't assume it will be warm just because the game is indoors. Bahy, it's cold outside, but it's only 20 degrees warmer inside-maybe up to

The 49ers shot 59 per cent (16 of 27) while building a 38-26 intermission lead, but struggled the last 20 minutes, making only 9 of 26 (35 per cent), marksmanship that once allowed the Bulldogs to draw within eight points.

That came on a layin by Ed Thompson with 6:23 to Ruffen silenced that comeback, however, hitting three consecutive baskets to give Long Beach a 60-46 lead at 3:30. The 49ers then went into a deliberate offense and literally ran out the clock.

Jones wasn't alarmed over his team's lack of firepower.

"It's going to take a while," Jones said. "We want them taking the open shot, but being patient at the same time. It's going to take each kid a while to find his niche.

"Then, late in the game, we were concerned about fouls, so we went to our power set, which is a continuity offense. We wanted to run some time off the clock, and I thought the kids did a good job with

"Our defensive statistics are amazing," said Jones. "We're playing fullcourt defense, not holding the ball on offense, and we've still given up only 54, 46, 67 and 50 points a game."

"I'm delighted with the defensive intensity of the entire team," continued Jones. Tonight one of the real keys to the game was the job Dale Dillon did on their guard (Wayne Burris). Dale really bottled him up, and when he came out, Donnie Martin went in and did a job.' Burris, who averaged 17.5 points a game last season, missed six of eight shots against the 49ers and had only four points and no assists. Ruffen was the game's leading scorer with 16, followed by Butler's John Dunn (14) and the 49ers' McMillian (13). FG FT R A 5-10 2-2 6 4

New bill would block parole for Calif. death-row residents

SACRAMENTO - Present residents of San Quentin Prison's death row would have their sentences changed to life imprisonment without possibility of parole, if legisla-tion introduced Friday by Assem-blyman Alister McAlister becomes

McAlister, D-San Jose, said he was introducing his bill, AB 37. because of the California Supreme Court decision earlier this week invalidating the state's death-penalty

Without his bill, McAlister said, the 67 persons awaiting execution will be eligible (or parole when the California court ruling becomes final Jan. 6, 30 days after the court's unanimous decision Dec. 7.

The court ruled then that the California statute was unconstitutional because it did not conform to U.S. Supreme Court guidelines handed down last July. The state law requires imposition of the death penalty when juries find that certain, specified circumstances existed at the time a killing occur-

But the federal court held that juries should also be allowed to consider what it called mitigating circumstances involving the offense or the person convicted of committing the offense.

"In 1972, when the California Supreme Court threw out the thensupreme court threw out the therexisting death penalty law, 107 murderers on death row were made eligible for parole." McAlister said. "Since then four of those murderers have been paroled."

The 67 killers now on death row, and all others convicted until a new capital punishment statute is in effect, will become eligible for parole seven years after their conviction, he said.

His bill, he said, "is not meant us a substitute for the death penalty. In fact, I plan on either introducing or supporting legisla-tion to restore a constitutionally enforceable death penalty in Cali-

State of California has been clearly expressed; they overwhelmingly approve the death penalty.

McAlister referred to an initiative on the 1972 ballot which, in effect, endorsed the concept of capital punishment. It was approved by a substantial margin. McAlister said AB 37 would require a sentence of life without possibility of parole for persons convicted of first-degree murder if it is determined that the "special circumstances," cited in the death penalty statute, are found to have

It could apply to prisoners now awaiting execution, he said, if it were signed into law before Jan. 6. But, he acknowledged, enactment of AB 37 by that time "is exfremely unlikely."

His bill, he said, would be a stop-gap measure for use in future prosecution until a new deathpenalty statute is enacted.

In state transit plan

Brown vetoes tolls, smog tax

SACRAMENTO (AP) -Parts of a controversial state transportation plan that envision tolls on freeways and a "smog tax" based on vehicle emissions have been vetoed by Gov. Brown's administration.

In a letter dated Thurs day, Director of Transportation Adriana Gianturco and her boss, Business and Transportation Secre-tary Donald Burns, ordered the State Transportation Board to revise the most controversial elements of the plan.

They said they had reviewed the controversial plan with Brown and "fundamental changes" must be made before the Democratic governor would accept it. In particular, all elements of the pian which increase taxes were ordered restudied.

'In the absence of clear and compelling need, we cannot support any general increase in the level of taxation," the letter said.

Although the plan was never formally endorsed by Brown or his top aides, Ms. Gianturco had shown sympathy to some of the concepts in the lengthy proposed policy document.

"We seriously question both the equity and prac-ticability of a pricing strategy which calls for vehicle stickers for air quality, 'smog taxes' imposed by regional agen-cies, tolls on freeways. transportation based on income and other sophisticated pricing mechanisms of uncertain impact," Ms. Giantureo and Burns wrote.

In effect, they rejected ideas which Ms. Gianturco had nurtured.

One of the concepts which Ms. Gianturco had championed in the past which the Gianturco-Burns letter now criticizes is "full social accounting" of transportation costs.

That was a line of reasoning opposed by the highway lobby by which "hidden costs" of freeways such as loss of land from the tax rolls and air pollution costs are added in theoretical calculations to actual construction costs of freeways. That made the costs of some public mass transit systems appear in a better

"If 'full social accounting' is to be accepted as a principle, it must be defined precisely and take into consideration the full range of benefits, as well as full range of costs, in particular transportation investment," the letter said.

The letter, written on Ms. Gianturco's stationery with Burns adding "I concur" and his signature below that of Ms. Gianturco, was addressed to W R Lucas of Healdsburg, chairman of the State Transportation Board.

"We have reviewed the document with the governor and have several major concerns about the plan as it is now written. Fundamental changes in these areas must be made if the plan is to reflect the policy of the administra-tion," they wrote.

The letter was drafted after three days of off-and-of Dec.20 quake hit SACRAMENTO (AP) -

Hawthorne man's prediction that an earthquake will strike Southern California "around. Dec. 20" is so vague it is useless, the state's emer-gency chief said Friday.

Charles Manfred, director of the Office of Emergency Services. released his response to a letter from Henry Min-turn, who told the state Dec. 7 of his earthquake prediction method;

"His prediction that an earthquake will occur somewhere in the Southern California area on Dec. 20 is non-specific as to location and magnitude, which are key elements of a useful prediction," Manfred said.
"The fact is that an

When UCLA and Notre Dame meet on the basketball court, the shockwaves are usually felt on the Richter Scale

It's quake time in Pauley Pavilion again today as the Bruins (3-0) and Fighting Irish (4-0) match perfect records. As usual, the contest is a sellout—has been for monthsbut KTLA (5) will televise the hysterics at 1 o'clock.

Notre Dame ducks nobody and December is a busy month. The Irish, who already own an 80-79 decision over Maryland on the road, host Indiana Tuesday and travel to Louisville to battle Kentucky in three weeks.

DIGGER Phelps would be breathing a lot easier these days if Adrian Dantley, Bill Laimbeer and Bernard Rencher were in South

Dantley, the nation's fourth leading scorer (28.6) as a junior and an Olympic gold medalist, opted for the professional ranks while Laimbeer and Rencher, both Ireshmen, were academic casualties.

Phelps remains optimistic. "Our goal remains the same, the NCAA tournament," he says. Only Notre Dame and UCLA have been in the NCAA regionals each of the past three years. Obviously our task is more difficult.

"Dantley might have been player of the year and Laimbeer had the potential to be as good as any center in the country."

Digger makes do with a front line of 6-9 junior Dave Batton (10point average), 6-6 senior Bill Paterno (9.8) and 6-8 sophomore Bruce Flowers (12.2).

The starting guards are 6-3 junior Duck Williams (17) and 6-1 senior Ray Martin (8.3). UCLA coach Gene Bartow won't be surprised to see freshman Rich Branning of Huntington Beach's Marina High in there early.

Through four games the 6-3 prep all-America has averaged 12 points while leading the club in free throw accuracy (.823) and assists (17). He's also among the leaders from the floor (.607).

ANOTHER man the Bruins are wary of is 6-8 senior forward Toby Knight, Notre Dame's second leading scorer (12.5) and No. 1 rebounder (9.5).

The Irish have not won in Pau-ley Pavilion—their closest decision a pair of 13-point defeats-in nine

"This is a big one for both teams," says Bartow. "It certainly has to rate as one of the premier intersectional rivalries in the country-and you know a victory in this one has to help you in the polls."

The Bruins are ranked No. 3 and Notre Dame is No. 7.

Arizona selects Mason CAVS— Put rookie guard Mo Howard on waivers and activated Chuckie Williams.

Tony Mason, 46-year-old head football coach at the University of Cincinnati, was chosen for a similar post at Arizona

Mason arrived in Tueson with Arizona athletic director Dave Strack and was interviewed by the university's coach selection committee. Mason succeeds Jim Young, who resigned Sunday to become head coach at Purdue.

Mason coached Cincinnati to a 9-2 record in the past season and was 25-18 in four years at the Ohio school.

After concentrating on UCLA defen-sive coordinator Dick Tomey and Arizona aide John Mackovic for most of the week, Arizona officials made the surprise move to Mason Thursday, when Strack flew to Cincinnati to interview him.

The two returned to Tucson and within hours Mason was chosen the head coach. Coincidently, Arizona interviewed Mason for the coaching job more than four years ago when Young (31-13) was Strack said Monday he wanted to have a new coach by the weekend, but when neither Tomey nor Mackovic—the only other candidates the school said it interviewed—were picked immedidately, if appeared that goal would not be reached. Strack went to Ohio after two meetings with Arizona president John Schaefer failed to result in a decision.

Thirty years ago players saw danger signs in baseball's restrictive reserve clause and tried to warn owners about the possible conse-quences, Bobby Feller remembers.

"They wouldn't listen," the Hall of Fame fireball pitcher of the Cleveland Indians said this week at the winter baseball meetings. "They just stuffed another sandwich in their mouths and told us, 'Go ahead and tend to the balls and bats.

we'll handle the business end. 'Now the garbage has hit the fan. Baseball is in real trouble. If salaries continue on the present scale I'm afraid half the clubs won't be able to make it.

"THE ONLY salvation I can see is closed circuit television. It could bale them out. You know, go to your hotel room, pay three bucks and dial for a game. You have to compete with Hollywood.

Feller's comments came in the wake of a doomsday warning by Charles O. Finley, beleaguered owner of the Oakland A's who goes to court next week in Chicago to seek redress for loss of the guts of his once-championship team. Charlie O. puts a price tag of $9 million on the players he lost in the free agency

Charging that commisioner Bowie Kuhn single-handedly destroyed his fran-chise by voiding a $3.5 million for three of his players. Finley said poor leader-

"The handwriting is on the wall." Finley said. "The day of reckoning is at hand. It's not tomorrow. It's yesterday and loday."

Feller, now 57, a hotel executive headquartered in Cleveland, said the players had similar qualms back in the 1930s and early 1940s preceding World

"I EVEN went to Washington and appeared before a congressional committec. It made no difference. The owners thought they could go on with their slave rules forever. They felt that they were untouchable.

Now the courts have cut the lines which tied a player to a club for life. The action came quicker than the owners expected. They weren't in a position to absorb the impact. So what happens? They're stuck with long term, milliondollar contracts that actually are out of

$1 billion solar-power trial urged by state energy panelist

By RON ROACH

SACRAMENTO (AP) -A California energy com-missioner said Friday the state should approach an unpredictable energy future by stressing conser-vation and competing with private industry for federal funds.

Gene Varanini also said the state should settle the debate over solar energy by proposing a $1-billion bond issue for solar and wind-power projects and seeing whether utilities and consumers used them.

Varanini, chairman of the commission's committee on policy overview for the biennial energy report to the governor, said the energy picture is so clouded with doubt that the state should adopt a strategy hedging against in supply uncertainties and demand.

"The commission lacks any confidence in our or anybody else's view of the future," Varanini said in opening remarks at a hearing on a draft of the policy plan.

"The events of the last few years stand as elequent testimony to the principle that demand is uncertain, that the availability and cost of both resources and technology are problematical, even next 20 years. Varanini said conservation should be the corner-stone of the "hedging strategy" that avoids dependence on singleresource technologies, resources risky because of federal or foreign regulation, or inflexible, expensive schemes with far-off returns. He also suggested:

-A $1-billion bond issue to make state funds available to construct solarand wind-driven power plants. The plants could be sold to utilities.

"If solar or wind power turned out to be too expensive, even including a credit for environmental benefits, then the program could be terminated, the 'great solar debate' re-solved. If they are costeffective, we are all much better off."

-An institution created by the state to compete with private industry for any federal funds that might be available to finance projects in the state interest, such as importing clean fuels or financing residential or commercial solar-energy investments. He said that any government subsidy for private industry risk capital should be fully explained to the public. "If the pub-lic is doing the investing, it seems reasonable that it should have some say over how the money is spent.

Senate dean takes on agony-ecstasy' post SACRAMENTO (AP) - fraud by McDonnell Douglas

State: Senate dean Albert Rodda was named chairman of the Senate Finance Committee Friday and described the post as an agony and eestasy.

Rodda, a Sacramento Democrat chosen by the five-member Rules Committee, added, "I think in this case there is more agony than ecstasy.

As chairman of the committee in the 1977-78 session, Rodda will preside over hearings on all money bills introduced in the Legislature and play a central role in writing the state budget.

A Zure Request faces quick competition in SoCal debut

A Zure Request, who has earned more than $100,000 this year as a 3-year-old, makes his Southern California debut this afternoon in the featured Santa Monica Purse at Los Alamitos Race Course against six other speedsters, including Southern Gentlemen.

That duo, both invited to the prestigious $75,000 Champion of Champions in eight days, will be facing Five Chies, Jet Mine, Ed Dee, Eta Copy and Dr. Twiehaus in the 400-yard dash.

A Zure Request has been stabled under the direction of national training leader Blane Schvaneveldt throughout the current winter season while awaiting the Champion of Champions.

A winner of seven of his 12 races this year, A Zure Request defeated Hi Johnny and Lucky Stepper while winning the World Classic last July at Ruidoso Downs. N.M., to earn his invitation to the Champion of Cham-

Two share favoritism in Avalon Pace

Total Freight and Table Hopper will vie for favoritism in tonight's featured Avalon Invitational Pace at Hollywood Park.
Shelly Goudreau, having his finest season in the West, will drive Total Freight, who comes off a 1's-mile victory over Bo Bo Baron and The Champ. That was the seventh win of the 1976 campaign for the 6-year-old son of Tar Heel Jim Dennis handles

Table Hopper, a 4-year-old son of Bret Hanover who won nine of 11 last year. Table Hopper turned back the good pacing mare Sweet Attraction in his last start and prior to that beat Skip With Joy by a length. On the year Table Hopper has won six times and finished in the money in 16 of his 25 starts.

Bo Bo Baron, second to Total Freight last week, has the rail with Larry Gregory, A five-time winner this season. Bo Bo Baron has been a winner in 1:59 this season at Hollywood Park.

The leukemia therapy at Children's is a combina tion of four drugs and relatively low dosages of

The drugs kill malignant cells in the blood and in the bone marrow, but they are ineffective in killing those which have spread to the central nervous system — the brain and spinal cord. The purpose of the radiation is to kill the central nervous system leukemic cells.

Dr. Lusher said the hospital's reliance on smaller doses of radiation given in several different treatments is the reason for their success.

"Most of the other centers are using a single massive dose of radiation, about 2,500 rads," she said. "Our dose is only 100 rads, and we are getting fewer side effects."

IN 1972, when Dr. Lusher began the new treatment and started keeping records, it was not possible to identify children with T-cell leukemia - a form of the disease striking 10 to 15 per cent of those with leukemia, in which survival chances are poor.

When children with Tcell leukemia are excluded from the records the remission rate climbs to 77 per cent. Before 1972 the remission rate was only 32 per cent, and other centers around the country are reporting rates of approximately 50 per cent.

The treatment at Children's Hospital was developed by Dr. Lusher; Dr. Wolf W. Zuelzer, chief of laboratory medicine; Dr. Y. Ravindranath. hematologist, and Dr. Basil Considine, radiotherapist, All are on the faculty at Wayne State University.

'Educated' parents often hardest hit

By RICHARD FLASTE New York Times Service

NEW YORK - Sometimes the people who might look as though they'd make the best par-ents, because they're so full of educated know-how. are the saddest after the baby is born. They come down with the notorious "baby blues," and the melancholy quiet is broken only by the baby's writing, or the methou? crying-or the mother's.

The baby blues are said to strike a great many mothers and some fathers but how blue one gets and how long the sadness lasts varies widely.

QUESTIONS arise about what causes it. Emotions? Hormones? And there are questions about how to handle it, and about when it crosses the boundary of normal unhappiness and enters the realm of severe disor-

Anna Katz Brenner, a Manhattan psychotherapist who runs a program called Check-Up for Emotional Health that frequently deals with postpartum depression, observes that her clients often seem to have put too much pressure on themselves. They know so much, they intend to be so competent.

She recalls a woman who taught nursery school, was proud of her ability with children and then was shaken to the roots when she had her own child. She could not handle every situation that arose with the intelligence she thought she should muster, and her fragile self-esteem was shattered. The woman sought relief in therapy.

IN CASES that are even more painful, postpartum depression has been known to lead to hospitalization of mothers and to suicide attempts. The potential of childbirth to precipitate mental disor-ders has been substantiated by researchers who

note an increase in such disorders in the first year

after pregnancy.

Most people do not experience anything nearly so terrible. Depending on how emotionally prepared to have a haby the parents were, and how firm their feelings about themselves are, the specialists say, baby blues is usually a transitory period of melancholy that may come in the form of waves of sadness.

What causes it is not known for certain. Dr., Myrna M. Weissman, a Yale University psychiatrist, said that, so far, there is no proof that hormonal changes at the time of childbirth play a role, though she did not rule out that possibility.

UNLIKE depression associated with menstruation, for which researchers have found litthe consistent proof. sadness after having a baby does come with provable regularity.
Dr. Gideon G. Panter.

an obstetrician who wrote "Now That You've Had Your Baby, Do You Know " (McKay, $9.95). speculated the other day that often the blues might be a matter of "mourning for the death of the old you, the person you used to be, the happy-go-lucky career woman."

It passes, he said, as the baby is put into perspec-tive, and as "you realize that you're basically the same person, who knows how to have a good time, knows how to relate to your spouse, and knows she has the same ability to relate to a career.

Fathers can feel down in the dumps, too, he said. They reflect the sadness of their wives and grieve for themselves, longing for that carefree fellow who did not have to provide for a child's future.

Others who have looked into the subject conjecture that a father often suffers because he feels he has lost his place in the sun to the new child. Some authorities point to the in-creased desire of fathers to do some traditional mothering chores.

THIS THEN makes a man vulnerable to the same anxieties that a woman feels over ability to handle the job, the same exhaustion, the same letdown when he finds that he loves the baby less than he expected to, and is angrier with the child than he thought he would be.

The depression persists for at least two weeks; it disturbs sleep, appetite is diminished; there is a sense of hopelessness and helplessness, perhaps a wish to die, or that the child had never been born.

This Viking has seen enough horror games

By BILL BRAUCHER Knight News Service

MIAMI-Since 1968, a year after Bud Grant became head coach, the Minnesota Vikings have won eight of the nine titles available in pro football's Siberian Division.

They have yet to win a Super Bowl. Their history of post-season frustration, unmatched even by the Dallas Cowboys in their years of almosts, makes the National Conference Central a suspect group. If the Vikings can so dominate the Central and keep coming up empty, how bad are the Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions?

The Vikings are not demonstrative men, but rather a colony unto themselves, silent as Minnesota winters and reflecting the class of their quiet coach. But evenfual defeat nags them as it deprives them of winners'

"Oh yeah, tell us about it. Tell us about last year," said Doug Sutherland, with sarcasm but without malice. At 28, Sutherland is the kid on an otherwise familiar front four of Alan Page, 31, Carl Eller, 34, and Jim Marshall, 38, Sutherland has fewer playoff horror-stories to tell. "I've only been to the Super Bowl twice, when we got beat by Miami and Pittsburgh, but I've been there enough to know what it's like.

"We're tabbed as losers who can't win the big one, and it's hard to take. Last year's game was hard to live with, especially if you live in Bloomington, as I do,"

Last year the Cowboys pulled another liturgical coup. Roger Staubach called it a "Hail Mary" pass, and observers agreed it was the supernatural equivalent of the "Immaculate Reception," the deflected pass Pittsburgh's Franco Harris snatched in stride to beat Oak-

Staubach's miracle occurred with 24 seconds to play and the Vikings in front, 14-10. With the line of scrimmage at midfield, Staubach unloaded a playground job toward the general direction of Drew Pearson and gang of Vikings in the end zone. Pearson caught the ball and the Vikings were cursed again.

"Pearson pushed Nate Wright to the ground," Sutherland said. "He went down like he was shot, but there was no flag."

There was a bottle instead. It flew from the stands seconds later, after the shock had eased and Minnesota fans began to digest the significance of what had happened to them this time. The bottle skulled Armen Terzian, the field judge.

Wow, I saw the thing coming. I was standing right near him. Nailed him right between the eyes," Suther-

He added, for the record, that he disapproved of such tactics, while admitting he thought a form of justice was served at the time.

Sutherland is among those cherub-faced characters with the disposition of linebackers whom the NFL seems to attract. He may be the best but the least recognized of the Purple People Eaters, as someone once labeled them in a fit of banality.

He would prefer to beat the Miami Dolphins today because winning is better. But the home-field playoff site that would accompany a Minnesota victory does not excite him.

The Vikings can clinch a home site with a victory. The Rams would get one if the Vikings stumble and they defeat Detroit tonight.

"There might be a psychological advantage, but I don't think anybody really wants to play there. It's just that teams who come in hate it worse than we do," Sutherland said of dingy Metropolitan Stadium.

"We're not the highest paid team by any means, because of that stadium (cap. 48,000 to 51,000-odd, depending on standees willing to suffer). How can they pay you if you don't put any people in the place?

"It's an old baseball stadium. There's not a good seat in the house for football, the sidelines are way off from the stands. The people in Minnesota deserve something better.'

That said, Sutherland made it clear he likes Bloomington as a city and the Vikings as a team. At least they feed the hungry. He came to the Vikings five years ago from a New Orleans training camp in which the inmates staged a hunger strike.

"It was in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, the end of the world. Most of the time we ate in a local pizza parlor, the caleteria food was so had I was delighted to get the hell out of there. I'd been in the New Orleans camp three weeks and was half worn out when I got to Minnesota's camp, which always opens late and was just starting

The Vikings annually feature a sybaritic spread for morale purposes early on the training schedule. When Sutherland checked in he found tables laden with roast suckling pig, turkey, ham, pheasant, duck and so on. He

IN ANOTHER pivotal NFL game today, the steamrolling Pittsburgh Steelers can clinch a playoff position by defeating the Oilers at Houston.

Terry Bradshaw returns at quarterback for Pittsburgh as the Steelers seek their ninth win in a row after a horrendous 1-4 start when they were written off as moribund by nearly everybody, with the possible exception of Chuck Noll.

"We'd look pretty foolish if Oakland beat Cincinnati and then we lose to Houston," said the Pittsburgh coach.
"All that we've worked for would go down the drain."

The Steelers have been working so hard that they've permitted a mere 28 points in those eight successive victories, four of them shutouts.

But Oiler coach Bum Phillips insists his team won't

"I'm more concerned with the heat out here," says first-year coach Vern Thomsen, whose Ellsworth, Iowa, Panthers (9-0) battle Bakersfield College (10-1) for the national junior college football title this afternoon at 1 in the Junior Rose

The temperature was 20 degrees and there was six inches of snow on the ground in Iowa Falls Thursday night when Thomsen loaded his crew on to a plane bound for California.

"WE'LL SUB more than ever," said Thomsen. "If the heat (expected to be in the middle 70s) gets to us it will be in the fourth quarter." "This game will be a tossup," he continued. "Bakersfield has played a much tougher schedule than we

Ellsworth is ranked No. 1 by the JC Grid Wire, and Bakersfield No. 2.

So the fight on the field will be for No. I during the reincarnation of a game that vanished 10 years ago when California JC organizations, bitterly protecting their purse strings, split with the National Junior College Athletic Association following a long struggle with the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce and formed an independent playoff system.

"We'll have at least 20,000 people here today," said Bakersfield coach coach Gerry Collis. "We'll need our fans. If Ellsworth has a weakness, I haven't found it:"

A CROWD of about 35,000 is expected to watch Ellsworth throw its Veer offense, which averaged 43.6 points a game behind freshman guarterback Walter Grant, at a Bakersfield defense, led by all-America middle guard Ennis Bowers and linebacker Rick Jones. The Gades allowed 16 points a game.

Ellsworth has a rigid defense which gave up just 84 points (9.3 a game). But will it be able to handle a team that averaged 30.8 points out of the I-forma-tion, including a 68-13 rout of Long

The rate of suicide among children in their grammar school years, generally thought of as a person's most carefree and happy times, is in-creasing at an alarming rate, a Boston-area child psychiatrist says. Why do children from 6

Furor at benefits decision

Women plan to lobby for birth pay law

By KEITH LOVE New York Times Service

NEW: YORK - "We bombed out in court, so we'll have to go to Con-gress," said Kathleen Peratis of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Angered and somewhat haffled by the Supreme Court ruling on Tuesday that private employers may refuse to compensate women for work absences caused by pregnancy, the ACLU and various women's grouns and union representatives will meet in Philadelphia Tuesday to ulan a major lobbying eifort for a national law that would fequire such compensation.

"THERE has been a sudden flash of recognition among people who had not expected this decision that a law is the only way to guarantee these benefits Miss Peratis said. "I think the prospects are good now that the court has ruled, because the ruling is simply not fair and it's bad public policy."
The court's 6-3 decision

rejected the finding of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that exclusion of pregnancy from workers' compensation plans violated Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The decision, which involved the General Electric Co., izations that had been basing their fight for benefits on the commission's interpretation of the rights act.

"We had not pushed hard enough for state or national legislation," said Noreen Connell of Women Office Workers. "We were waiting to see what the Supreme Court would do.

I THINK this is what you would expect from an all-male Supreme Court." Miss Connell said.

Sex discrimination is money. The companies are concerned mainly about what they think it will cost to continue to pay women who are on leave to have babies. I don't think they trust women workers; they say that women will go on disability and then quit. But their biggest claim is that preg-nancy is voluntary and thus shouldn't be covered. But that's a false issue.

That pregnancy is often voluntary is a central argument of those who do not want to see benefits extended to pregnant women, according to Marilyn Brook, a licensed workmen's compensation representative who argues cases before the New York Compensation Board.

"I've heard it said that we live in a time of the pill, of birth control, and that pregnancy is more that pregnancy is more than ever a voluntary condition," Miss Brook said.

"But I think the more important issue is what this will mean to women wanting to enter the work force of think the fact that they have not be able to get benefits if they are pregnant may discourage pregnant may discourage them from working at

Saltzman, 37, who specializes in treating young-sters who attempt suicide, said the most frequent occasion for a childhood suicide attempt is a death in the family, or a separation, or an argument with a loved one.

One signal of possible suicide in a child, Saltz-man said, is depression, an ailment that psychiatry did not recognize in children until about 10 years

Depression in children. he said, can show as hyperactivity, a failure to make friends, poor school performance and hypochondria. Among 10- and 11-year-olds it might show up as delinquency, vandalism and fighting.
The increasing rate of

said. "We've come a long way from thinking it's all the parents' fault. What we're trying to ligure out is to what degree is the child predisposed to depresssion," he said.

Saltzman said a recent clinical study he did based on his own experience and that of his collast year for which such statistics were available, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that 25,683 Americans killed themselves

The official figures for suicide among pre-adolescent children, Saltzman said, don't begin to tell the story

Bereaved families are often more concerned about concealing a child's suicide than an adult's. And many suicides of children -- such as death by drowning or automobile accident — are classified

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Federal Communications Commission gave a go-ahead Friday for cap-tioning television programs on the TV screen so hearing-impaired people can enjoy the programs more fully.

A system called "closed captioning" will be used, in which only viewers with special attachments on their sets can see the captions. Thus, it will not distract other viewers.

But the commission wouldn't go as far as asked by the Public Broadcasting Service and reserve a portion of the TV screen solely for such captioning.

The FCC said it wanted to leave the way open for possible future use of the same portion of the screen during non-caption periods for such things as weather information, news and stock market reports

Tourney title to St. Anthony

All the good things that were supposed to happen to St. Anthony High's basketball team this season are starting to come true.

The Saints, with four starters in double figures, defeated Katella, 81-74, Friday night to win the championship of the eighth Lakewood Varsity Tournament.

It was difficult to determine who was happier after it was all over — the Saint players or rookie head coach Tony Marques. who not only had to replace veteran coach Jack Errion but take over a team that had four starters returning from a co-Angelus League title squad.

Those veterans -- Lance Dietrich, Jim Donnelly, Tony Spanier and Ralph Esposito — led the way

Dietrich had 23 points, Spanier and Donnelly 19 and Esposito 14 to account for all but six of the , team's points.

A near-capacity crowd at Lakewood watched three excellent games. Jordan nipped Lakewood, 75-73, on a tip-in by Ed Davis with one second remaining to win third place, while Downey rallied in the fourth quarter to beat Paramount, 62-57;"and take the consolation title.

St. Anthony, whose only loss in five games was a six-point setback to defending CIF champion Poly, started strong, then finished with a flurry to beat Katella, which has been a perennial Orange County power under Tom

With Esposito and Donnelly controlling the back-boards, the Saints jumped off to a 16-4 lead.

Katella rallied to trail by only two at half, 34-32, and the teams were still only two points apart at 64-62 with 3:08 remaining.

But whereas in the past the Saints might have been content to sit on the ball, this time they turned it on. Donnelly provided the impetus with a threepoint play, and the Saints outscored the Knights 17-12, in a wild final three

Katella lost its best player in forward Chuck Greene (15 points) on fouls for the third time in the tournament, but center Ray Donnelly took up much of the slack, scoring 22 points to lead the

Lakewood and Jordan matched up even better in a game that saw the lead change hands 21 times before Davis, a 6-4 reserve, tipped in a missed shot by Dwayne Campbell that had hit the rim.

Lakewood, which had a four-point lead entering the fourth quarter, had tied the score at 71 on Craig Dykema's 18-footer at the seven-second mark.

Dykema, who again led the Lancers in scoring with 21 points, had hit one of two free throws at 2:16 to give Lakewood at 71-68 lead. But the Lancers seemed surprised when Jordan suddenly switched to a 1-2-2 zone and went scoreless for more than two minutes to enable the Panthers to claw back. Moby Oliver led Jordan with 15 points. Coach Bob Cook got good efforts out of his bench, espeially Davis and Bill Gasper, who had 14 points.

Downey trailed Paramount, 43-37, after three quarters, then scored 25 points the final eight minutes as forward Herb Harper got hot and put in five baskets to finish with 20 points.

It's Fontana at wire, 14-7

By Dennis Brosterhous

SAN BERNARDINO -Dell Cannady fired a pass to Ron Carter, who in turn lateraled to Mike Fox for a 28-yard touchdown play with 22 seconds remaining to give Fontana a 14-7 victory over Westminster High before an estimated 10,000 fans at Orange Show Stadium Friday night in CIF 4-A semifinal action.

It was the second week in succession that Fontana had scored the winning touchdown with 22 seconds remaining. The Steelers were presented the opportunity when Carter inter-cepted a Westminster pass on the Lions' 31 with 55 seconds to play.

The constest was filled with missed opportunities and turnovers. Twice Fontana drove inside the threat.

tie the score 28 seconds before halftime. The Steel-ers marched 83 yards in eight plays, aided by a 44-yard bomb from Cannady to Carter. Gary Tate powered in from the six to make it 7-7.

WEAPONS FOUND in bunkers in the desert near Lancaster are examined by sheriff's department aide. Nazi and other

and other right-wing Nazi "hate" literature was found at the home of a man linked to eight tons of munitions found in his yard and in desert bunkers, Los Angeles Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess said

Pitchess said munitions found at the Ontario home of Donald Wiggins, 41, include machine guns mortars, an antitank bazooka and ammunition.

There is enough to equip a 200man company of military personnel," Pitchess said.

THE SHERIFF said it was possible the munitions were collected from military installations and stored by a large number of people in preparation for some sort of revolutionary campaign.

He said those responsible must be "insane revolutionaries."

Wiggins was booked Friday morning for investigation of possessing destructive devices and machine guns, after leading invesligators to the material, cached at his home and a foundry he owns in nearby Pomona.

Pitchess said investigators also found large amounts of anti-Jewish.

Nazi and anti-Communist propaganda at his home, along with protective equipment, food and survival supplies.

Military officials were cooperating in the investigation, he said. Pitchess said Wiggins had told investigators he was not responsi-ble for the stowing of the material in the desert, at his home or foundry, and that a man named Jeff Martin had acquired and

PITCHESS said he did not yet know who Martin was, but deputies investigating the Ontario cache said the man they are seeking had given Wiggins $17,000 in $20 bills, supposedly as a loan to help finance the foundry.

"We are assuming that the name (Martin) is correct and that he (Wiggins) is not trying to estab-lish a fall guy," said Sheriff's Det. Ron Moya, adding, "We are not totally satisfied with what he said. There are several conflicts, but we think he's trying to make a clean

Wiggins told investigators he had been acquainted with Wesley Swift, the founder of the revolution-ary Christian Defense League, Pitchess said, adding, however, that Wiggins also told them he had broken with Swift before Swift's death a few years ago.

The National Socialist White People's Party, also known as the American Nazi Party, was active in Ontario two years ago with at least four Nazi houses decorated with swastikas and other such trademarks, one area resident said. One of the houses was located in Wiggins' neighborhood. However, there was no immediate connection discovered between Wiggins and

She offered this explanation for her son's predicament:

A friend of her son's named Jeff Martin, of Los Angeles, loaned her son $17,000 in 1974 to finance his foundry in Pomona, and asked to store some containers. He has returned intermittently to store more drums and canisters.

Her son accidentally knocked over one of the canisters two weeks ago, opened it, found what he believed were machine gun parts, and

By WALLACE TURNER New York Times Service

SAN FRANCISCO One of Howard R. Hughes' longtime aides and companions, John Holmes, invoked his right not to in-criminate himself Fridayvhen he was asked where the late recluse got drugs to treat a kidney ailment, according to sources present at the deposition in the Los Angeles County Courthouse.

This came within days after disclosure that a soon-to-be-published book, based on the stories of two of Hughes' personal ser-vants, will picture the billionaire as injecting him-self with some unknown, clear substance in a hypo-

Holmes, 60, who is a vice president of the Summa Corp., Hughes' holding company, was questioned under oath in pretrial discovery pro-ceedings in preparation for a will contest that begins Jan. 10 in Las Vegas.

The will at issue is the one found last spring in a vacant office in the Mormon Church world headquarters in Salt Lake City. It has been denounced by Hughes' associates and members of his family as a forgery.

In another aspect of the discovery proceedings, it was disclosed Thursday that Melvin Dummar, a Willard, Utah, filling station operator who is named as a beneficiary in the will, is under investigation by the Nevada attorney general's office in connection with the suggestion that the will was

DUMMAR was questioned in a deposition on Tuesday and was asked if he had read two books about Hughes from the li-brary of Weber State College at Ogden. According to sources present at the session, he said he had not used that library and had never seen the books, unless someone had handed

The books were "Hoax" by Clifford Irving, who described how he fooled so many people with his false autobiography of Howard Hughes, and "Howard Hughes in Las Vegas" by Omar Garrison, a book de-voted to describing Hughes' four years living in the Desert Inn in Las Vegas.

It was in that period, according to Dummar, that he picked up Hughes as the wealthy recluse walked alongside a remote highway in Nevada. The will that makes Dummar a beneficiary of one-six-teenth of the Hughes estate is dated in March 1968, when Hughes lived in the Desert Inn.

ACCORDING to Paul Freese, a lawyer who questioned him on Tues-day, Dummar denied seeing the books. But on Wednesday, after being told that the Nevada authorities had removed the books from the Weber State College library, Dummar went back to the deposition session where his wife was being questioned. Freese said Dummar asked to reopen the questioning and to explain that he now remembered that he had been to the library and had handled the books, although he had not read them.

Freese represents rela-tives of Hughes from his father's side, and it is to their interest that the will be found invalid. Hughes' mother's relatives have also called it a forgery.

The position of Hughes' employes, such as Holmes, has been to attempt to avoid being questioned, and it was only when Holmes was threatened by a contempt order that he finally appeared for questioning under The initial phases of his questioning were finished last month, but the parts dealing with Hughes' men-tal and physical condition, as Holmes observed them had been put over until Friday.

This was so that the questions that Holmes refused to answer could quickly be put to Probate Judge Neil Lake, who could rule on them. Judge Lake ordered Holmes to answer the question about Hughes' supply of drugs' for his kidney ailment.

BUT WHEN Holmes cited his constitutional right against self-incrimination. Judge Lake said he could order an answer only after a long hearing. The matter was deferred.

Holmes was one of six men who were called executive aides to Hughes and who lived with him, on eight-hour shifts, 24 hours a day for more than a decade.

In the book, "Howard Hughes — The Hidden Years" by James Phelan, Gordon Margulis, one of the servants of Hughes vho is a source of anecdotes in the book, is quoted as saying he saw. Hughes attempt to to inject himself with a clear liquid. Hughes was too eak to depress the plunger on the hypoder-

TOP DEFENSE AIDES

Because Schultze has a less favorable image in the business community, which Carter is said to want to reassure with his treasury appointment, Carter sources gave him less chance for that post. But several predicted that he would get a "big job," possibly as secretary of health, education and welfare or even, as an outside chance, as defense secretary, because he has established such excellent rapport with Carter.

Two other candidates for top economic posts were Andrew Brimmer, the first black to sit as a member of the Federal Reserve Board, and Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Of-fice, both widely considered prospects for chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Brimmer said Friday that he informed Carter of his interest in a cabinetlevel post, such as the chairmanship of CEA but was not interested in any lower positions.

Several black leaders privately expressed some impatience that no black had yet been named to a position in the Carter cabinet, although the presidentelect was understood to be leaning to-ward an unprecedented choice of a black as attorney general.

Meanwhile, Carter said Friday that spent in such areas as public works, public service jobs, community development programs and housing subsidies. He would ask for a tax cut, he said, only to the extent that the required amount of stimulus could not be reached through additional government spending. Carter made his remarks on the economy on the steps of the Pentagon at the end of a two-day visit to Washington. He spent Friday morning with groups of Democratic senators and representatives and spent the afternoon at Pentagon briefings. Friday night, he flew to Plains, Ga., for the weekend. His aides said-that he would probably go to Atlanta next week to continue to interview persons for top positions in his administration.

S. Korea CIA chief in U.S. is persuaded to return to Seoul

By RICHARD HALLORAN

WASHINGTON - The South Korean government has won a struggle for the loyalty of the Ko-Central Intelligence Agency's Washington station chief, Maj. Gen. Kim Yung Hwan, who has been persuaded to return to Seoul, authoritative Korean sources said

But the Korean government has been unsuccessful in luring home another senior KCIA officer, Kim Sang Keun, who defected here and remains in the hands of the FBI despite an appeal from his younger brother who came from Seoul to plead with him, the Korean sources

THE Koreans said that Kim left Washington for Seoul Thursday with his family. He had been ordered to return, along with most of the 25 other KCIA officers in the U.S., to avoid being questioned by federal agents.

The FBI is gathering evidence for the Justice Department to present to a grand jury on allega-tions that South Korea mounted a five-year operation to bribe U.S. congressmen, and undertook illegal lobbying to get the Congress to favor Korean interests.

Although the KCIA officers who were posted in the Korean embassy here and in consulates around the country had diplomatic immunity, they could voluntarily submit to questioning. To refuse to do so might be taken as a sign that something was amiss.

KIM, AS the station chief, was the target of an intense appeal by Korean opponents of President Park Chung Hee living in America. They wanted him to defect, as that would have discredited Park's government and undermined his domestic political position.

Federal officials also let it be known that they would be receptive to a defection even though they were not able, under diplomatic protocol, to make an open plea. Kim was considered to have evidence that might have aided the investigation into bribery.

But it appeared that Kim was not so important as Kim Sang Keun, who defected two weeks ago and is said to be cooperating with the inquiry. Kim was the key con-tact man between KCIA headquarters in Seoul and several special agents who allegedly bribed con-

The government in Seoul is clearly anxious to get him back, both to stop what is believed to be a torrent of information he is giving to federal investigators and to recover what is considered serious damage to the reputation of Park's government.

The government in Seoul recently sent Kim's younger brother, whose full name could not be learned, to Washington, with orders to see Kim and urge him to return to Korea, Korean sources said.

SINCE State Department officials said they were not informed on the younger Kim's visit, it appears that he bypassed that department and went directly to the FBI.

In any event, the younger Kim was not able to see his brother, according to Korean sources. Just why was not clear, as Justice Department officials have maintained a rigid "no comment" posture on almost everying about Kim's defection. Kim earlier told State Department officials that he had no desire to see anyone from the Korean embassy despite repeated requests from Korean diplomats.

Future bleak, Mexicans told consumer, who has experienced an average inflation

MEXICO CITY (AP) President Jose Lopez Portillo announced a "produc-tion alliance" of government and private industry Friday and warned that Méxicans are in for a tough period of rising

"We have poor answers for how to live through a crisis such as the one we are in, and shortly we will have to abandon the poli-tics of economic fiction and confront a painful for which we do not have sufficient solutions," the president told a group of industrialists.

Representatives from 140 companies in 10 production areas met with Lopez Portillo to ratify pacts between the government and private industry as part of the new administration's effort to recuperate from the country's worst economic crisis in decades. The agreements call for private industry to join the government in investing $8 billion and creating 300,000 jobs in the next six years.

The pacts are with industrialists involved in petrochemicals, capital goods, manufacturing, tourism, vegetable oils, cement, automobiles and

A spokesman for Knight said that Miday, a promising 6-loot-8 freshman forward from Canton, Ohio, quit because he thought he and was uncertain whether to re-'main a student.

However, the campus news-paper. The Indiana Daily Student, quoted Miday as saying there was a conflict with the coach.

Miday said he admired Krilght's knowledge of basketball, "but I couldn't stand the way he treated me as a human being.

'I felt that as a player on the NCAA champions that I deserved better than to be treated as an object and demeaned in public...."

Miday said he was especially just meant then, but I couldn't accept that." Miday said. "I really wanted to play for the guy....When you are recruited, you don't see him in a tense situation...he just goes bananas.

Miday conceded he had some academic problems but said, "I lost my concentration and it affected my studies...I couldn't see four years of this."

Miday was the second player in a week to quit the team and the fourth since the Hoosiers completed their unbeaten season and won the NCAA championship last spring.

'The facilities will always be in deficit." he told a news conference Friday. The stadium is a white elephant, and if you throw in the velodrome and swimming pool, I'd have to say I'm in charge of a herd of white elephants."

Charron, who is also minister responsible for sports, youth and leisure, was particularly critical of the management of the Montreal Expos baseball team.

Earlier this week he vetoed a pro-

Asked about a National League ruling Thursday permitting the Expos to play 1977 games elsewhere if the stadium was not available, Charron said team executives had "a moral debt to Montreal

"I don't know of any city in North America which would have supported a rotten team like the Expos the way Montrealers did in 1976," he said. The Expos had the poorest record in major league baseball last season.

Yanks' protest overruled, Spain World Cup leader

PALM SPRINGS-Spain, benefitting from an overruled protest by the United States, swept into the team lead Friday in the second round of the World Cup international golf tournament.

Americans Dave Stockton and Jerry Pate called a rule infraction on the Spanish team—their playing partners—but

The Spanish team of Seve Ballesteros and Manuel Pinero had a 142 total, the only team even par after two rounds at 288. Both missed the sixth green and were in the rough only inches apart.

Pinero marked his position and removed the ball to enable Ballesteros to play. Pinero, however, handed the ball to his caddy and "the caddy had a towel in his hand and the ball was in the towel," Pate said. Cleaning of a ball under such a condition is prohibited by the rules and involves a two-stroke penalty.

The intraction was brought to the attention of official Robert Dwyer, who conferred with the Spaniards. Pinero told him the ball had not been cleaned and Dwyer ruled no infraction had occurred. Pate said he was not bothered by the ruling, but he bogeyed the next three

West Virginia prep favoring USC as recruiting war gets feverish

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)-Does the warm climate of sunny Southern California appeal to a high school football star from West Virginia?

It apparently does if you're Robert Alexander, the South Charleston, W.Va., High School senior who's been voted the nation's outstanding prep running back by Parade Magazine.

The most heavily recruited West Virginia athlete since basketball star Rod Thorn was declared "a natural resource" in the early 1960s, Alexander said he was told he's the only high school running

STREAKING KINGS HOST TO BUFFALO

Perplexed over winning only one of their last 15 games, the Kings play the Buffalo Sabres tonight in a National Hockey League match starting at 8:05 on the Forum ice. A crowd of 12,000 is expected to break away from watching the Rams on TV.

"We're fortunate that we're still in second place after the way we've played for over a month," coach Bob Pullord said Friday.

Currently two games under .500 and in danger of losing second place in the Norris Division, the Kings encounter a revitalized Sabre team which was bolstered with the return of Danny Gare this week.

Sidelined most of the season by a back injury, Gare scored two goals in his first game. A year ago Gare registered 50 goals. In their previous meeting this season, Buffalo handed the Kings a disappointing 4-3 loss when Gil Perreault connected in the final 32 seconds.

All states and the District of Columbia pick their electors by popular vote. By state law, with the exception of Maine, the presidential candidate with the most popular votes wins every one of the state's electoral votes. Whether the popular-vote winner has a margin of one vote or a million, he still gets all the electoral votes of that state.

Derwinski's proposed amendment would divide states into electoral districts, as they are now divided into congressional districts, and the candidate winning the popular vote in each district would get its electoral vote. The popular-vote winner for the state as a whole would be awarded two additional electoral votes. Maine adopted this system in

What Bayh has in mind when he talks about the clear and present danger of the electoral-vote system subverting the popular will is that it makes it possible - and actually

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Life rolls on in about the same grooves most of this year, but provides plenty of chance to perfect personal skills, put your judgment into practice. You exercise your free will mainly by your choices of response rather than by taking direct actiom. Relationships require much serious thought. Today's natives are pleasant, this year have a propensity toward all things metaphysical, will be conscious of influences other people shrug off or merely let slip by.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Welcome a quiet Sunday. With the holiday season coming along, you've plenty of plans to make. Look over lists, allot budgets. Cheek on health for endurance.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Establish communications with your neglected self. Re-call bygone events. By quietly reevaluating current relation-ships, you come to terms with reality.

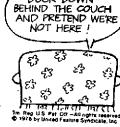

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Today's surface is slow, nothing special goes on outwardly. For a change, you are free to reorient inwardly, find you've changed your mind on subtle issues.

Head of FPC balks at staff's gas-crisis effort

Although the letter did not identify the system with a seriously lower storage condition, Dr. S. Yule gift: $1 million to kill coyotes

By THOMAS LOVE Washington Star

WASHINGTON - The Office of Management and Budget, generally viewed by other government agencies as a Scrooge which does nothing but slash their budget requests, has turned Santa Claus this year and given the Fish and Wildlife Serv-ice an additional $1.1 million which hadn't been requested. In fact. Fish and Wildlife doesn't particularly want the money, which is earmarked for environmental groups one of its most controversial and widely criticized programs — the killing of coyotes in the Western states.

Toby Cooper of the Friends of Wildlife blasted the OMB action and sug gested that the granting of the money was a political payoff to the supporters of President Ford in the Western states where stockmen strongly back covote-control programs.

The federal program has long been a major target of conservation and which view it as needless slaughter of innocent animals. They also charge that the use of various poisons is a danger to humans, particularly chil-

Dumping of DMV

BERKELEY (AP)-The company hired to destroy film negatives of Califordriver's licenses denied Friday that it had dumped thousands that were found intact at the Berkeley city dump.

Pete Block, communications manager of Conso i-dated Fibers Inc., said that, since the firm took over the state contract in July, it "has only received two pallet shipments of similar film, both of which are still at its Richmond facility in a bath of ace-tone."

ACETONE and shredding are used to destroy film negatives like those discovered Thursday after a telephone tipster called a San Francisco television station. Police later confiscated 83 boxes of film, enough to fill the back seat and trunk of a police

"There are two or three loops of film in each box, and each loop has hundreds of licenses on it, said police information officer Richard Berger. "It was a potentially dangerous situation. In the hands of wrong people these could be printed out and turned into phony identification cards."

The negatives each showed driver's license information and a head photo of the licensee, but they lacked a state seal added during license print-

This is a serious thing," said Dale Schultz, the Berkeley DMV office. We can't permit nega-tives, driver's licenses or blanks to be thrown around. I'm sure we would terminate the contract of a contractor if he were found responsible for

IN Sacramento, Elmer Brown, head of the DMV licensing division, said the matter was under investigation, but said it appeared initially that the licenses were processed after Consolidated took over the disposal contract. As best as we can determine, film that was supposed to be destroyed was dumped," he said. Brown explained that such full-size negatives are kept for six months by the DMV, then destroyed by a private contractor. He said the sole contractor is Consolidated Fibers Inc.

S.F. drug doctor is fined $30,000

 A San Francisco physician was fined $30,000
 Friday, and sentenced to five years' probation, on 20 counts of illegally selling prescriptions for controlled substances.

U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti told Dr. Irving Davis, 68, that had the been practicing any place else but San Francisco's Tenderloin District, "where most of the residents are drug addicts and winos," he would have sent him to jail.

The judge denied mo-tions for a new trial and for acquittal. Davis could have drawn a maximum of five years and $15,000 fine on each count. He was accused of selling prescriptions for Seconal, Tumal and Rifalin, all controlled substances.

Judge Conti noted that Davis wrote prescriptions without even examining people like "just writing He commented that, even though reports to probation officers lauded the doctor for being compassionate, Davis also was 'materialistic.''

The judge said the physician was worth at least a half-million dollars, owning among other things a home and 20 acres of land in Mariposa County, interest in two medical buildings and interest in a shopping center.

The government had urged a fine of $100,000 be imposed but made no suggestion as to a possible

Judge Conti told Davis he could have been sentenced a total of 100 years and warned that if terms of probation were violated he would not hestitate to send him to jail.

"I think money is secondary to the safety of children," Ingalls said in an interview. "They (school districts) should be complying with the legislation no matter what the fiscal consequences are."

Girls sue store on age bias

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) Two high school students filed an age dis-crimination lawsuit ket solely because they were under 18.

Youth Law Center said the San Francisco County Superior Court suit by Tina Encarnacao, 14, and Lisa Foo, 13, contends a security guard prevented them from entering a Lucky store at 1100 Eddy St. on Oct. 15.

The suit says the guard informed them store policy prohibited them from entering unless accompanied by a parent or responsible adult.

THE ACTION claims the store has a policy against the admission of persons under 18 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., an apparent effort at cutting down on shoplifting by

Lucky corporate officers were unavailable for comment.

But the assistant manager, Jim Hennessey, said the store only bars large groups of minors who regularly cause trouble and has no policy barring all minors during specific hours.

The suit claims the alleged policy is arbitrary and irrational because it excludes many honest young people while not affecting adults who may be shoplifters or otherwise undesirable.

The suit seeks punitive damages of $250 each for the girls and prohibition of such practices throughout the Lucky chain.

By SUSAN SWARD

SACRAMENTO (AP) -Dow Chemical Co. asked the state Friday for the right to store water from the Sacramento River at its proposed plant site in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta.

At a Water Resources Control Board hearing, Dow said its $500 million plant would store a maximum of 1,700 acre feet of water a year in a dam in dry hills next to the river.

Dow, which has the right to take water from the river already because its property borders on the river, needs the board's approval to store water to be used in chemical processing.

JOHN BRYSON, the board chairman, said the board would take the testimony under submission and study it along with testimony from a fiveagency, two-day hearing on the plant earlier this week.

To build the plant, Dow must win this permit and numerous others from federal, state and local agencies.

The San Francisco Bay Area Pollution Control District's rejection of the plant is being appealed, but, if it stands, that alone will block the plant's construction.

To date, Gov. Brown has declined to take a position on the plant, which is supported by business and labor interests and opposed by environmentalists.

Dow's application says its maximum diversion from the river would be about 8,500 gallons per minute.

Dow would discharge river water too impure for the plant's uses at an average rate of 1,300 gallons per minute. The state governs how salty that discharge can be.

PG&E bill refusal Friday claiming they were barred from a supermar-

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) The decision of four cities to boycott outstanding Pacific Gas & Electric bills totaling $1.3 million was a "matter of life and death," one mayor said Friday.

A fifth city. Ukiah, has paid its current bill, but plans to refuse to pay its November bill if the dispute has not been resolved.

"We were just being forced out of business," said Lodi Mayor Richard Hughes, calling the boycott a question of survival.

The cities, all members of the Northern California Power Agency, have taken their dispute to the Federal Power Commission, which regulates wholesale rates and approved the PG&E increase. Hughes said the cities plan to appeal the FPC's ruling in federal courts.

In a letter to the four cities Thursday, PG&E said it will sue for breach of contract to recover the amount due, plus seven per cent increase.
The letters threatened power blackouts if the bills are not paid. "If you persist in your refusal to pay for the service we are rendering, we will consider ourselves free to institute proceedings before the FPC for termination of service. PG&E said.

A PG&E spokesman said Friday the possibility of blackouts was remote, and that the company was searching for an alternative settlement.

"The problem is with the city, not with individual customers. The city officials got them into this pickle," the spokesman William Lewis, Lodi's director of utilities, said the city was likely to stop its protest short of imposed power outages. He said a special meeting was planned to consider alternatives.

One would be for the cities to pay a portion of the bill, and deposit the rest in an escrow bank account, until the dispute is

It wouldn't be Christmas without a tree. And Americans are expected to buy a record number of live and artificial trees his year, despite higher 1976 prices. Wholesale prices for live trees are about 5 per cent-higher than last year, according to John Koch, a Birdsboro, Pa., grower and president of the Na-tional Christmas Tree Association.

And American Tree & Wreath, the nation's larg-est maker of artificial trees, says retail prices for its products are about 6 or 7 per cent above 1975 levets.

DECIDING whether to buya live tree or an artificial one is a matter of personal preference. The artificial trees cost more, but they can be used year after year and may work out to be cheaper in the long run. They are easier to handle, present less danger of fire and don't shed

Live trees, on the other hand, are likely to appeal to people who want the real-thing. The pine smell, the Jun of picking out the perfect tree, unlike anyone else s.

Koch said growers would sell about 27 million live trees this year—about the same as they have for the past four or five years. The most popular species the Scotch pine and the Douglas fir, followed by the balsam fir.

THE PRICE, he said. depends on the quality of the tree and the place you but it. A six-foot Scotch pine sells for about $4 to $5 at the wholesale level. Add freight charges and the re-tailers' costs—including rental of the lot—and you cant figure on paying at least double and probably more for the tree you carry home.

What Koch calls the "Cadillac trees"—the Douglas firs—sell for $8 to at the wholesale level. Refail prices will be $18 to $20 and up, he said.

What should you look

for when buying a tree?

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder," said Koch. The expert tooks for a full, symmetrical shape, tapering⊋at the top. To check for freshness, try bending the needles. If they are rubbery and don't break, the free is fresh.

KOCH said there were two "musts" for the consumer who wants to keep his or her tree fresh. First, make a new cut at the bottom of the tree or have the retailer do it for you. That enables the tree lo absorb water. Second, make sure you give the tree plenty of water and never let the stand get dry. A tree that has been standing in a retailer's lot may absorb up to three quarts of water the first

Scotch pines generally shed least, but Koch said all varieties of trees should retain their needles well if you keep them watered.

You don't have to worry about shedding at all with an artificial tree. But there are other things to take into consideration—ease of assembly, resemblance to a real free and storage.

Don Warning, market-ing head of American Tree & Wreath, said that sales of artificial trees this year would near the 26 million mark—a record. Another spokesman for the company said the firm's sales this year were esti-mated at $35 million, up from $25 million last year He said the increased dollar value was due to price hikes, a growth in the number of units sold and the fact that people are buying more expensive

A spokesman for Dudwick-Shindler Associates, sales representatives for a variety of Christmas products, including artificial trees, estimated that Americans would spend $80 to $100 million on take trees this year.

He said the cost can run anywhere from $9.99 for a small tree to $99.99 for the eight-foot-and-up variety. The most popular varieties cost between $30 and $50 for six-foot sizes. The so-called convenience trees, which you do not have to assemble branchby-branch, are even more expensive: $40 to $70. Most of the artificial trees come in their own storage cartons. You should be able to store a six-to-eight-foot tree in a box about the size of a small coffee

The Dudwick-Shindler spokesman said realism was the most important factor in selecting an ar-tificial tree. The better the tree, the faster it sells

Retail sales rise atter summer lull

WASHINGTON (AP) _ cent, well ahead of the 5.3 Rezil sales snapped out of per cent advance in consummer doldrums in October and November and exhibited their strongesta performance since early in the year, the gov-erment said Friday. The Commerce Department said retail sales for Nowember totaled $55.6 billion in preliminary estimates after adjustments for seasonal variations.

THAT WAS a 1.7 per cent jump over October, which in turn was revised upward to a climb of 1.1 perfeent from an original estimate of a three-tenths of the cent rise.

If was the first twomonth climb for retail sales since February and Match, when they gained a total of 3.4 per cent.

Sales had slipped 1 per cent in September, continuing an essentially flat performance throughout the late spring and sum-

The surge in sales fol-lowed a Federal Reserve report that consumers had inceased their indebtedness in October by the largest margin in three years,

Taken together, the reports suggested that consumers may be in the mood for a strong holiday buying season, which many economists have said is needed to help reinvenate the economy. Compared to November 1975, retail sales last month were up 10 per The Country Parson by Fronk Clark the more like a live tree it looks," he said. "Silver trees are passe," he added, explaining that the aluminum trees fell victim to changing style preferences and concerns over

THE Consumer Product Safety Commission notes that the metal trees present no hazard in themselves, but can be the source of serious shocks if electric lights are attached. Sharp metal edges can cut the cord insulation or metal needles may touch an electrically charged component. Never put lights on a metal tree.

The green artificial trees generally are made of a flame-retardant plastic and will not support flames. If you apply a match directly to a needle it will burn and melt, but the fire will not spread.

NEW YORK (AP) — A number of major commerthe bank, and that obviously has been slipping down," said a spokesman cial banks cut their prime for Morgan Guaranty, the lending rate Friday, signaling a possible tempo-rary cut in the rates for nation's sixth largest bank, which cut its rate from 64 to 6 per cent. "Banks have a raw materials cost, and money's the raw material."

According to a spokes-man for the U.S. League of Savings Associations, prime rate cuts made by eight major Cali-fornia banks and New York's Citibank and Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. — should be reflected in small reductions in mortgage costs "sometime at the end of the first quar-`next year.

Probers at fatal dam find 'support' missing

WASHINGTON (AP)-Some investigative test drilling has failed to turn up traces of reinforcing grout where it should be in the remnants of the Teton Dam supports, the Army Corps of Engineers says.

The finding surfaced Friday at a meeting of a review panel coordinating work on the federal inves-tigation of the cause of the June 5 dam break that killed II and resulted in damage estimated at $1.8

lated in an interim report Oct. 21 that there was a possibility of major leakage through the so-ealled grout curtain, a series of holes filled with a mortarlike substance of cement, water and other materials. But the panel tentatively concluded that data compiled at that point showed the grouting to have been "carefully per-lurmed."

In judge's opinion

Cocaine ruled far less dangerous

By DANIEL HANEY BOSTON (AP) — A district court judge said Friday that cocaine is far less dangerous than ciga-rettes or alcohol and declared the Massachusetts law banning its use unconstitutional.

Judge McKinney dismissed the case against a defendant charged with possession in Roxbury District Court. However, court officials sald his decision does not set a precedent and has no effect on enforcement of the state's cocaine law.

District courts, the low-est rung of the Massachusetts court system, do not have the power to set precedents, as higher

Last month, when McKinney was hearing evidence in the case, he said he wanted to sniff cocaine himself. However, he dropped the idea when he said it had "taken on the dimensions of a circus

People and ideas Corpse-praying cult reaching for the stars

- A small band of worshipers who prayed for two months over the corpse of a young Greek man belong to a "family" of 1,000 centered in the entertainment communities here and in Los Angeles, the New York Post said

The head of the family is Oric Bovar, a 59-year-old opera coach who was one of six men found last Wednesday at the bedside of the decomposed body of Stephan Hatzitheodorou.

THE POST SAID the group does not comprise a rigid organization but is based on obedience to guidelines set down by Bovar, including bans on drinking, drug use, meat-eating and premari-tal sex. Members may not consult doctors or persons in the psychic-phenomena

The family has no formal name or meeting centers, other than Bovar's apartment on the upper West Side of Manhattan, the newspaper said. Other than meditation and disciplines, it has no formal creed.

Eighteen months ago, Bovar was a mail-order astrologer in Italy, the Post

Existence of the group came to light after police, acting on an anonymous telephone tip, gained entrance to Hatzithcodorou's studio apartment, found the body of the young Greek national and learned that the men inside his room had been chanting and praying for two months in an effort to bring him back to

All six were cited for failing to report a death, a health code violation.

Bovar appealed mainly to struggling young actors and actresses, opera singers, writers and other young artists and professionals, the Post said. He was seen as a father figure with great healing

Oric is considered very powerful. He has shown his strength," a New York actress told the Post.

Bovar was not immediately available for comment.

THE POST SAID that television actress Bernadette Peters was among the members of the cult. However, her spokesman, Rick Ingersoll, said that Miss Peters, although she had met with Boyar, was not a member.

"Bernadette has had no contact with this man for several months," Ingersoll said. "At one time she attended seminars . in New York, but it wasn't of interest to her and she withdrew."

The medical examiner's office, which performed an autopsy on the body, said Friday that Hatzitheodorou died from cancer. Police said earlier that he died

Welfare Dept. relents on aid for dying girl

ALEXANDRIA. Va. (AP) - With a cutoff of their welfare benefits averted, the Douglas Dar-nell family Friday prepared for a benefit party for their dying daughter.

Slain woman's kin billed for police tow

FRESNO (AP)-The parents of a young woman who was stabbed to death here have been billed by the city for the cost of towing their daughter's car away so police could inspect it for clues.

When her parents filed a claim with the city for a refund, they were turned down. Maria Wise, 20, was found stabbed to death in her apartment May 15, ln the course of an investigation, police took her car to inspect it.

Police said Miss Wise's killer was still at large.

Melinda Darnell, 15, has been slowly succumbing to a malignant brain tumor. The three-year medical battle has exhausted the family emotionally and family emotionally and financially. When news reports in November told of their struggle, the Darnells were flooded with offers of help from strangers, in-cluding eash donations. That led the Fairfax County social services department this week to notify them of a January cutoff of food stamps, Medicaid and Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments.

But Friday the department relented.

"They called here this morning and said they had made a mistake," said Melinda's mother, Mrs. Mary Darneil.

Edward Amundson deputy director of the de-partment, said he had reviewed the case late Thursday, deciding that the termination decision by the family's case worker was in error. He said, however, that the gifts might affect the teenager's status with Social Security.

A benefit is to be held

Sunday at a nearby high school for the girl and her Tamily

It is being arranged by friends and a group of citizen band radio enthusiasts, known to Mrs. Darnell mostly by their on-air "handles."

'I have never in my life seen anything like it," she said of the activity to organize the benefit which she said would be highlighted by an appearance by Jerry Lewis.

"There's a lot of human compassion out there," she said. "The people are there, if they just know about you." about you.

Late Friday it was still uncertain whether Melinda would be able to attend the benefit. She was unable to sit up Friday and had "a hard time talking," her mother

By FRANCIS THOMPSON O World invisible, we view thee, O world intangible, we touch thee, O world unknowable, we know thee,

In no strange land

Does the fish soar to find the ocean, The eagle plunge to find the air — That we ask the stars in motion If they have rumor of Thee there?

Inapprehensible, we clutch thee!

Not where the wheeling systems darken, And our benumbed conceiving soars! — The drift of pinions, would we hearken, Beats at our own clay-shuttered doors.

The angels keep their ancient places; --Turn but a stone and start a wing! 'Tis ye, 'tis your estranged faces That miss the many-splendored thing.

But (when so sad thou canst not sadder) Cry; - and upon thy so sore loss Shall shine the traffic of Jacob's ladder Pitched be betwixt Heaven and Charing Cross.

Yea, in the night, my Soul, my daughter, Cry; — clinging Heaven by the hems; And lo, Christ walking on the water, Not of Gennesareth, but Thames!

Let's talk about a poem. Poetry, of course, is "out-of-date" — and many readers shy away from any writing that looks like

This is sad because all the great ideas are poetry. The Bible is poetry. It may be history, philoso-phy, a code of ethics and the divinely inspired Word of God. But, above all, it is poetry because it presents great ideas beyond this world in the realistic words of this world.

To understand poetry one must bring to it his own knowledge, emotions and intuitive understanding. Therefore, every person will read poetry differently. It is never as matter of fact as a shopping list.

To read this poem one needs to know a bit about Francis Thompson. He was a 19th century Eng-lish "hippie." He took opium and wandered the streets of London, troubled by malnutrition and religious ideas. Some Catholics took him in and helped him to get his head on straight.

"In No Strange Land" sounds simple, but isn't. One can think and think about it, feel enriched but never be sure of just whe he thinks.

'O WORLD INVISIBLE'

Surely every human being has had flashes of knowing beyond knowing, of being almost in touch with things he can not see or feel or measure. Sometimes one might be looking at the sea or the desert or even the way the sunlight pours into a usually ugly slum. He is close to something. There is, for an instant or for a changed lifetime, a recognition of an "invisible world."

Sometimes the corny jukebox says something profound. One song had the refrain:

"Is this all there is? Then roll out the bar-rell!"

Deep in our hearts at our most sensitive times we know that this is not all

IN MOTION

I remember a religious conversation high above the western United States. One man was a cool English astronomer en route to Arizona to carry out some research. The other was a businessman whose wife had just died. He wanted the astronomer to tell him that there was some evidence of God out "where the wheeling systems darken."

"None," said the astronomer. He explained that his work was strictly scientific. He found facts and related them to other facts. The stars carry no comfort for a grief-stricken widower.

The stars on a bright desert night inspire awe. Many persons still try to read their personal desti-nies in the heavens. But we and our world are also part of the universe.

A SEMESTER
ASSIGNMENT
A professor handed each student a sea pebble and a note at the beginning of a senior philosophy course. The note said: "This is your assignment for this course. Write a term_paper about this stone. You may use any or all academic disciplines you know. There will be no lectures but you may consult with me about your project."

It is not recorded that any students produced great science or literature. But surely none of them have forgotten their semester of trying to understand a stone. It was really a semester in religion. Study just a pebble thoroughly enough and you will "start a wing."

HEAVEN AND CHARING CROSS

Perhaps you remember the vision of Jacob in the desert. He saw a great ladder swarming with celestial beings. The poet is telling us that great visions can be had even in Charing Cross, one of the

Lutherans form new denomination

CHICAGO (AP) new Lutheran denomina-tion was formed here last weekend by those called "moderates" who have broken away from the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in resistance to its conservative leadership.

The rift had been threatening since 1974. when most of the faculty of the church's leading seminary, Concordia in St. Louis, quit and formed a break-away seminary in protest against pressures on teaching by the denomination's president, the Rev. Dr. J. A. O. Preus.

The new denomination, the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, includes initially about 75,000 members in 1,950 congregations from coast to coast. They pledged efforts for unity with two other major Lutheran bodies: the Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Dr. William
Kohn of Milwaukee was elected president.

Our beautiful churches

As one travels through the pleasant city of Cypress he receives an esthetic thrill when he passes Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 4321 Cerritos Ave. The ten-year-old building has received recognition for excellence in national publications. An active and progressive church, which was founded 17 years ago, it tackles community needs. There was a ground-breaking recently for a Youth Activities Center. Holy Cross has approximately 1,000 communicants, said Pastor E. D. Thyr. Sunday services are at 9 and 10:30 a.m.

Anti-gambling

NEW YORK (AP) The president of the Rabbinical Council of America, Rabbi Walter S. Wurzburger, has urged religious institutions "not to avail themselves of the recently passed law in New York State permit-ting 'Las Vegas Nites' and other forms of gambling' in synagogues and churches.

It would "jeopardize the religious integrity of the institutions" that the new law was intended to help, he says.

that it also included those in second marraiges. Unlike the merely divorced who are normally free to continue sharing Communion, the remarried are considered in a different clouded cate-.. Under church law, they are excluded from Communion unless their prior marriages have been found null by a church, court, or privately, through "good faith" decisions of conscience in consultation with church counsellors The objective of the Tennessee approach is to encourage those in second marriages to initiate procedures to regularize Quaker aid their standing in the church — and also to get other alienated Catholics to Cambodia

The obstacle man

Ever, heard of an "obstacle man?" That is the phrase a friend of mine used to describe some people with whom he has to deal in business Even if the phrase may be new to you, I am sure you have met many obstacle men in the course of your

An anecdote about such an obstacle man will perhaps give you an opportunity to recognize the type... The board of directors of a company had a very important, but risky project under considera tion. In the discussion of this proposed undertaking, whenever something of a positive nature was suggested, one man, an obstacle man, would invariably say, "Now, just a minute. Let's consider the obstacles involved.

For awhile everyone was impressed but finally another director turned to him and asked, "Why are you constantly emphasizing the obstacles in this proposition instead of its immense possibilities."

"Because," the obstacle man replied, "to judge intelligently, one must always be realistic. And the fact is that there are big obstäcles in the way of this project. What would you recommend?"

The other man didn't hesitate a moment. "What would I do about these obstacles? Why, I would just get busy and remove them or get on top of them and then forget them."

"But," objected the pessimist, "that's a whole lot easier said than done. Have you any technique for removing obstacles and forgetting them that the rest of us don't know?"

A slow smile came over the face of the other director as 'He said, "I've spent my whole life removing or surmoutning obstacles. And so have most of you fellows here. If you want to know how to do it. I'll show you," He took out his wallet, pulled from it a eard, passed the card across the board table, and said, "Read that out of the card then said, "I've lived a long while and faced many difficulties, but in those few words I have found power enough to remove any obstacle. So you see while I know the score about difficulties, 1 am not awed b, .em."

The other man read the words printed on the card so that all could hear. They were, "I CAN DO ALL THINGS THROUGH GOD'S HELP." The owner

His confidence impressed his fellow directors. They went ahead with the project and despite the risks and obstacles, it turned out to be a great success.

The primary thing about an obstacle is not to be afraid of it. Believe that you have help and you will have the power to handle it. The next thing to do about an obstacle is to stand up to it uncom-plainingly and deal with it forthrightly. Don't go crawling through life on your hands and knees, half defeated. Face your obstacles and usually you will find them not half as big as you think they are. And if they are big, that atti-tude will reduce them to size in most cases.

General Tudor commanded a British division during the great German assault of 1918. The odds against him were heavy but General Tudor held his ground, let the obstacle break on him and, thus, eventually broke the obstacle. Winston Church-ill wrote of this feat, "The impression I had of Tudor was of an iron peg, ham-mered into the frozen ground, immovable."

This general knew how to stand up to an obstacle. Stand up to your obstacles like "an iron peg," don't give way, and you too, can break them. Use the formula the successful director kept in his wallet. You can also develop a powerful faith which will become a tremendous source of reserve strength. By this way of positive thinking you will acquire faith in yourself, in your own ability, and in your power to do things. And your attitude will become positive, not negative, and you will really learn how to deal with difficulties.

Don't be an "obtacle man." Learn how to think above the obstacles. Then you can remove them or surmount them and then forget them.

Rabbi Kahane

You are first of all to be commended for coming to hear Rabbi Kahane speak. The majority of his critics never dare expose themselves first-hand to his ideas: they prefer to criticize from afar. Secondly, I have great admiration for your knowledge of English and American history. However, as with most Americans who do not feel a life-and-death involvement with Israel, you are well-intentioned towards Mid-East problems but, in my opinion, largely un-informed as to oriental realities. I felt, in reading your article, thatyou missed the essence of Rabbi Kahane's message In fact, although you and I sat in the same hall, it seems almost as if we heard two entirely different speeches. The emphasis in your article lay in casting Rabbi Kahane in the role of extremist or "hawk" to contrasted with the moderates or "doves" who ostensibly hold the key to solving the Mid-East dilemma. You fail to appreciate the possibility that the "man with a gun" may be seen as the "moderate" in today's world where, by your own admission, "our destinies are still ruled by blood and iron." He believes in war, yes, because he sees no alternative: the Arabs have proven themselves dedicated to the destruction of Israel, In Islamic thinking the concept of "peace" in the Mid-East exists only if there is no Jewish State at all. Historically, Islamic toleration existed only insofar as minorities were totally submissive to Arab hedgemony: never did they tolerate "infidels" in their midst as equals with rights to separate government and laws, ruthlessly crushing any sign of inde-

Given this context, I se Rabbi Kahane as a "moderate" by your own definition: committed to the use of force "only when it is unavoidable, only to achieve necessary

goals." His necessary goal is the survival of the Jewish Nation. The constant implication that moderates or "doves" are the only ones who care for peace or represent the best interests of Israel is a mirage of Arab propa-ganda. It is a carefully-laid trap for the Western mind which sees conflict in terms of honest bargaining and real desire for peace. Rabbi Kahane is no less an advocate for peace then the "dove" ... in fact the policies he proposes may be more realistic and represent a more authentic path to peace. While the "doves" offer Israeli the "doves" offer Israeli territory in return for "non-belligerney," they may in fact precipitate the very conflict they seek so desperately to avoid. Their wishful and idealistic thinking today may be Israel's tragedy tomor-

Your "moderates," Mr. Clutter, are those who are willing for Israel to take all the risks in the hope that it might lead to peace. The Jews agreed to compromise for peace before when Arabs held the West Bank, the Golan, Gaza, indeed in 1948 when the Galilee and the Negev were in Arab hands: again and again the Arabs said no and went to war ('48, '56, '67, and '73). Rabbi Kahane respects the Arab and believes him when he says no Israel at all. But Arabs must learn the hard lesson: when you make war you take a chance You can win or you can lose. If you lose the war, you lose men, equipment, and territory, the so-called "spoils of war." YOU DON'T GO BACK TO THE BEGINNING AND START OVER AGAIN.

wife given spotlight to dim No.4

By HENRY BRADSHER

WASHINGTON - After Vladimir I. Lenin died in 1924, his widow disapproved of the way Joseph V. Stalin was tightening his grip on the Soviet Union. The story is told that Stalin growled at her that she had better cooperate or else he would find another widow.

The winners of the Chinese power struggle that followed Mao Tse-tung's death have now done the kind of thing Statin only threatened.

Chiang Ching, Mao's last wife and a leader of the radical leftist faction which used the Communist Party chairman's authority to try to purge conservative bureaucrats, has been stripped of any honors of widowhood.

The entire second page of the People's Daily in Peking on Wednesday was devoted to praise of an earlier wife of Mao, Yang Kia-hui. She was killed in 1930 by Nationalist trooops who surpressed a Commu-nist uprising in Changsha.

The report said that Chiang Ching had vi-ciously blocked early honors for "the marlyr's heroic revolutionary deeds." Chiang Ching and her radical comrades, reportedly under arrest in Peking and denounced as the "gang of four," were also accused of "persecuting the great leader, Chairman Mao," and sabotaging his medical treatment.

Yang is described by historians as the great love of Mao's life. After a childhood betrothal to another, he met Yang in Communist Party work, and she became his sec, ond wife in 1921. The work separated them, however, when Mao became a guerrilla leader, and he was living with another woman when she was killed:

Decision-making

Army's role in China growing

By FOX BUTTERFIELD

HONG KONG -- China's senior army commanders appear to be playing an increasingly important role in Peking and the country's provinces, analysts here believe, and they may now form a key decision-making body inside the Chinese Communist Party.

Fresh evidence of the army's new importance was suggested Friday by the attendance of virtually all Peking's top leaders at a graduation ceremony for the Military and Political Academy of the People's Liberation Army. Heading the unusual turnout was Hua Kuo-feng, the new chairman of the Chinese party, who was dressed in a green army uniform, according to Hsinhua, the Chinese press agency.

OF THE 15 senior officials present, including all the members of the party Politburo active in Peking, nine were military figures. Although such a strong military representation for an army graduation exercise is not surprising in itself, analysts believe it may reflect the military's

At the same time, broadcasts over the past two days from Hupeh Province in central China indicated that the military commander there, Yang Teh-chih, now seems to have superceded the first party secretary of the province in authority. Yang, a veteran of the earlier reports over the past two weeks that Peking has dispatched 12,000 troops to Fukien province to take over cities, villages, schools and factories after factional outbursts there. In both provinces, the disputes have been officially linked to local supporters of Chiang Ching, Mao Tse-tung's widow, and three other Politburo members who were arreated in early October.

THE disclosure about Yang's new role follows

The army's increased importance began last summer when Hua sent 150,000 troops to help with relief work in the earthquake-devasted city of Tangshan.

The army's role then further expanded when senior military officers seemed to have played a pivotal part in the arrest of Miss Chiang and the three other Politburo members, who are now described as sham leftists.

UNTIL these recent events, the army had been in something of an eclipse following the death of Lin Piao, the former defense minister, in 1971, after an alleged attempt to over-throw Mao.

But despite its public loss of prestige in those years, army officers still retained considerable power at the provincial level, making up an estimated 40 to 45 per cent of the provincial party committee secretaries. This was part of the heritage of the Cultural Revolution, when Mao was forced to call in the army to help

Analysis now believe manders may again have assumed greater authority at the highest level of the party in Peking as Hua has had to turn to them.

Red leader surfaces to tell election plans

MADRID (AP) - Santiago Carrillo, head of Spain's illegal Communist Party, made a cloak-anddagger appearance at a clandestine press conference Friday to announce that the Communists would test the post-Franco government by running in elections next year.

As party members kept watch outside, Carrillo met with 35 journalists who had been brought to a small Madrid apartment in groups of three

IT WAS the 62-year-old Carrillo's first news conference at home since the Spanish civil war. Afterward he slipped away to one of the many houses I have in Madrid.

Carrillo called the underground meeting to denounce the referendum King Juan Carlos has set for next week to ask Spaniards if they want free elections.

The Communists, the only party left illegal when 40-year-old restrictions on political activity were lifted earlier this year, and the Socialists are threatening to boycott the referendum.

Both parties say it was called undemocratically. They say that with the government spending nearly $9 million on advertising and controlling television, there is no chance of a free opposition cam-

"If the government had re-established liberty for everyone, if everyone was able to act freely without other interference and if there were civil respect for the rest, no matter what they think, the Communists and, I believe, all of the democratic opposition would have voted for the referendum." Carrillo said.

The other woman, Ho Tzu-chen, became his third wife. But Mao aban-doned her when a seductive actress appeared at Yenan, the Communist headquarters in Northwest China, in the late 1930s. The actress took a new name of Chiang Ching when she married him over the objections of his comrades.

Although Mao had his troubles with Chiang Ching after she emerged Cultural Revolution of the 1960s as an ambi-tious political schemer, he servative bureaucrats led by the late Premier Chou En-lai. This group is now conducting a publicity campaign — some of it obviously based on a rewriting of recent history — to show that Mao disap-on Tuesday, the Peo-ple's Daily quoted Mao as having told her in 1974 that "it's better not to see each other. You have not carried out what I've been telling you for many years. What's the good of seeing each other any

That quotation came a year after the beginning of a new campaign against Chou's bureaucrats which was inspired by Mao. Thus, it is hard for outside observers to clarify the degree of Mao's support, or to believe that he disapproved of the campaign.

People's Daily and the Communist Party's theoretical journal, Red Flag, published on Tuesday a joint commentary calling for 'a new upsurge in studying" Mao's writings. This is part of a massive effort to have the public see the present leadership carrying out Mao's rightful instructions.

But what is happening is, in effect, an at least partial de-Maoization in practice but not in name. The late party chairman is too valuable a source of authority for Peking's po-litical survivors to throw him away by denuncia-

Instead, the erratic nature of his interventions in public affairs for the last two decades is being forgotten. His writings are used selectively to support actions which he gave many indications of disapproving, and to reverse his policies.

This, too, follows a Soviet precedent. Lenin has been quoted by his heirs over the years to support not only policies contrary to his own, but also, from one year to the next, contradictory policies.

The lengthy commentary on studying Mao made only ritualistic men-tion of his successor as party chairman, Hua Kuofeng. There seems to be a split developing in the Chinese media between some publicity that lauds Hua highly and some that only pays minimal tribute to

This, and the failure to announce a full list of overdue governmental changes after last week's parliamentary session, or to reconstitute the decimated Communist Party leadership, indicates continuing uncertainty about personal power within the group of victors over Chiang Ching.

Action stuns Fullerton officials

Brown rejects auditorium

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer
Officials of Fullerton State University were stunned when word reached them from Sacramento Friday that Gov. Brown had rejected — without explanation — the university's plans to ask federal funding for a $5 million, 2,000-seat campus auditorium.

President L. Donald Shields of Fullerton State said the auditiorium — before Brown's action — had been the first of a number of improvements costing $12 million that were already planned and ready for bid.

Funding from the federal government's Economic Development Agency is limited to projects ready for bid within 90 days of submission and the campus project qualified, Shields noted.

We find it difficult to understand why, given the rate of unemployment and the lack of cultural facilities in our service area, the governor acted as he did,' Shields said.

He said that the governor's sereening committee — and the university's trustees, had approved

Many of the county's cities, cul-tural organizations, labor unions and other groups had endorsed the auditorium.

Police exam results delayed

Results of a recent civil service exam for openings on the Long Beach police force have been delayed and will not be mailed next week as orginally scheduled.

Roger Keast, chief examiner for the Long Beach Civil Service Department, said the test results will be mailed Dec. 23 to the 1,600 applicants who are competing for about 50 openings in the Long Beach department.

Applicants who have not re-ceived their scores by Jan. 1 should contact the civil service department, Keast said. Interviews for those who scored high enough are scheduled for Jan. 6-23.

Welfare projects to be outlined in public document

The Orange County Department of Social Services has drafted a plan to inform the public on wel-fare projects it administers that will cost about $4.7 million this

A department spokesman said federal law required preparation of such a document. He added that he didn't think many people would pay much attention to it.

It's not only the size of a small telephone directory," he said, asking anonymity, "but it's about as interesting." interesting.

enough respect for the public's right of access to information, a survey shows. Another common complaint is that rules enforced against private citizens are often not followed by local governments.

The survey's results were presented Friday in Long Beach at the Edgewater Hyatt House to a panel considering "How Citizens View City Administrators."

The panel, partially sponsored by Long Beach State University's Center for Public Policy and Administration, explored how gov-ernments might belter respond to a frustrated public.

Most members of the audience, meanwile, had stories to tell of problems with City Hall, the County Hall of Administration, the assessor, the tax collector, school boards and administrations, state employment offices, the Veterries employment offices, the Veterans Administration, the Department of Motor Vehicles, the Internal Revenue Service and the Social Security Administration.

Betsy Laties, a member of the Los Angeles City Environmental Commission, told of a recent "gripe survey" in which her agency asked the heads of 35 homeowners' groups to list their peeves with the bureaucracy.

'THE LARGEST number of complaints involved a lack of responsiveness to the public's right to know," she said.

She illustrated her point with an anecdote about a man's lengthy struggle to get copies of public documents from unnamed city officials in an ascending pecking

The second most frequent complaint was lack of self-regulation on the part of governments, she said. One municipal entity — until extreme pressure was applied — persistently violated a law designed to protect the public interest, she

"BUCK PASSING," she said 'was the third most common complaint against officials (who are) incapable of assuming responsibil-ity for their own acts," all the while maintaining a bland, innocent expression.

One official apparently told a homeowner that a certain approach to a problem had been used since the days of the Roman Empire, in an effort to avoid responsibility, she added.

Susan Rice, a teacher and publie administrator, declared that a major problem is "the inability or unwillingness (of some officials) to provide the public with information and referrals it needs.

There is widespread insensitivity at lower levels, and slow responses may be expected from higher level administrators." she

Mobil getting Irvine Co. rivals irked

Mobil Oil Corp. has apparently won the Irvine Foundation's extensive land holdings in Orange County, but two other firms outbid by Mobil are complaining they got a quick shuffle.

A foundation spokesman said Mobil's offer of $33.50 a share — or $281.9 million cash - was the best of at least five offers made to acquire the Irvine Co.

THE SPOKESMAN said Mobil was declared the winner after two other bidders failed to submit new offers by a noon Thursday deadline set by the foundation. However, Cadillac Fairview,

Couple who raised 200 children take on four more

At an age when most people begin thinking about the pleasures of retirement, Richard Gardner, 59, and his wife, Edith, 53, are looking forward to the teen-age years of their four children. But the Gardners are well-pre pared for the trials that lie ahead. They've been Los Angeles County foster parents for more than 20 years and have already reared Edith's three natural children and one adopted son. Friday, during ceremonies at the county's annual Adoption Day in Court, they officially added Calista, 10; Richard, 9; James, 8; and Dessie, 7; to the Gardner family.

WE SEEM to have a weakness for strays - cats, dogs, unwed mothers, homeless children," Gardner said during an interview at the couple's home in Artesia.
The Gardners, married for 26 years, said they began taking foster children into their home about two years after their wedding. "We kept reading in the paper

would suppose we've taken care of more than 200 children over the years. I just can't visualiza not haying children in our home."

MRS. GARDNER'S three grown children, all of whom live in the Midwest, are John, 34; Ken-neth, 33; and Dolly, 32. The couple's adopted son, Russell, 21, lives around the corner from them.

They also have nine grandchildren, and number 10 is due any day.

Though it appears the couple is starting on its third separate family, Mrs. Gardner said there's really never been "an in between" because they've always had foster children — one for as little time as two days and one for as long as 15 years — in their home.

The two girls and one of the boys they adopted Friday are sisters and brother who have lived in the Gardner home for three years. The fourth child, Richard, has been with the family for four years.

"WE'VE had a lot of nice foster children in our home, but I don't think we've had any as lovable or who fit into the family as well as these four," Gardner said.

In fact, he added, they've fit into the family so well that their names — first, middle and last were unofficially changed last

Calista Abigail was named after Gardner's mother; Richard Arthur was named after Gardner and his brother; James Talbot was named after Gardner's father; and Dessie Helena took the name of Mrs. Gardner's mother.

The children, though not very talkative, nodded approval of their new names and demonstrated spontaneous affection for their parents, whom they already know as "Mama" and "Papa."

"WE HEARD they were coming up for adoption, and we really wanted them and they wanted us, Mrs. Gardner said, combing young Richard's hair as she spoke. "We were afraid for awhile.

though, that the county wouldn't let us adopt them because of our ages. We thought they (county officials)

We thought they (county officials) might think four pre-teens were more than we could cope with.

"My mother thinks I have a hole in my head," Mrs. Gardner continued. "She's pleased for us, don't get me wrong, but she thinks that at my age, I ought to retire from raising kids."

The Gardners, however, believe the children fit well into their re-

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)

A court fight was promised by the venerable

San Francisco Rowing

Club Priday to counter city action revoking the club's lease because of alleged bias against women. The city Parks and Recreation Commission had voted Thursday to cancel the club's lease of the building it has oc-

In addition to allegations that it refuses to admit women members, Deputy City Atty. Don Solomon said Friday the club also is accused of refusing to allow access to the public, failing to main-tain the premises and

BING REAPS A BUNDLE FOR BIG APPLE NEEDY

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK - So how did the Bing Crosby show business family make out in its bow on the Big. Apple?

How could it be bad? Right at the opening, at the Avery Fisher Hail Benefit for Fordham Prep, "Father" Crosby said, "To show you how much I really care, I wore my hair — but it's a little short back there."

But before he'd opened his mouth he got a five-minute standing ovation. About two hours later he estimated that his closing medley included about 40

He raised $150,000 for the needy school and Mayor Beame beamed. "It was nice not having somebody take their clothes off," Dr. William

Thank God I'm a country boy!

George Burns and John Denver get a chuckle over their lines as they rehearse a scene in Los Angeles from their new film "Oh God," which stars Burns as God and Denver as a supermarket manager. This is the comedian's first film since his Academy Award-winning performance in "Sunshine Boys," and it's the country singer's first picture ever.

Queen Ida offers 'zydeco'

By JIM WILLSE

MONTEREY (AP) After reggae, what? "Zydeco, that's what," declares Ida Guillory, a leading proponent of the Creole-Cajun music that had them dancing in the aisles of the Monterey Jazz Festival

Mrs. Guillory, better known as the leader of Queen Ida's Bon Ton Zydeco Band, is certain that zydeco's popularity is about to spread beyond the confines of its native Louisiana and the San Francisco Bay area, where her group has been preaching its musical virtues at everything from art festivals to nightclubs to occasional weddings.

"Zydeco is a slang ex-pression for the French word 'haricot,' which means string bean," ex-plains the Queen. "It's connected with the music because the music is a snappy, string-a-long kind of thing — very happy and danceable."

She sees similarities between zydeco (pronounced "ZYE-deh-koh") and reg-gae, the Jamaican street music that became one of the hottest recording com-modities of the year. Like reggae, zydeco heavily syncopated ethnic music that shows promise of catching on with disco maniacs anxious for something new to dance to.

With Queen Ida leading the way on accordion, her five-piece Bon Ton Zydeco Band plays a musical gumbo of syncopated blues, rock 'n' roll with a backbeat reminiscent of Bo Diddley, and even an upbeat waltz.

Until the Queen, zydeco performers were heard pretty much in Louisiana and Texas only, a situation she hopes to correct. Her Bon Ton Band has one record out that is selling "fairly well" and is plantwo tours this v to further spread the

"We're reaching all ages already," said Queen Ida. "Our following is getting larger all the time, and even if they miss the words, it doesn't seem to matter. It's the rhythm that counts."

The rhythm of Queen Ida and her four male subjects was enough to energize the 7,000 customers at the 19th annual jazz festival held here this fall. "Ree-leese yourselves!" instructed guitarist Al Lewis, and the audience surprised festival organiz-ers by pouring into the aisles to dance.

Queen Ida, whose adroit accordion playing has carned her the nickname Lady Fingers, is a native of Lake Charles, La.

Then, with her three children in their teens, she followed her husband's advice and began practicing again. She and Lewis, her younger brother, formed the band, adding a bassist, drummer and Queen Ida's youngest son, Myrick Guillory, on washboard.

"The music we play is basically the same as they play in Louisiana," the Queen explains. "But we've updated it some, adding blues licks to it. and some Latin rhythms. It's a multicultural music."

'Lions' a roaring success

By JIM COX

Extremely restrained, both dynamically and texturally, the Third Symphony of Johannes Brahms can often be counted on to provide a lackluster and uninteresting evening of concert go-

The Long Beach State Symphony Orchestra did little to increase the popularity of the conservative work, Tuesday, including it on a program that also included music of Brahms' contemporary, Richard Wagner, and 20th Century American composers Aaron Copland and Ned Rorem.

Conductor Hans Lampl, as always, kept his orchestra under tight rein, but this failed to eliminate all the annoyances it might

From time to time, particularly in movements one and four, the balance between sections was not synchronized carefully enough to prevent cloud-ing the voices. This created difficulty in hearing the strings.

The most interesting of which woodwinds and brass did particularly the four works presented was the symphonic poem "Lions" by Rorem. It is a programmtic work based on a childhood dream. It consists of harsh tonal abstraction encasing of very lyrical blues-rooted theme. The orches-a tra performed with far than in the Brahms.

more flair and enthusiasm "El Salon Mexico" is simiarly programmatic

The program opened with student Emil de Cou conducting — stiftly but effectively — the Preludes to Acts I and III of Wag ner's "Lohengrin."

The same two-thirds vote would be necessary by legislators to levy any new taxes, under terms of his initiatives.

$110,000 to dockworker for injuries

A longshoreman in-jured while working in Long Beach in 1974 was awarded a $110,-000 out-of-court settlement Friday against the city and his former employer. The settlement was reached in the cham-bers of Long Beach Superior Court Judge George Francis in be-half of Robert W. Ashley, 52, of Costa Mesa.

Ashley said he suf-fered serious nerve damage to his right hand and arm when he tripped in an "insufficiently lighted area' in a warehouse at Berth 207 at Long Beach Harbor on April

5, 1974. The Wharf and Warehouse Co., which was leasing the facility from the city, will pay $100,000 of the award, while the city, which contended in a crosscomplaint that the firm was liable for Ashley's injury, if anyone was, will pay $10,-

Carter 'protectionist' barrier feared

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

Fears that America under President Jimmy Carter may revive old-style economic protectionism were voiced this week when more than 300 U.S. and Japanese business executives met in Los Angeles to seek ways of improving economic relationships.

Ironically enough, this seventh annual U.S.-Japan Economic Relations sym-posium was held in the Biltmore Hotel exactly 35 years to the hour after exactly 35 years to the hour after America responded to a Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor by formally entering

This was an anniversary that evoked only brief comment, however. Symposium moderator Richard C. King noted n passing that the meeting and other such hands-across-the-seas sessions help maintain world peace "temporarily lost Protectionism — an economic game lan historically intended to protect home industries against foreign products by imposing high duties and other restricnions on imports — was of concern to several speakers at a panel disscussion and later at a luncheon session.

During the discussion, economics Prof: Leon Hollerman of Claremont Men's College and graduate school said protectionism is an overriding issue" r the incoming Carter administration.

He expressed fears the new chief ecutive "will kill two birds with one sione, paying off his debt to organized abor" by reinstituting "inflationary" protectionistic policies, a step some in conservative U.S. business circles — that he seeks to woo — also might applaud. Japanese Consul-general Yukio Takamatsu, new this year to Los Angeles, told of a $4.2 billion deficit incurred this year by U.S. allies among the European Economic Community (EEC).

'The large deficit among nations with less robust economies than the U.S. has become a critical issue," he said. "While Japan's action was well intentioned, we hope that due consideration is given . . . so that Japan does not encourage protectionist drives in other countries, particularly the U.S., which, along with Japan and West Germany, is one of the key economies on which many dozens of nations rely for their economic weil

He warned of other economic problems between the two nations. Two of these, Japanese fishing rights off American coasts and various questions involv-ing civil aviation, "are the subjects of official talks between our two governments . . . and it is hoped they can be settled successfully to our mutual satis-

Of deeper significance, he said, is "Japan's large trade surplus with the U.S. and EEC nations," amounting to $4.3 billion for this country in the first 10 months of 1976.

"This large imbalance has led to some criticism in the U.S. that the yen is intentionally undervalued to stimulate Japanese exports," he said. "This is not

Japan, like other industrialized nations, underwent economic recession earlier this decade, is recovering more slowly than the U.S., but may achieve "real" economic growth of 5.6 per cent in the fiscal year ending March 31. This lagging Japanese recovery, which he described, was blamed by Takamatsu for the masssive U.S. deficit.

Offsetting the trade surplus Japan has with the U.S. and EEC is a large imbalance in trade Japan has with the Middle East," he said

"Morover, in 'invisible trade,' which includes various items such as freightshipping, insurance coverage, overseas travel expenditures, interest payments, etc., Japan has a chronic deficit of about $6 billion a year . . . and the U.S. had a $2.5 billion surplus in 1974, $1.9 billion in

"One of the salient facts of Japan's international economic position is that when weighing the invisible deficit against its merchandise surplus, Japan by no means is taking unfair advantage of its trading partners.
"Nor is Japan getting rich, so to speak, on its apparent trade surplus, declared Takamatsu.

During a panel discussion:

 Mitsubishi Bank of California President Yasuhiko Ishizaka said Japan developed payment deficits during the last three years while the U.S., with surpluses, found it necessary to increase exports to pay higher Mid East oil prices. He predicted, however, that Japanese imports will improve in 1977.

. William M. Scearce of Wells Fargo Bank said he anticipates moderate growth in U.S.-Japanese trade next year, with exports from Japan increasingly becoming advanced-technology items such as computers — which in 10 years he expects to rival automobiles as a source of foreign credits.

• Outlining the history of modern industrial exports from Japan, Kengo Iwasaki of Nissho-Iwai American Corp. said Japanese steelmakers must continue to improve productivity levels to survive rising worldwide costs of materials.

· Albert Perrish, president of Triangle Steel & Supply Co., said U.S. and Japanese steelmakers alike face difficult times next year as global demand for their product continues three-year de-

· Yoshito Yamaguchi, president of Meico Sales Inc., indicated that Japan supplies 30 per cent of television receivers sold in the U.S. while grossing only about 20 per cent of the dollar volume. Japanese TV manufacturers have lost their early price advantage (to higher payroll costs at home) and now can survive only with higher productivity.

Symposium sponsors are the Japan

Traders' Club, Foreign Trade Association, Japan-America Society, Japan Trade Center, the Japanese consulgeneral, with cooperation with the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber.

HQ of industrial giant Irvine new home for Fluor

An architecturally striking, $50 An aremtecturatly striking, 300 million facility at Irvine becomes home base today for seven formerly far-flung facilities of Fluor Engineers and Constructors' Southern California division.

Its 105-acre site, at Jamboree Road and the San Diego Freeway, is but a short distance from Santa Ana, where in 1912, Swiss immi-grant John Simon "Si" Fluor Sr. founded a small general contract-ing firm. From that start in a vacant lot behind the founder's home would evolve the diversified, multinational Fluor Corp., with a current $8 billion-plus backlog.

Now housed behind glittering glass reflecting walls — and below three air-conditioning towers resembling gun turrets — are Southland divisional elements formerly based in Westminster, Whittier and City of Commerce, among other locations.

A phased moving in which began some three months phased moving-in process. ago, is expected to be completed today, company offficials said during a press briefing this week.

More than 4,000 employes with a yearly total payroll of about $70 million - will work on 38 $70 million - will work on 38 projects at home and abroad, ranging from Alaska to the Arabian Gulf. The division offers full-service engineering and construction of processing plants in petroleum, petrochemical, natural gas, chemical, nuclear and related industries

Also rising near the new offices is a 10-story, octagonal Fluor Corp. headquarters scheduled for occu-pancy next October. Welton Beeket Associates Architects and C.L Peck General Contractors designed and built both.

Four, four-story rectangular "pods" comprise the basic struc-ture. Connected by an open atrium with escalators and stairs, each level was designed for 320 persons — the size of a typical task force assigned specific projects.

Adjoining the pods is a concourse level housing a cafeteria and such employe support-service facilities as a fully automated bank, gift shop, credit union and private dining facilities. Forming the concourse roof is an extensively landscaped and terraced plaza.

Probably one of Southern California's most energy-efficient buildings, headquarters lacks — deliberately — a central heating element. lts 1.3 million square feet are warmed by interior lights and em-ploye body heat. Electric radiant oanels installed along levels guard against early morning chills Fans and cooling equipment are located in tower structures resembling nothing more than World War II pillboxes.

Designed to accomodate 6,000 employes, the facility could be expanded to serve 9,000 workers by adding two or more pods, officials

Greyhound flays Southland Amtrak

The American taxpayers lose more than a million dollars a day as victims of the "Great American Train Robbery," said Charles D. Kirkpatrick, vice president of marketing for Greyhound Lines.

Speaking at a news conference at the Pasadena Hilton Hotel, Kirkpatrick said California taxpayers could see an example of this enormous loss by examining the operations of Amtrak, the federally subsidized passenger rail service which services the route between Los Angeles and San Diego

Kirkpatrick said that in 1976 alone the loss on the Amtrak route between the two major Southern California cities would cost all taxpayers more than $4.5 million.

"That's robbery, pure and sim-ple. And to compound that deplorable situation, next year the State of California is going to move into the rail passenger business by giving Amtrak a subsidy of $3.15 million to operate the Los Angeles-San Diego route.

"That money is additional to what Amtrak will receive from the federal government. I have a feeling that when that occurs, California taxpayers are going to be furious.

"Amtrak has never operated the Los Angeles-San Diego route with any degree of financial success, and the prospects for a money-making operation between those two cities are not bright, at least not for the next five years, the Greyhound official said

Kirkpatrick presented the news media with figures from Amtrak's own five-year economic forecast and they predict the Los Angeles-San Diego route will continue to

In 1981, for example, revenues on that Amtrak route will amount to only $2.6 million, while operating expenses will exceed $10.8 million; that leaves an $8.1 million deficit. Kirkpatrick said.

And why is Greyhound con-cerned about this situation, which will soon confront California taxpayers?

"To be blunt, these federal and state subsidies to Amtrak amount to unfair business tactics. How would you like your competition to always operate at a loss; receive federal subsidies paid for by your tax dollars; and undercut your rates and fares?

"You wouldn't like it one bit, and you'd do everything within your power to correct the situation.

"Speaking for the intercity bus industry, we at Greyhound do not want to see Amtrak drive buses out of business. If that were to occur, the real losers would be the millions of people who live in rural and suburban America, where the only means of public transportation is the intercity bus," Kirkpatrick and the state of t

Prime-rate Bank interest regulation: Good or bad for public? cuts push narket up

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK - You

Wise, and wary of accepting seemingly selfless advice from financial institutions, modern con-sumers quickly distill such expressions of concern

into something more

nearly the truth:

NEW YORK (AP) despread cuts in the nk prime lending rate ovided the impetus for a might not even understand the significance of Regulation Q, but among finan-cial people it is likely to oderate advance in the ock market Friday, de-ite some profit-taking mean either of two things, that (1) it is good for you, (2) it is bad for you.

IT IS GOOD for some financial institutions, bad for others, and it probably remains to be seen whether it is good or bad for the public. Regulation Q is an edict of the Federal Rserve that, in effect, permits savings banks and savings and loan associations to pay one-quarter of 1 per cent more interest than do

commercial banks. It establishes ceilings on time deposits - on passbook savings and certificates of deposit. A savings

responsivomentamantomomentamentomentamentomomentamentomomentamentomomentamentomomentomomentomomentamentomoment institution can pay 5.25 per cent on passbook savings, a commercial bank just 5. On savings certificates the limits are 7.75 per cent and 7.5 per cent, respectively.

Regulation Q is due to expire March 1.

The savings, or thrift, institutions want it to remain, arguing that they need an incentive to draw savings dollars that, in turn, they will lend out on home mortgages, their primary lending function.

Corps officer said the series isn't out to glamor-ize combat. "We are not in the slightest promoting war," he said.

Boyington said he didn't fight in World War II under the illusion that it would be the war to end all wars. He said he joined the Marines as an avlation cadet in 1935 not to "shine shoes and polish brass, but because of the reputation of the Corps."

HE ADMITS his methods for running a fighter squadron were unorthodox. "This was our thing," Boyington said. "We ran the squad by our own rules. ules."

Boyington said he's pleased the new television show appears to be a suc-cess. But he admits being in the limelight "isn't all fun. With everything good; there's a few things that are damn unpleasant."

Boyington said he thinks the show appeals to viewers because it "is timely. This is about a romantic era in aviation that will never happen again," he

49ers get a classic shot at Trojans

No Dodger blue for Monday — at present

By GORDON VERRELL Staff Writer

The Dodgers continued to sweeten the pot Friday in their efforts to pry Rick Monday loose from the Chicago Cubs, but a final decision will not be made until Tuesday or Wednesday.

"I guess they went home for approval," Dodger vice president Al Campanis said Friday, the final day of the winter baseball meetings and inter-league trading period. Approval from the Cubs' boss, Phil Wrigley, is needed in the case of Monday, who became a national hero for his actions last summer when he intercepted two would-be flag burners-ironically, at Dodger

"Mr. Red, White and Blue," is the way Campanis describes him.

By the time the Cubs departed the meetings at the Los Angeles Hilton Hotel, the proposed deal looked like this:

The Dodgers would send Doug Rau, Dusty Baker, Ivan DeJesus,

John Hale and Lee Lacy to Chicago for Monday and righthanded pitcher Bill Bonham. You have to have second thoughts anytime you're talking about a pitcher of Rau's caliber," Campanis said of the lefthander, whose 2.75 earned run average ranked second in the National League last year. His 16 wins were high for his career.

But in Monday, who hit 32 home runs last year, drove in 77 runs and batted 272, the Dodgers would have offensively, at least, the strongest outfield in the club's Southern California history.

The only outfields that would come close to a threesome of Mon-day, Bill Buckner and Reggie Smith would be the 1974 outfield of Jimmy Wynn, Buckner and Willie Crawford-Joe Ferguson, and the Willie Davis-Tommy Davis-Frank Howard alignment of the early '60s. While the Cubs weren't budging, their crosstown neighbors, the Chicago White Sox, were. Three hours before the trading deadline expired at midnight, the Sox sent pitcher Rich Gossage to the Pittsburgh Pirates for outfielder Richie

The Dodger deal with the Cubs started as a 4-for-2 trade: Baker, DeJesus. Lacy and Rick Auerbach for Monday and relief pitcher Mike

Then it became a 4-for-1 deal: the same four for Monday.

Then it became a 5-for-2 deal: Rau's name was tossed in. Hale was substituted for Auerbach, and the Dodgers asked for Bonham (9-13 last year) instead of Garman.

But the Cubs want Glenn Burke instead of Hale. The Dodgers say no-and that's where it stands at the moment.

While Campanis favors the trade, new manager Tom Lasorda isn't so sure.

USC advanced to the championship game of the Trojan Basketball Classic Friday night, turning back Grambling, 83-75, before a crowd of 4,282 at the L.A. Sports Arena. But the Trojans have more at stake than their fifth successive Trojan Classic title.

Bragging rights to the No. 2 spot in the Southland will be at stake when USC faces Long Beach State in the championship game at

This is one the 49ers have been waiting for - and so have the USC coach Bob Boyd was cautious as he looked ahead to tonight's final.

"It should be a good intensity type of game." he said. "There should be a lot of spirit." There also was some spirit.

USC's victory over Grambling, which yielded 14 successive points at the outset of the game, then fought back to put pressure on the Trojans in the second half. But USC forward Greg White scored 28 points and hauled down 19 rebounds to lead the Trojans to their second victory in five games and hand Grambling its first defeat in six contests.

"I thought it was White's best game," said Boyd. "Some of his points may have looked easy, but they weren't. He drove right through Grambling's defense to stuff the ball a couple of times. Not every player would attempt some-thing like that."

Guard Mary Safford also contributed 20 points to USC's win in what Boyd described as "our best game of the season.'

White and Safford had to be at their best to offset the 30-point per-formance of Grambling's 6-7 Terry Sykes, who bombed away over the top of the Trojan defense. He also had 13 rebounds.
After trailing by 14 at halftime.

Grambling twice narrowed 'USC's lead to five points, the last with 13 seconds remaining.

"There were some holes in the defense Grambling opened with." said Boyd. "But that's not the kind force Level Beach plays when it of zone Long Beach plays when it uses one. I've seen the 49ers play once and they used both zone and man-to-man. The zone is very active and quick.

But with either the zone or the man defense, Long Beach is quick and puts pressure on the ball."

As for Grambling, Boyd said the Tigers were "a little flat at the beginning."

But, he said, "they came back and played a spread court game. It isn't healthy for us to get into that Grambling coach Fred Hobdy was also looking forward to to-night's championship game. "Long Beach and USC will be an interesting matchup. It will be a very physical game. Whichever team gets a couple of fast breaks in a row could easily win it. They are two fine teams with experience and depth. It will be an interesting game."

USC threatened to record a shutout, running up a 14-0 lead before Grambling's Sykes sank a t2-footer 412 minutes into the contest.

The Tigers opened in a 1-2-2 zone defense and played timidly while the Trojans were exhibiting their best basketball of the season.

For the first time in two hours, Dwight

"We kept our end of the bargain," Jones said Friday night after watching his Long Beach State basketball team topple Butler, 63-50, in the first game of the Trojan Classic in the L.A. Sports Arena.

The "bargain" is a first-ever basketball confrontation between the 49ers and tournament host USC and it is a big deal, to Long Beach State fans, at least.

The Trojans upheld their part of the bargain, too, toppling Grambling 83-75 in Friday's nightcap.

Friday night's first game. The 49ers opened the scoring on a 20-foot jump shot by forward Larry Hudson and quickly bolted away to a 14-4 lead.

Hudson had four points in the spree and Lloyd McMillian added

The 49ers didn't slow there, bolting to a 26-8 advantage with 9:02 to play and it looked as though they would claim their fourth win of an unbeaten season by halftime.

Jones substituted at that juncture and for the first time his reserves failed him.

"They didn't really hurt us defensively." Jones said of his sec-ond five, "but they did break down offensively."

When the 49ers scored only two points in the next five minutes, Butler (2-4); was able to whittle away at its deficit. When reserve Tom Orner made two free throws at 4:29. Long Beach's lead had been reduced to six, 28-22.

Jones then reinserted his starters and they quelled the rally with a 10-2 spurt, McMillian collecting four points and Richard Johnson, Hudson and Clarence Ruffen two.

Ruffen had his best effort of the season for the 49ers, hitting 8 of 13 field goal attempts for 16 points and adding nine rebounds.

"Ruffen, by far, had his best game of the season," said Jones. "He was comfortable in the offense and looking fer his shots."

Ruffen had a simplified expla-

Have the Lakers become unbeatable at home? They rolled to an easy 109-99 victory over the Houston Rockets at the Forum Friday night.

The win was the Lakers' seventh in a row at home. They led by 30 points in the third period. The regulars didn't play much of the final quarter when the Rockets made the score respectable.

The victory, snapping a three-game losing streak—all on the road—also elevated the Lakers (13-11) into third place in the Pacific Division.

Defense was the key to the win as the Lakers shut off the top two

Houston scorers, Rudy Tomajanovich and Mike Newlin.

Abdul-Jabbur again had trouble getting shots against a double-teaming defense. But he hit seven of the 10 he took and handed off for eight assists. He also grabbed 16 rebounds.

PONTIAC, Mich.—The team is still called the Detroit Lions, but nobody with a choice goes there anymore. The football team (6-7) also has moved to the suburbs, not to mention to the second division of the NFC Central, out in the wide-open spaces of the Michigan countryside where winter holds the land in its frozen grip.

What are the Rams doing here?
Well doday they will be watching the Minnesota Vikings playing beneath the palm trees of Miami and trying to determine if they (the Rams, 9-3-1) will be able to open the NFL playoffs next week hard by the freeways of Los Angeles.

If the Dolphins do the Rams a favor, it will be up to the latter to secure the home priority by dispatching the Lions in the Silverdome tonight (Channel 7, 6 p.m.).

It used to be called the Ponmet, which was short for Pontiac Metropolitan Stadium, but the name never caught on.

So it's now the Silverdome, and there are two things that set it apart from other covered stadia.

First, it's the only stadium with indoor waterfalls. Not that anybody planned it that way. It just happened when the roof leaked as the Rams prepared to play the Lions here a year ago. The joint should be recalled by the factory.

Also, don't assume it will be warm just because the game is indoors. Baby, it's cold outside, but it's only 20 degrees warmer inside-maybe up to The Rams have withstood the elements while holed up nearby in the

LAKERS- L.B. STATE WINS

Allen made nine of 17 from the field, returning from a one-game absence due to a pulled hamstring muscle. He was running well and scoring inside on drives.

Coach Jerry West used five reserves at the same time to open the second period and they were responsible for starting the rout. They outscored the Rockets 16-2 and the regulars took it from there.

Guard Bo Lamar was the most productive sub, scoring 15 points while hitting seven of 11 shots. In his last game, Lamar failed to hit any of nine attempts.

West was asked why the Lakers perform so well at home and so poorly on the

"I guess everyone tries a little harder in front of their own fans," the coach said. "But mostly, there is equal talent around the league and playing home gives you that little extra advantage.'

West continues to be concerned with the team's ball-handling. There are far too many erratic passes to please him.

The Rockets played without former Long Beach State star Ed Ratleff. His father died Thursday and he flew home to Columbus, Ohio.

The Lakers, 11-2 at the Forum, face another difficult task on Sunday. Nuggets, the Midwest Divsion leaders who sport the second-best record (17-7) in the league.

SHORT SHOTS: West used his entire bench for the first time in eight games. Everyone scored except forward Mary Roberts. Rookie Earl Tatum was effective in seven minutes but remains the No. 5 forward because of the sensational play of Washington and the heady performances of Tom Abernethy. Murphy, always willing to engage in a light despite his size 15-9, 1751, almost came to blows with Washington in the second period. Kermit, far bigger and stronger, ignored Murphy's challenge. Later Murphy drew a technical foul for arguing about Washington's "rough-ness."

"My shots were falling tonight, explained Ruffen, who was averaging 2.6 points per game, "and when they're falling, it's a lot more fun.'

The 49ers shot 59 per cent (16 of 27) while building a 38-26 intermission lead, but struggled the last 20 minutes, making only 9 of 26 (35 per cent), marksmanship that once allowed the Bulldogs to draw within eight points.

That came on a layin by Ed Thompson with 6:23 to

Ruffen silenced that comeback, however, hitting three consecutive baskets to give Long Beach a 60-46 lead at 3:30. The 49ers then went into a deliberate offense and literally ran out the clock.

Jones wasn't alarmed over his team's lack of firepower.

"It's going to take a while," Jones said. "We want them taking the open shot, but being patient at the same time. It's going to take each kid a while to find his niche.

"Then, late in the game, we were concerned about fouls, so we went to our power set, which is a continuity offense. We wanted to run some time off the clock, and I thought the kids did a good job with

Jones was happier with the 49er defense, which is yielding only 54.25 points

"Our defensive statistics are amazing," said Jones. "We're playing fullcourt defense, not holding the ball on offense, and we've still given up only 54, 46, 67 and 50 points a game."
"I'm delighted with the

keys to the game was the job Dale Dillon did on their guard (Wayne Burris). Dale really bottled him up, and when he came out, Donnie Martin went in and did a job."

Burris, who averaged 17.5 points a game last season, missed six of eight shots against the 49ers and had only four points and no assists.

Ruffen was the game's leading scorer with 16, followed by Butler's John Dunn (14) and the 49ers' McMillian (13).

Birds' boss rejects D.C. proposal

The chairman of the board of the Baltimore Orioles said in an interview published today that he rejects a proposal from major league baseball for the Orioles to play some of their home games in Washington D.C.

In an interview with the Baltimore Sun, Jerold C. Hoffberger said the Orioles should be given permanent major league rights to the Baltimore-Washington D.C. area before the club agrees to play any games in the nation's capital. "There's no need to develop fans when another club is liable to come and get the benefit of our labors," said Hoffberger, while admitting that the idea of a perma-nent, exclusive Beltimore-Washington proposal might be attractive.

"I did believe that something of this type could create a solid franchise," he said. "It would take away the threat of having another Oakland-San Francisco situation. Neither is worth tiddly-twit.'

A PERFECT MATCHUP: IRISH (4-0)—UCLA (3-0)

By GARY RAUSCH

When UCLA and Notre Dame meet on the basketball court, the shockwayes are usually felt on the Richter Scale.

It's quake time in Pauley Pavilion again today as the Bruins (3-0) and Fighting Irish (4-0) match perfect records. As usual, the contest is a sellout—has been for months— but KTLA (5) will televise the hysterics at 1 o'clock.

Notre Dame ducks nobody and December is a busy month. The Irish, who already own an 80-79 decision over Maryland on the road, host Indiana Tuesday and travel to Louisville to battle Kentucky in three weeks.

DIGGER Phelps would be breathing a lot easier these days if Adrian Dantley, Bill Laimbeer and Bernard Rencher were in South

Dantley, the nation's fourth leading scorer (28.6) as a junior and an Olympic gold medalist, opted for the professional ranks while Laimbeer and Rencher, both freshmen, were academic casualties.
Phelps remains optimistic.

"Our goal remains the same the NCAA tournament." he says. Only Notre Dame and UCLA have been in the NCAA regionals each of the past three years. Obviously our task is more difficult.

"Dantley might have been player of the year and Laimbeer had the potential to be as good as any center in the country. Digger makes do with a front line of 6-9 junior Dave Batton (10point average), 6-6 senior Bill Paterno (9.8) and 6-8 sophomore Bruce Flowers (12.2).

The starting guards are 6-3 junior Duck Williams (17) and 6-1 sen-ior Ray Martin (8.3). UCLA coach Gene Bartow won't be surprised to see freshman Rich Branning of Huntington Beach's Marina High in

Through four games the 6-3 prep, all-America has averaged 12 points while leading the club in free throw accuracy (.823) and assists (17). He's also among the leaders from the floor (.607).

ANOTHER man the Bruins are wary of is 6-8 senior forward Tohy Knight, Notre Dame's second leading scorer (12.5) and No. 1 rebounder (9.5).

The Irish have not won in Pauley Pavilion-their closest decision a pair of 13-point defeats-in nine

"This is a big one for both teams," says Bartow. "It certainly has to rate as one of the premier intersectional rivalries in the country-and you know a victory in this

Arizona selects Mason

Tony Mason, 46-year-old head football coach at the University of Cincinnati. was chosen for a similar post at Arizona Friday.

Mason arrived in Tucson with Arizona athletic director Dave Strack and was interviewed by the university's coach selection committee: Mason succeeds Jim Young, who resigned Sunday to become head coach at Purdue.

Mason coached Cincinnati to a 9-2 record in the past season and was 25-18 in four years at the Ohio school.

After concentrating on UCLA defensive coordinator Dick Tomey and Arizona aide John Mackovic for most of the week, Arizona officials made the surprise move to Mason Thursday, when Strack flew to Cincinnati to interview him.

The two returned to Tucson and within hours Mason was chosen the head coach. Coincidently, Arizona interviewed Mason for the coaching job more than four years ago when Young (31-13) was Strack said Monday he wanted to have a new coach by the weekend, but when neither Tomey nor Mackovic-the only other candidates the school said it interviewed-were picked immedidately, it appeared that goal would not be reached. Strack went to Ohio after two meetings with Arizona president John Schaefer failed to result in a decision.

last hope — Feller By WILL GRIMSLEY

and today.'

Thirty years ago players saw danger signs in baseball's restrictive reserve clause and tried to warn owners about the possible conse-quences, Bobby Feller remembers. "They wouldn't listen," the Hall of Fame fireball pitcher of the Cleveland Indians said this week at the winter baseball meetings. "They just stuffed another sandwich in their mouths and told us, 'Go ahead and tend to the balls and bats, we'll handle the business and'."

we'll handle the business end.' "Now the garbage has hit the fan. Baseball is in real trouble. If salaries continue on the present scale I'm afraid half the clubs won't be able to make it. "THE ONLY salvation 1 can see is closed circuit television. It could hale them out. You know, go to your hotel room, pay three bucks and dial for a game. You have to compete with Holly-

Feller's comments came in the wake of a doomsday warning by Charles O. Finley, beleaguered owner of the Oakland A's who goes to court next week in Chicago to seek redress for loss of the guts of his once-championship team. Charlie O. puts a price tag of $9 million on the players he lost in the free agency

ing the game. "The handwriting is on the wall," Finley said. "The day of reckoning is at hand. It's not tomorrow. It's yesterday Feller, now 57, a botel executive headquartered in Cleveland, said the players had similar qualms back in the 1930s and early 1940s preceding World "t was a player representative at the time." he recalled. "We went to the owners and asked for a relaxation of the reserve clause. All we wanted were a few concessions. "I EVEN went to Washington and appeared before a congressional committee. It made no difference. The owners thought they could go on with their slave rules forever. They felt that they were

"Now the courts have cut the lines which tied a player to a club for life. The action came quicker than the owners expected. They weren't in a position to absorb the impact. So what happens? They're stuck with long term, million-dollar contracts that actually are out of "The pendulum has swung too far. They don't deserve what they are getting now but they asked for it. They should

A Zure Request faces quick competition in SoCal debut

A Zure Request, who has earned more than $100,000 this year as a 3-year-old, makes his Southern California debut this afternoon in the featured Santa Monica Purse at Los Alamitos Race Course against six other speedsters, including Southern Gentlemen.

That duo, both invited to the prestigious $75,000 Champion of Champions in eight days, will be facing Five Chics, Jet Mine, Ed Dee, Eta Copy and Dr. Twiehaus in the 400-yard dash.

Total Freight and Table Hopper will vie for favoritism in tonight's featured Avalon Invitational Pace at Hollywood Park. Shelly Goudreau, having his finest season in the West, will drive Total Freight, who comes off a 11's-mile victory over Bo Bo Baron and The Champ. That was the seventh win of the 1976 campaign for the 6-year-old son of Tar Heel. Jim Dennis handles

Table Hopper, a 4-year-old son of Bret Hanover who won nine of 11 last year. Table Hopper turned back the good pacing mare Sweet Attraction in his last start and prior to that beat Skip With Joy by a length. On the year Table Hopper has won six times and finished in the money in 16 of his 25 starts. Bo Bo Baron, second to Total Freight last week, has the rail with Larry Gregory. A five-time win ner this season, Bo Bo Baron has been a winner Hollywood Park.

By BILL BRAUCHER

MIAMI-Since 1968, a year after Bud Grant became head coach, the Minnesota Vikings have won eight of the nine titles available in pro football's Siberian Division.

They have yet to win a Super Bowl. Their history of post-season frustration, unmatched even by the Dallas Cowboys in their years of almosts, makes the National Conference Central a suspect group. If the Vikings can so dominate the Central and keep coming up empty, how bad are the Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions?

The Vikings are not demonstrative men, but rather a colony unto themselves, silent as Minnesota winters and reflecting the class of their quiet coach. But even-tual defeat mags them as it deprives them of winners'

"Oh yeah, tell us about it. Tell us about last year," said Doug Sutherland, with sarcasm but without malice. At 28, Sutherland is the kid on an otherwise familiar front four of Alan Page, 31, Carl Eller, 34, and Jim Sutherland has fewer playoff horror-stories to tell. T've only been to the Super Bowl twice, when we got beat by Miami and Pittsburgh, but I've been there enough to know what it's like.

We're tabbed as losers who can't win the big one, and it's hard to take. Last year's game was hard to live with, especially if you live in Bloomington, as I do," Sutherland said.

Last year the Cowboys pulled another liturgical coup. Roger Staubach called it a "Hail Mary" pass, and observers agreed it was the supernatural equivalent of the "Immaculate Reception," the deflected pass Pitts-burgh's Franco Harris snatched in stride to beat Oak-

Staubach's miracle occurred with 24 seconds to play and the Vikings in front, 14-10. With the line of scrimmage at midfield, Staubach unloaded a playground job toward the general direction of Drew Pearson and a gang of Vikings in the end zone: Pearson caught the ball and the Vikings were cursed again.

"Pearson pushed Nate Wright to the ground," Sutherland said. "He went down like he was shot, but there was no flag."

There was a bottle instead. It flew from the stands seconds later, after the shock had eased and Minnesota fans began to digest the significance of what had happened to them this time. The bottle skulled Armen Terzian, the field judge.

Wow, I saw the thing coming. I was standing right near him. Nailed him right between the eyes," Suther-

He added, for the record, that he disapproved of such tactics, while admitting he thought a form of justice was served at the time.

Sutherland is among those cherub-faced characters with the disposition of linebackers whom the NFL seems to attract. He may be the best but the least recognized of the Purple People Eaters, as someone once labeled them in a fit of banality. He would prefer to beat the Miami Dolphins today because winning is better. But the home-field playoff site that would accompany a Minnesota victory does not excite him

The Vikings can clinch a home site with a victory. The Rams would get one if the Vikings stumble and they defeat Detroit tonight.

There might be a psychological advantage, but I don't think anybody really wants to play there. It's just that teams who come in hate it worse than we do," Sutherland said of dingy Metropolitan Stadium

"We're not the highest paid team by any means, because of that stadium (cap. 48,000 to 51,000-odd, depending on standees willing to suffer). How can they pay you if you don't put any people in the place?

"It's an old baseball stadium. There's not a good seat in the house for football, the sidelines are way off from the stands. The people in Minnesota deserve some-

That said, Sutherland made it clear he likes Bloomington as a city and the Vikings as a team. At least they feed the hungry. He came to the Vikings five years ago from a New Orleans training camp in which the inmates staged a hunger strike.

"It was in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, the end of the world. Most of the time we atc in a local pizza parlor, the cafeteria food was so had I was delighted to get the hell out of there. I'd been in the New Orleans camp three weeks and was half worn out when I got to Minnesota's camp, which always opens late and was just starting"

The Vikings annually feature a sybaritic spread for morale purposes early on the training schedule. When Sutherland checked in he found tables laden with roast; suckling pig, turkey, ham, pheasant, duck and so on. He was theirs.

IN ANOTHER pivotal NFL game today, the steam-rolling Pittsburgh Steelers can clinch a playoff position by defeating the Oilers at Houston.

Terry Bradshaw returns at quarterback for Pittsburgh as the Steelers seek their ninth win in a row aftera horrendous 1-4 start when they were written off as moribund by nearly everybody, with the possible exception of Chuck Noll.

"We'd look pretty foolish if Oakland beat Cincinnati and then we lose to Houston," said the Pittsburgh coach. "All that we've worked for would go down the drain."

The Steelers have been working so hard that they've permitted a mere 28 points in those eight successive victories, four of them shutouts.

But Oiler coach Bum Phillips insists his team won't :be pushovers.

township of Bloomfield Hills, near the spot where Jimmy Hoffa was last seen in 1975. Better they have stayed indoors.

Since arriving from California Thursday evening they have had time to reflect on the strange season that finds them champions of the NFC West for the fourth year in a row.

Coach Chuck Knox says, "I think this team has reacted in a tremendous manner to all the disconcerting factors that have happened to us, going back to the O.J. Simpson thing . . . Joe Namath . . even (Jim) Plunkett was in "All things considered, this team has really hung

Knox also mentioned PRO-

the quarterback problem that plagued him most of the season-seven changes in 10 games until Pat Haden stepped in for good five games ago.

Knox is not outwardly concerned about entering the playoffs with a rookie at the controls.

"If everybody else does his job, he can function. At this point, it should not be a handicap. Pat Haden is getting better every week.

"We're getting better over-all. Our young offen-sive linemen—Doug France and Dennis Harrah-are getting better. Our kicking games have improved. Our defense has really started to solidify itself lately.

It's a gratifying feeling for Knox. If his team hadn't come together just in time, it could have been left out in the cold.

Tourney title to St. Anthony

By KEN PIVERNETZ Staff Writer

All the good things that were supposed to happen to St. Anthony High's baskethall team this season are starting to come true.

The Saints, with four-starters in double figures, defeated Katella, 81-74. Friday night to win the championship of the cighth Lakewood Varsity Tournament.
It was difficult to determine who was happier after it was all over - the Saint players or rookie head coach Tony Marques, who not only had to replace veteran coach Jack Errion but take over a team that had four starters returning from a co-Angelus League title squad

Those veterans — Lance Dietrich, Jim Donnelly, Tony Spanier and Ralph Esposito - led the way Friday.

Dietrich had 23 points Spanier and Donnelly 19 and Esposito 14 to account for all but six of the team's points.

TA near-capacity crowd Lakewood watched three excellent games. ...Jordan nipped Lakewood, ...75-73, on a tip-in by Ed Davis with one second remaining to win third place, while Downey rallied in the fourth quarter to be at Paramount, 62-57: and take the consola-Tión title.

St. Anthony, whose only loss in five games was a six-point setback to defending CIF champion Poly, started strong, then finished with a flurry to beat Katella, which has been a perennial Orange County power under Tom : Danley

With Esposito and Donnelly controlling the back-boards, the Saints jumped eff to a 16-4 lead.

Katella rallied to trail by only two at half, 34-32, and the teams were still only two points apart at 64-62 with 3:08 remaining.

But whereas in the past the Saints might have been content to sit on the ball, this time they turned it on. Donnelly provided the impetus with a threepoint play, and the Saints outscored the Knights 17-12 in a wild final three inimutes

Katella lost its best player in forward Chuck Greene (15 points) on fouls for the third time in the tournament, but center Ray Donnelly took up much of the slack, scoring 22 points to lead the Knights

Lakewood and Jordan matched up even better in a game that saw the lead change hands 21 times before Davis, a 6-4 reserve, tipped in a missed shot by Dwayne Campbell that had hit the rim.

Lakewood, which had a four-point lead entering the fourth quarter, had tied the score at 71 on Craig Dykema's 18-footer at the seven-second mark.

Dykema, who again led the Lancers in scoring with 21 points, had hit one of two free throws at 2:16 to give Lakewood at 71-68 lead. But the Lancers seemed surprised when Jordan suddenly switched to a 1-2-2 zone and went scoreless for more than two minutes to enable the Panthers to claw back.

Moby Oliver led Jordan with 15 points. Coach Bob Cook got good efforts out of his bench, espeially Davis and Bill Gasper, who had 14 points.

Downey trailed Paramount, 43-37, after three quarters, then scored 25 points the final eight minutes as forward Herb Harper got hot and put in five baskets to finish with 20 points.

POLY TOPS BUENA AGAIN; LYNWOOD ROUTED, 75-58

Poly, which defeated Buena, 68-50 in March for the 4-A championship, turned the trick again with a 45-33 victory in the semifinals of the Beverly Hills Tournament Friday night to advance to the finals against Ventura nudged Inglewood, 54-46, in the other semifinal game and will meet the Jackrabbits at 8:30. Manuel Johnson came off the bench to score 13 points and grab 15 rebounds for the Jackrabbits. Dino Gregory and Johnnson each tossed in four points in the final period when Poly outscored Buena, 16-10.

Buena slowed the contest with a passing game and Poly used a delay offense in the final period. The Hares connected on five-of-six field goals in the fourth quarter, Jack Tuz scored 31 points, including 15 in the decisive second quarter, to lead Corona del Mar to a 7558 win over Lynwood in the finals of the MarinaWestminster tournament at Marina High.

Tuz, a 6-5 forward, hit 14-of-19 shots from the field and three-of-three free throws. He didn't miss a shot in the second half.

His tough defense also held Lynwood scoring star Tom Freeman to three field goals and three free throws. Tuz and teammate center Alex Black, who scored 26 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, shared the most valuable player award for the tournament. Corona del Mar, under former St. Anthony coach

Tyren Naulls of Lynwood (5-2) led all scorers with 33 points, including 17 in the final period.

Non-starter Leland Bruce scored 19 points as Marina downed Westminster, 59-58, in the third-place game of the same tournament. in the game for seventh place, Millikan ripped El

It's Fontana at wire, 14-7

By Dennis Brosterhous

SAN BERNARDINO -Dell Cannady fired a pass to Ron Carter, who in turn lateraled to Mike Fox for a 28-yard touchdown play with 22 seconds remaining to give Fontana a 14-7 victory over Westminster High before an estimated 10,000 fans at Orange Show Stadium Friday night in CIF 4-A semifinal

It was the second week in succession that Fontana had scored the winning touchdown with 22 seconds remaining. The Steelers were presented the opportunity when Carter intercepted a Westminster pass on the Lions' 31 with 55 seconds to play.

The constest was filled with missed opportunities and turnovers. Twice Fon-tana drove inside the Westminster 15-yard line only to lose the ball on fumbles. Meanwhile, Westminster had a chance to take the lead late in the game when the Lions drove to the Fontana eight with four minutes to play. However, Carter recovered a fumble to stop the threat.

Westminster scored first early in the second quarter after recovering a Steeler fumble on the Fontana 15. Duane Gerardi capped a six-play drive with a one-yard run for the lone Lion score.

Fontana fought back to tie the score 28 seconds before halftime. The Steelers marched 83 yards in eight plays, aided by a 44-yard bomb from Cannady to Carter. Gary Tate powered in from the six to powered in from the six to make it 7-7.

DEMEANED BY COACH, INDIANA CAGER QUITS

A spokesman for Knight said that Miday, a promising 6-foot-8 freshman forward from Canton, Ohio, quit because he thought he made the wrong choice of schools and was uncertain whether to re-'main a student.

However, the campus news-paper. The Indiana Daily Student. "quoted Miday as saying there was 'a conflict with the coach.

Miday said he admired Knight's knowledge of basketball, "but I couldn't stand the way he treated me as a human being.

"I felt that as a player on the NCAA champions that I deserved better than to be treated as an object and demeaned in public...

Miday said he was especially upset by things Knight said to him in the locker room.

"Maybe the things he said he just meant then, but I couldn't ac-cept that." Miday said. "I really wanted to play for the guy....When you are recruited, you don't see him in a tense situation...he just goes bananas."

Miday conceded he had some academic problems but said, "I lost my concentration and it affeeted my studies...I couldn't see four years of this."

Canada Olympic facilities 'herd of white elephants'

MONTREAL (AP) — The $800-million Olympic stadium is "a white elephant" that will be a source of permanent debt to Quebec taxpayers, says Claude Char-ron, minister responsible for the Olympic

"The facilities will always be in deficit," he told a news conference Friday. "The stadium is a white elephant, and if you throw in the velodrome and swim ming pool, I'd have to say I'm in charge of a herd of white elephants.'

Charron, who is also minister responsible for sports, youth and leisure, was particularly critical of the management of the Montreal Expos baseball team.

Earlier this week he vetoed a pro-

the Olympic Installations Board (OIB), the government body responsible for Olympic facilities, for lease of the 72,000 seat stadium during the 1977 baseball season

Asked about a National League ruling Thursday permitting the Expos to play 1977 games elsewhere if the stadium was not available, Charron said team executives had "a moral debt to Montreal fans."

"I don't know of any city in North America which would have supported a rotten team like the Expos the way Montrealers did in 1976," he said. The Expos had the poorest record in major league baseball last season.

Yanks' protest overruled, Spain World Cup leader

PALM SPRINGS—Spain, benefitting from an overruled protest by the United States, swept into the team lead Friday in the second round of the World Cup international golf tournament.

Americans Dave Stockton and Jerry Pate called a rule infraction on the Spanish team—their playing partners—but were overruled

The Spanish team of Seve Ballesteros and Manuel Pinero had a 142 total, the only team even par after two rounds at 288. Both missed the sixth green and were in the rough only inches apart.

Pinero marked his position and re-moved the ball to enable Ballesteros to play. Pinero, however, handed the bail to his caddy and "the caddy had a towel in his hand and the ball was in the towel, Pate said. Cleaning of a ball under such a condition is prohibited by the rules and involves a two-stroke penalty.

The infraction was brought to the attention of official Robert Dwyer, who conferred with the Spaniards. Pinero told him the ball had not been cleaned and Dwyer ruled no infraction had occurred Pate said he was not bothered by the ruling, but he bogeyed the next three

The defending champion United States, first-round leader Scotland and Japan were tied for second at 291.

Ali not retiring after all; he's got $2.5 million divorce to fight

LOUISVILLE (AP)-World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali said flatly Friday that he is not retiring, that he will fight on, and that he'll never tell anyone again that's he's quitting. "When I retire, I will just retire." Ali

Two days ago, Ali conceded, he told reporters that he was stepping down and that he'd never fight again. But since then, something happened that changed

"I'm" not quitting." he said. "One reason is my wife is suing me, and the settlement with my wife is for $2 million and more. Two million dollars cash is a lot of money," he said. "I've got to pay her two million cash dollars. If I didn't have that I could forget about fighting.'

Since his latest retirement announcement, Ali said, he has learned of the settlement terms with his wife and "cer tain things I cannot disclose.

"We just settled with my wife. The divorce isn't final yet. It will be on the basis of the agreement, $114,000 bouse, a $60,000 Rolls Royce, a $400,000 building and $2 million cash," he said. "That's why I have to fight. If I fight, I pay her back in one night." back in one night.

West Virginia prep favoring USC as recruiting war gets feverish

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)-Does the warm climate of sunny Southern California appeal to a high school football star from West Virginia?

It apparently does if you're Robert Alexander, the South Charleston, W.Va., High School senior who's been voted the nation's outstanding prep running back , by Parade Magazine

The most heavily recruited West Virginia athlete since basketball star Rod Thorn was declared "a natural resource" in the early 1960s, Alexander said he was told he's the only high school running back the Trojans are recruiting.

"I went out to Southern Cal over the Thanksgiving break and I was really impressed," said the 6-1, 180-pounder, his pressed," said the 6-1, 180-pounder, his state's all-time leading scorer and rusher. "I had figured before I went out there that the big city, the bright lights and the climate would impress me. But what really impressed me was the way Southern Cal handled me.

Alexander, who ran for more than 5.500 yards and scored nearly 600 points in three seasons, said he has cut his list of school to 10.

"I'm interested in Southern Cal, West Virginia. Tennessee, Pitt. Michigan and Penn State, to name a few. I've still got two more visits to make, so I'm not close yet to making a decision."

STREAKING KINGS HOST TO BUFFALO

Perplexed over winning only one of their last 15 games, the Kings play the Buffalo Sabres tonight in a National Hockey League match starting at 8:05 on the Forum ice. A crowd of 12,000 is expected to break away from watching the Rams on TV.
"We're fortunate that we're still in second place after the way we've played for over a month," coach Bob Pullord said Friday.

Currently two games under .500 and in danger of losing second place in the Norris Division, the Kings encounter a revitalized Sabre team which was bolstered with the return of Danny Gare this week.

Sidelined most of the season by a back injury, Gare scored two goals in his first game. A year ago Gare registered 50 goals.

In their previous meeting this season. Buffalo handed the Kings a disappointing 4-3 loss when Gil Perreault connected in the final 32 seconds.

GARDENING

Aster frikarti a perennial arty

By JOE LITTLEFIELD Some sun loving perennials (plants that bloom annually) are hardier than others.

Aster frikarti with blue daisy-like flowers bloom throughout the summer season. The plant grows to two feet and is a good plant for the perennial flower garden, or as anchor plants in an annual flower bed. Tulbaghia violacea, Society Garlic, is sometimes called the "phew" plant due to the strong onion-garlic smell which the leafage produces. The foliage can be chopped fine and added to a salad, or take the place of chives or parsley for baked potatoes with sour cream.

The 18-inch (or larger) plant clumps furnish tall spikes of flower heads of star shape lavender color flowers from May through October. We've seen a hedge of them edging a driveway in San Fernando Valley, standing the hot dry summer season, as well as heavy winds, and winter cold.

A stranger rang our door bell one day and asked an unusual question while pointing to the tulbaghia. "Do you think this plant would bloom if planted over a grave in the cemetery?"

It nonplussed us temporarily

We recommended this plant as a good hardy one for such a purpose, even though it requires frequent waterings during the summer.

This unusual experience proves a point we've maintained for a long time,"plant some flowers in the front yard to share with the neighbors, and the passers by." Bearded Iris are an old garden favorite. Iris breeders have developed many repeat bloomers type of iris that flower twice a year, and some even several times a year. Some of the iris varieties have delightful fragrant Saxifraga-Bergenia cordifolia is considered a shade plant, yet tolerates full sun in the inland sectors, except near a heat reflected driveway or wall.

The water-lily-like leaves are noticeable even though they're growing in front of large thick foliage massed strubs. The saucer shape pink blossoms burgeon forth early in the year, and continue flowering for several months.

The unusual thing about this plant is its ease of propagation. Gardeners can simply cut one of the branch sections into the hardier stem growth, and remove all but three or four of the young leaves, then plant it in the ground.

The plant hole first must be filled with water, the cutting planted after the water has disappeared into the ing this provides deeper moisture in the soil with less likelihood of it dying.

The ideal time to root those plants is in the spring. They can be rooted nearly the year round if started in the shade garden.

Day lilies too, whether deciduous (leafless in winter), or evergreen, provide lots of lily-like blossoms in bright and softer tones of yellow, orange, bronze, and almost a dark red, as well as nearly a pinkish tone. Several varieties provide fragrance too.

The mum that blossoms twice a year or more, is Primavera, a pompom type, and somewhat of a low grower. The bright yellow flowers are cut off well down into the branchy growth, when through blooming, Gar-deners should feed them a balanced plant food, water them as if they hadn't bloomed yet. Gradually new growth develops, and new flower buds burgeon forth.

Keep the roots of the tree moist. If the tree is growing in a container, this simplifies watering; if the root ball is contained in burlap, set this in a can or tub which will catch the drainage. It's also a good idea to fill in the gaps between the container and the root ball with soil, peat or sphagnum moss to keep the root ball from drying out.

Keep the treeas cool as possible to keep it from coming out of dormancy and going into shock. Avoid placing it near fireplace or heat outlets. If the room is kept very cool it may be possible to enjoy the tree indoors for ten to 14 days, but the California Association

Plant a peperomia for houseplant success

If you're new at indoor gardening, peperomias may be the way to cultivate your green thumb. They're easy to grow, make interesting and decorative bouseplants and come in a variety of shapes and colors.

Native to Central

America and Brazil, peperomias are members of the pepper family — piperaceae. Although there are some 500 varieties, about a dozen have become favorites for successful indoor gardening.

A fairly small plant. peperomias usually grow no taller than 12 inches. They prefer warm tem-peratures (60-75 degrees). plenty of moisture and fil-tered sunlight to grow light.

Commonly-grown peperomias prefer the same soil mix so it's easy to plant two or three different types at one time. Use equal parts of packaged soil, sand and peat moss with a bit of charcoal to "sweeten" the soil. The plants have very small root systems so keep planters small too.

The easiest to grow peperomias include the enterald ripple — or peperomia caperata - which is identified by its heartshaped, pleated, emeraldgreen leaves. A low grower, this plant sends up interesting spikes often described as white rat-

The peperomia obtusifolia comes in two varieties

— one with variegated foliage of light cream and gray-green, the other with solid green leaves. Both have round, thick, fleshy leaves and make a dense, attractive pot plant.

The watermeton pepero mia or sandersii has leaves that look similar to the skin of some watermelons. Leaves are heartshaped with silvery coloring and dark green The novice gardener will want to set up a regu-lar weekly or monthly routine for plant care, including pinching off wilting or withering leaves and pinching back new growth. Turn a quarter-turn every week or two so the plant will grow symmetrically. and remember to give plants a refreshing dip under running water now

Miniature garden tools are often useful such as a trowel or spade to aerate the soil and a watering can with a long thin spout. A plant mister which can be made from a spray bot-tle is also helpful. Growing healthy plants can be easy if you follow a few simple rules and add a little tender, loving care.

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Life rolls on in about the same grooves most of this year, but provides plenty of chance to perfect personal skills, put your judgment into practice. You exercise your free will mainty by your choices of response rather than by taking direct action. Relationships require much serious thought. Today's natives are pleasant, orderly, logical. Those born this year have a propensity toward all things metaphysical, will be conscious of influences other people shrug off or merely let slip by.

Aries (March 21-April 19):

Aries (March 21-April 19): Welcome a quiet Sunday. With the heliday season coming along, you've plenty of plans to make. Look over lists, allof budgets. Check on health for endurance.

Tagrus (April 20-May 20): Establish communications with your neglected self. Re-call bygone events. By quietly reevaluating current relation-ships, you come to terms with reality.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Today's surface is slow, nohing special goes on outwardly. For a change, you are free lo reorient inwardly, find you've changed your mind on subtle issues.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your main problem is lack of anything serious or urgent-you're on your own to make decisions. Small talk runs in cycles, has a message of emo-tional support.

Leu (July 23-Aug. 22): It seldom happens: the easy way out is the best today. Look about, be thankful for existing benefits. List what to do to get on faster with your progress. Virgo (Aug. 23-Sepf. 22): Push yourself to do essential maintenance chores. Serious study is a natural daytime program, social gatherings are successful toniefit.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): With no big story to focus on, people zero in on trivial details, piek out flaws and discrepancies. Keep your sense of humor intact.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The lough pressures of the past week are over, so let up abruptly and give yourself a breather. Repay social calls.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make full use of this calm before the onset of the holiday rush. Clarity your position. Adventures are the beginning of important developments.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Finer points are clarified. Slorles brought up to date are comforting. Evening provides apportunity to explore a variety of social contacts.

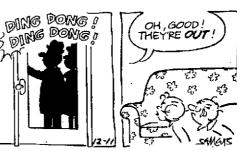

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Pcb. 18): Step aside from material concerns. Get to know people better and compare experiences. Conversation with a stranger gives you much to talk and laugh about.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): If you can, take the day off cors.

S.F. drug doctor is fined $30,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A San Francisco physi-cian was fined $30,000 Friday, and sentenced to five years' probation, on 20 counts of illegally sell-ing prescriptions for controlled substances.

U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti told Dr. Irving Davis, 68, that had he been practicing any place else but San Francisco's Tenderloin District, "where most of the residents are drug ad-dicts and winos," he would have sent him to jail.

The judge denied motions for a new trial and for acquittal. Davis could have drawn a maximum of five years and $15,000 fine on each count. He was accused of selling prescriptions for Seconal, Tuinal and Ritalin, all controlled substances

scrip."
He commented that, though reports to probation officers lauded the doctor for being compassionate. Davis also was 'materialistic.'

The judge said the physician was worth at least a half-million dollars, owning among other things a home and 20 acres of land in Mariposa County, interest in two medical buildings and interest in a shopping cen-

The government had urged a fine of $100,000 be imposed but made no suggestion as to a possible iail term.

Judge Conti told Davis he could have been sentenced a total of 100 years and warned that if terms of probation were violated Judge Conti noted that he would not hestitate to send him to jail.

4 held for pandering in 'slave auction' case

Four persons who staged a Hollywood "slave auction" last April were ordered Friday to stand trial on pandering charges.

The defendants said they held the "auction" to raise money for the homosexual community But Los Angeles Municipal Court Judge Richard M. Moore said participants planned "sexual acts of sodomy, oral copulation and .masturbation" and did so for gain, financial or sexual.

That, said Moore, is pandering, and he ordered the defendants to stand trial. They are Vallott Martinelli, 36, of Holly-wood; Jeanne Barney, 37, of La Crescenta; John Embry, 48, of Hollywood and Dougias Holliday, 32, of Los Angeles.

The four were ordered to appear Dec. 24 for arraignment.

The auction was sponsered by a group called the "Leather Fraternity," and promised bidders they could do whatever they wished with their purchased "slaves" for 24 hours. Police infiltrated the affair and purchased a "slave" of their own, resulting in the arrests.

schools, starting Jan. I.
In deciding what should be included in the inspections, the board heard from school officials and bus company operators, who said three or four areas would require mechanies and would cost as much as $20 million state-

THE AREAS are: belts and hoses, tank-mounting brackets, brake adjustments and hydraulic brake fluid leaks. The inspection rules cover doors. lights, gauges and similar equipment.

"At least the last three cannot be done by the driver or would impose local costs by taking buses out of service," said Dr. Michael Kirst, chairman of the board committee involved and also one of Brown's education advisors. He said opinions dif-fered on whether bus drivers could be trained to inspect belts and hoses without cost. The board scheduled a hearing next month to decide whether to add belt and hose inspection to the mandatory weekly check list.

Girls sue store on age bias

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)

— Two high school students filed an age discrimination lawsuit Friday claiming they were barred from a supermarket solely because they were under 18.

Youth Law Center said the San Francisco County Superior Court suit by Tina Encarnacao, 14, and Lisa Foo, 13, contends a security guard prevented them from entering a Lucky store at 1100 Eddy St. on Oct. 15.

The suit says the guard informed them store policy prohibited them from entering unless accompanied by a parent or responsible adult.

THE ACTION claims the store has a policy against the admission of persons under 18 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., an apparent effort at cutting down on shoplifting by

Lucky corporate offi-cers were unavailable for comment.

But the assistant manager, Jim Hennessey, said the store only bars large groups of minors who regularly cause trouble and has no policy barring all minors during specific hours.

The suit claims the alleged policy is arbitrary and irrational because it excludes many honest young people while not af-fecting adults who may be shoplifters or otherwise undesirable.

The suit seeks punitive damages of $250 each for the girls and prohibition of such practices throughout the Lucky chain.

By SUSAN SWARD

SACRAMENTO (AP) = Dow Chemical Co. asked the state Friday for the right to store water from the Sacramento River at its proposed plant site in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta.

At a Water Resources Control Board hearing, Dow said its $500 million plant would store a maximum of 1,700 acre feet of water a year in a dam in dry hills next to the river.

Dow, which has the right to take water from the river already because its property borders on the river, needs the board's approval to store water to be used in chemical processing.

JOHN BRYSON, the board chairman, said the board would take the testimony under submission and study it along with testimony from a fiveagency, two-day hearing on the plant earlier this

To build the plant, Dow must win this permit and numerous others from federal, state and local agencies.
The San Francisco Bay

Area Pollution Control District's rejection of the plant is being appealed, but, if it stands, that alone will block the plant's construction. To date, Gov. Brown has declined to take a position on the plant, which is supported by business and labor interests and opposed by environmentalists.

Dow's application says its maximum diversion from the river would be about 8,500 gallons per minute.

Dow would discharge river water too impure for the plant's uses at an average rate of 1,300 gallons per minute. The state governs how salty that discharge can be.

In dry years, Dow offi-cials said they might build more ponds at the site, 40 miles south of here, and release their higher salt content water when the river was higher.

When the board asked what Dow would do when there were two extremely dry years back to back. Dow officials said they had to use river water to run the plant.

THEY SAID they divert the most water during the wettest months when the river flow was highest, Dec. 1 to March 31. But they resisted suggestions of further precise controls on their water diversion and discharge.

Dr. A.A. Gunkler told Bryson: "We're not trying to be stuoborn." But he said such suggestions were adding more "'what ifs' than I can tolerate, I

Bryson told Dow that state diversions of water into the delta to combat its salinity were already controversial in the Central Vailey and Southern Cali-

He added in an interview later that the board would consider possible control language to make sure Dow's diversion-discharge plant would be the most efficient possible.

PG&E bill refusal seen 'life, death'

- The decision of four cities to boycott outstanding Pacific Gas & Electric bills totaling $1.3 million was a "matter of life and death," one mayor said Friday.

PG&E has threatened to turn off their power if the bills are not paid, but spokesmen for the utility and the communities said they hope to avoid any blackouts.

Alameda, Lodi, Healdsburg and Lompoe — which buy electricity wholesale and resell it to about 60,-000 customers — are protesting a PG&E price increase that took effect Oct. 26. They say the increase forces their customers to pay almost double what PG&E charges its retail custom-

A fifth city, Ukiah, has paid its current bill, but plans to refuse to pay its November bill if the dispute has not been re-

"We were just being forced out of business," said Lodi Mayor Richard Hughes, calling the boycott a question of survival.

The cities, all members of the Northern California Power Agency, have taken their dispute to the Federal Power Commis-sion, which regulates wholesale rates and approved the PG&E in-

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) crease. Hughes said the cities plan to appeal the FPC's ruling in federal courts.

In a letter to the four cities Thursday, PG&E said it will sue for breach of contract to recover the amount due, plus seven per cent increase.
The letters threatened

power blackouts if the bills are not paid. "If you persist in your refusal to pay for the service we are rendering, we will con-sider ourselves free to institute proceedings be-fore the FPC for termina-tion of service," PG&E

A PG&E spokesman said Friday the possibility of blackouts was remote, and that the company was searching for an alternative settlement.

"The problem is with the city, not with individual customers. The city officials got them into this pickle," the spokesman

William Lewis, Lodi's director of utilities, said the city was likely to stop its protest short of imposed power outages. He said a special meeting was planned to consider alter-

One would be for the cities to pay a portion of the bill, and deposit the rest in an escrow bank account, until the dispute is resolved.
